Break-In

Thieves Raid Gas Station

Thieves broke into Paul V. Brantley Service Station No. 1 on the corner of West Vance and Wakefield Streets sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, according to Chief of Police Willie B. Hopkins.

Missing were two 38 caliber pistols and $51.22 in cash.

Hopkins said the thieves gained entry into the service station by tearing off a screen on a back window, breaking a pane of glass in the window and then raising it.

Nothing else was missing except the pistols and cash.

Part of the money was taken from the cash register, manager Clarence Maiden said. Four hundred pennies were in the wooden drawer with the pistols. Another 130 pennies were in the cash register but these were not taken.

Maiden discovered the losses when he came to work Monday morning at seven o'clock. The station closed Saturday night about 10 o'clock.

Officers said at present there are no leads, but they have a couple of suspects in mind.

A fingerprint expert was called in. No prints of fingers were found. The expert suspected the thieves wore gloves. Foot prints were taken, however, it was learned.

Sheriff's Deputy S. J. Blackley and Policeman L. A. Baker investigated.

ALA Meets With Mrs. M. G. Crowder

Mrs. M. G. Crowder was hostess to the American Legion Auxiliary last Friday night in her trailer home on East Lee Street. Each member present was asked to bring two gifts to this meeting to be sent to the VA Hospital Gift Shop which will open December 7 at Durham.

As well as contributing to the Durham Veteran's Hospital Gift Shop the Legion Auxiliary will contribute to the hospitals at Salisbury, Oteen, and Fayetteville, Mrs. Gilford Bufkin said.

The opening date of December 7 of the Gift Shop has been assigned to the Zebulon unit, Mrs. Bufkin said, and any one interested in going—whether he or she is an Auxiliary or Legion member or not—is asked to contact any member of the Legion or Auxiliary.

"We can assure you a trip you will enjoy and at the same time you can be rendering your service to a very worthwhile cause," Mrs. Bufkin said.

Zebulon jail is clean as a pin, according to Police Chief Willie B. Hopkins.

"It's spic and span," Chief Hopkins said.

The local calaboose came in for a blow recently when the Wake County Grand Jury said it was unsanitary.

"I don't see how they (the Grand Jury) happened to catch my jail dirty," Chief Hopkins said.

"In the past 10 years my jail has been inspected by Grand Juries, State inspectors, and others and these bodies have never found anything wrong."

Hopkins said he admits when the Wake County Grand Jury recently visited the local jail there were cigarette butts on the floor and the floor was dirtier than usual.

"But we had a rough weekend," the genial chief said.

He vehemently declared there was nothing unsanitary found when the GJ came. All the toilet facilities were working and in good shape.

But you should see the accommodations now. Floors immaculate, walls and ceilings washed-down, clean sweet-smelling linens on the box springs.

"It's fit for a king," Chief Hopkins said. "It's spic and span."

Ending one of the most intensive campaigns on both national and state levels, voters went to the polls Tuesday and elected a Democratic President of the United States and Governor of North Carolina.

Little River Township (Zebulon) cast the biggest vote of four precincts in Wake County. It went Democratic for both President and Governor.

Seldom, if ever, in the past 50 years has an election been so hard fought on either the national or state level.

Interest in the presidential and gubernatorial campaigns ran high locally during the past months.

Voters came out in record numbers in Zebulon Tuesday, officials said. As early as 7:30 in the morning almost 100 persons had cast ballots.

Presidential candidate John F. Kennedy and gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford held the lead here all during the two candidates' campaigns.

Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon and Republican gubernatorial candidate Robert Gavin did not make any great inroads locally.

Police Chief Willie B. Hopkins said no incidents took place at the Zebulon polls Tuesday. He said everything was in "very good order and people conducted themselves very well."

Registrar Wade H. Privette could not reveal how many new registrations there were for this election. He also was not able to reveal how many persons are registered here.

Discussion On Community Woman's Club Has Panel

Twenty-eight senior club members and guests enjoyed a most interesting program November 1 on community affairs. The devotional meditation, led by Mrs. M. J. Sexton, emphasized God's command of making good use of our blessings.

Mrs. Fred Page, who was chairman of the program, introduced members of a panel who discussed what Zebulon has done and is doing to make this a better community in which to live.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ellett, town commissioner, spoke on the progress of our town and its future. Future plans include housing and building developments as well as many ideas toward beautification. Club members were delighted to see aerial photos of the town and learn of the work done in community planning.

Welfare services available and used by our town were discussed by Mrs. Ulysses Johnson, Wake County social worker. Mrs. Johnson explained many of the services such as foster homes, adoption rules, and training schools. Many of our civic clubs have projects that originate in the Welfare department, and churches, she said, also have projects concerning many of their cases.

Mrs. George Henry Temple was the speaker for community health, explaining physical health in the home and school. She gave health rules that serve as a guide for safe and healthy home conditions. Mrs. Temple, a registered nurse, discussed physical, mental and social health in our community.

Wakelon High School librarian, Mrs. Raymond Pippin, told of library facilities available in Zebulon. The town is fortunate to have a community library, she said, located in the club house. This library is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The library is open Monday and Friday afternoons with Mrs. Gilford Bufkin serving as librarian.

Coffee, sandwiches and cookies were served during the social hour by Mrs. John Kemp and Mrs. M. B. Chamblee.
