Peggie Greene Chosen 'Miss Zebulon'

Is 21-Year-Old Junior At ACC

A pretty brunette curly haired college student was named "Miss Zebulon of 1960" Friday night.

Peggie Nell Greene, 21-year-old Junior at Atlantic Christian College, broke into tears of joy when she was selected in the beauty pageant sponsored by Zebulon Lions Club.

"I can't believe it is true. I'm so excited," she cried.

This is the first beauty contest Miss Greene has ever entered, and because of her being named winner she will represent Zebulon in the "Miss Wake County beauty pageant at Fuquay Springs May 20.

Miss Greene, who possesses one of the most personable personalities anywhere, has a radiant heart-shaped face framed with black curly hair worn short, wide set brown eyes with sparkling highlights, and measurements of bust, 36; waist, 25½; hips, 38; height, 5-10; and weight, 133.

She is a music education major at Atlantic Christian, and plans to teach following her graduation. If she doesn't like teaching, which she thinks she will, she might give the night clubs a try.

"I love to sing and I believe I would like to have a try at night club singing," she said. "This would also give me a chance to do some dramatics."

No, she has no aspiration for the Metropolitan Opera.

Miss Greene is quite domestic. In the kitchen she can put together anything and it comes out something French chefs would oo-la-la about. Her specialty, she says, is spaghetti. Yes, she adds all sorts of extra garnishes, something here, something there.

She doesn't sew, doesn't like to, in fact. "But I do hem," she laughed, her laughter running the scales.

She considers her hobbies water skiing, music and swimming. Many weeks during the summer she spends at her father's cottage on

Adjutant General Tells Rotarians They Have Tremendous Impact

Major General Capus M. Waynick, Adjutant General of North Carolina, told Rotarians meeting here last Wednesday that Rotary has a "tremendous effect" on the business life of the world.

The Adjutant General spoke to a luncheon of Rotarians gathered here from clubs in District 771. The luncheon was held in the National Guard Armory.

He urged business men to take an interest in politics and to become interested in the political welfare of our country.

He added that he feels we are slipping in the ethical standards of business. He was fearful of the rising crime and delinquency rates in our nation today, and said until we build stronger youths our nation will not reach its potential.

He was also concerned that we as citizens are losing our sense of nationalism and our Puritan sense of virtues.

Rotarians were also cautioned by the General not to lose their sense of human values, to always be humanitarians in a world faced with fear, greed and misunderstanding.

General Waynick has had an unusually broad experience in public affairs, having served as a daily newspaper editor, legislator, N. C. Director of Purchase and Contract, State Highway Commission Chairman, head of the Democratic Party in this state, United States Ambassador both to Nicaragua and to Colombia, and finally as head of the National Guard.

The Assembly was held for presidents-elect and secretaries-elect of District 771. Zebulon Rotary Club was host to the club's first district-wide gathering.

Guardsmen Get High Scores On Range

Battery A, Zebulon's National Guard unit, completed its marksmanship training with the M-1 rifle and automatic pistol during the weekend of April 9-10. The local Guardsmen fired one of the highest scores they have ever made on the Camp Butner rifle ranges.

The weekend of small arms work completes another pre-camp training phase, for the artillerymen who will spend two weeks in June at Ft. Bragg.

Using their own vehicles, Battery A moved to Camp Butner on Saturday and returned to Zebulon Sunday afternoon.

Firing proceeded smoothly and all men had fired shortly before dinner Sunday, according to CWO Johnsey P. Arnold.

Four members of the Battery A mess section earned Expert ratings with the M-1 rifle as a result of the weekend firing. Heading the list was Sp4 Grady L. Driver, whose 191 score was best in the entire 1st Battalion, 113th Field Artillery.

Close behind Sp4 Driver were the mess steward, SFC George R. Massey, Jr., 185; Sp4 Billy F. Alford, 182; and Sp5 Wilbur H. Massey, 179.

The mess section, which has state-wide recognition for its excellent food, now is noted for its accuracy with the rifle, say the men in Battery A.

Other top-notch firers in the Zebulon unit were PFC Clyde W. Boykin, second in the entire bat-

Sanford Has Breakfast, Then Visits Town On Campaign

TERRY

BETSY

Gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford swept into Zebulon early Saturday morning for handshaking, visiting the town and county folks, and plugging his campaign.

Genial and personable Sanford, along with his caravan of supporters and daughter, Betsy, was welcomed at Hilliard's Restaurant for a breakfast of country ham, sausage, scrambled eggs, grits, sliced tomato, jelly, hot rolls and coffee.

J. Raleigh Alford, local campaign chairman, greeted the supporters of the candidate and called on Mayor Ed Hales for a statement. Hales welcomed Sanford to Zebulon and offered his personal support in behalf of his candidacy.

Among dignitaries of the town present were Attorney Ferd Davis, Attorney Foster Finch, Commissioner Thurman Hepler, Editor Barrie Davis, the Rev. William K. Quick, Methodist Minister, Mrs. Frederick Chamblee, committee woman for Sanford of Little River Township, Banker R. D. Massey and Mrs. Massey, and O. C. Freeman, principal of Corinth-Holders School and Mrs. Freeman.

Sanford spoke briefly to the group and touched on his "crusade for education." He sought the group's active support in behalf of his educational program. Following the breakfast the cavalcade rode into Zebulon where Sanford was taken through the business district, shaking hands and chatting with the townsfolk.

From Zebulon, Sanford and the caravan swung through Wendell, and then Rolesville on his day-long tour of the county.
