

National Guardsmen In Army Exercise

Some 135 Tarheel National Guardsmen of the 30th (Old Hickory) Infantry Division will be among more than 5,000 military personnel participating in a mammoth U. S. Army exercise to be held at Fort Gordon, Ga., April 15 and 16.

Two two-day command post exercise — dubbed LUCKY FOX-TROT — will be directed by Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the Third U. S. Army.

LUCKY FOX-TROT is the fifth in a series of exercises conducted by Third Army for training headquarters and staff units, ranging in size from a field army down to combat and support units.

The 30th Infantry Division contingent, led by Maj. Gen. Edward F. Griffin of Louisburg, will be among Army personnel from seven southeastern states taking part in the exercise.

Also participating will be U. S. Air Force units which will be used to add maximum realism to the staff play.

Third Army officials have stressed that the exercise is not based on any existing war plans. It is a map problem dealing with atomic, missile, electronic and gas warfare principles, and based on simulated enemy activities. Information for the map problem will come from controllers, umpires playing the parts of higher and lower headquarters.

Also taking part in the exercise will be the 252nd Air Defense Group, a National Guard artillery command with headquarters in Wilmington. Commanding officer is Lt. Col. William A. Cobb of Wrightsville Beach.

National Guardsmen from the 30th Infantry Division who are scheduled to attend include Major Barrie Davis of Zebulon and Sp4 William E. Willis of Knightdale.

By Barbara Perry

The Rev. Garland A. Hendricks, professor at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, will be guest minister for revival services at Pilot Baptist Church April 3-9. The services will begin each evening at 7:30 with the Sunday morning worship service at 11:00.

Mr. Hendricks is present professor of Church-Community Development and Director of Field Work at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Special cottage prayer meetings have been held this week in preparation for Mr. Hendrick's visit.
