Loan Company

Nothing Definite Yet

No definite word has been received about the establishing of a loan company here.

Foster D. Finch, Zebulon attorney who is working diligently with other town officials to get a branch of First Federal Savings and Loan of Raleigh for this area, said he is expecting to receive some word some time within the next few weeks.

Work on the project began last spring and only recently a group of Zebulon businessmen went to Washington, D. C., to present their case before the Federal Home Loan Board.

Finch reported that the transcript of the case in Washington has been received by First Federal officials and is being studied by this group.

The only protest against the Raleigh loan company establishing a branch here came from Wendell Building and Loan Association. This protest was in the form of a letter. No Wendell Building and Loan officials were at the Washington meeting.

Finch and J. B. Bilisoly, one of the attorneys for the Wendell Building and Loan Association, reported that Wendell loan company wanted in no way to antagonize the people of Zebulon.

Bilisoly further told Finch that the officials of the Wendell loan company were at first under the impression that the Raleigh loan company was the interested party in establishing a branch office here. He said he later learned that it was the Zebulon people who were interested and made the petition to the Raleigh company.

Finch said Bilisoly said no active opposition will be taken by Wendell Building and Loan Association and expressed hope that Zebulon would be able to secure the branch of the loan firm.

Finch said he was pleased to learn from Attorney Bilisoly that there is no ill feeling between the citizens of Zebulon and Wendell over the try for securing a loan office here.

He further added that he is glad a harmonious feeling is existing between the two towns.

HOLIDAYS

The regular Thursday issue of The Record will be published Monday and mailed Tuesday of next week so that the advertisers may have two days prior to the holidays. The advertising deadline for that issue will be Friday, November 20.

Theo. Davis Sons employees will enjoy Thursday and Friday of next week as holidays.

Mrs. Edwin Richardson Is Recovering From Auto Mishap

Mrs. Edwin Richardson is convalescing from a recent automobile accident at her home on West Sycamore Street.

Mrs. Richardson suffered a fractured nose, both knees and chest injuries Friday, October 30, when she ran into a tree on Wake-lon School campus. She was driving a 1953 Buick.

She reported she took some homemade candy to the school for the Halloween Carnival. Coming around the curved campus drive, the candy resting on the seat began to slip. She reached down to hold it, and drove into a tree between the lunchroom and the old elementary building.

She received first aid from Dr. B. D. Thomas. Later she went to Dr. Durward Stallings, Jr., her physician, where she passed out on

Rev. Charles Howard Is Revival Speaker

The Rev. Charles B. Howard will be the guest speaker in revival services at the Pearce Baptist Church November 23 through 29, according to the pastor, the Rev. Garland L. Foushee.

The music will be under the direction of Graham Nahouse, director of music at the Pearce Church. Services will begin each evening at 7:30 with special groups meeting for prayer 15 minutes before the regular service.

The nursery will be open each evening that all parents with small children may be able to attend each night.

Visitors are welcome to attend the meetings.

Finch Sells Gin; Owner Moves It

A long-time Rich Square cotton merchant who bought ginning equipment here has decided to move back to his home town.

M. P. Cooke, who bought the Wakelon Gin Company's ginning machinery around the first of the year, began moving the equipment to Rich Square this week.

It is understood that Cooke was not ginning the cotton he had expected and decided to pull up stakes. Reports are that the new owner ginned only about 100 bales this season.

The equipment was sold to Cooke by Foster D. Finch for an undisclosed amount.

Cooke owns a gin in Rich Square and one in the little town of Milwaukee, near Rich Square, according to Finch.

Methodists Planning New Parsonage

This picture of Zebulon Methodist parsonage was made circa 1912. The parsonage, built in 1909-10, is to be replaced with a new $20,000 structure. The first minister to occupy this parsonage was the Rev. G. B. Perry. The Rev. W. K. Quick, present minister, and his family now occupy it. It is on church property on Church Street.

Plans for a new Methodist parsonage for Zebulon are being formulated.

M. J. Sexton, chairman of the Board of Trustees, reported that the Board approved the building of a new parsonage at a November 2 meeting. When it was presented to the Quarterly Conference, it was given unanimous approval.

Sexton said it will be presented to the church for approval on November 29. It is expected to receive full approval at this meeting.

The new structure will fall into

Methodist Youth Rally Sun. Afternoon

The Raleigh District Methodist Youth Fellowship will have its annual fall rally on Sunday from 4-8 at the Fairmont Methodist Church. Around 400-500 youth are expected for the rally and the Methodist Youth of the Senior Fellowship at the Zebulon Methodist Church will be among those attending. The intermediate group will meet at the church at its usual hour 6:00 p.m.

Buildings Being Made Ready For Offices

The 112 Arendell Avenue building belonging to F. D. Finch is being remodeled for the owner's law offices and the offices of expected loan company coming here.

Finch, prominent Zebulon attorney, said he expects to move into his new offices about the first of December. His offices are presently at 229 West Vance Street.

On the upper floor of the building will be three offices used for attorneys, a law library, secretary's office, rest room, and lobby.

The law offices are finished in walnut and cherry paneling. Philippine mahogany paneling is used in the library, lobby and secretary's office.

The building has heating and air conditioning equipment installed.

The downstairs office area measures 25 by 50 feet. This area is to be used for the loan company. In the back is a storage area of 25 by 25 feet.

The building is complete except for the downstairs front. Finch is waiting for word from the loan company whose architect is to design the entrance way.

New Hope Church Barbecue Supper

Members of New Hope Christian Church are sponsoring a barbecue and Brunswick stew supper Friday night, November 20. This family style supper will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Harris School cafeteria. Plates will sell for $1.25.

New Record Keeping Used In City Gov't; Mayor Says It's Fine

Mayor Ed Hales has embarked on a new system of city record keeping.

This system, which gives a comparative detailed report of each month's receipts and disbursements, was adopted by the mayor after study with the League of Municipalities and the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

The reports, given to each commissioner, gives in detail receipts and disbursements for the month, year to date, and last year to date, with the year's budget set for each item.

Mayor Hales feels that this is helpful and useful in adjudging just how the monies are being collected, spent, and the comparison noted for the preceding year.

The mayor admitted that a closer check can be kept on the city's financial set-up, where the 'most revenue is collected, and how collections are tallying toward the budget of the items.

Mayor Hales said he is pleased with the majority of the items figures. Collections for this year on the majority of the listed items are well over last year's figures.

Third Grade Teacher Is Girls' Basketball Coach

A popular young third grade Wakelon teacher has accepted the position as the school's girls' basketball coach for the 1959-60 season.

Miss Phyllis Coley signed the contract October 1. She will be paid a supplement for her coaching duties, but the amount was not revealed.

Miss Coley said she is very pleased with the cooperation of the girls so far. She said they have shown the most cooperation possible.

Thirty-three high school girls are working out each week under their new mentor for the season which will begin December 1.

This is Miss Coley's first coaching position. She was a star basketball player in both high school and college, and loves the sport.

The first team will be selected next week, according to the coach.

Wakelon girls meet Wake Forest as their first opponent at Wake Forest.
