

Wakelon Teacher Retiring After 28 Years of Service

Mrs. Marguerite Jones, who has taught third grade at Wakelon School for the past 11 years, retires at the end of the present school term.

"I just want to do some of the things I've always wanted to do and never had a chance to do," Mrs. Jones, a veteran of 28 years in the class room, said.

She indicated that she plans to do a lot of flower gardening. She loves flowers.

"My years have been pleasant in the class room," she said. "I have loved working with children and their parents. But I don't have any regrets about retiring. I feel that I have given my best and I don't want to become a hanger-on."

Mrs. Jones is the wife of Ray Jones. The couple reside in Wakefield.

First Month's Operation Of Hospital 'Satisfactory'

Frank Ceruzzi, branch administrator of Wendell-Zebulon Hospital, said recently that citizens of this area have made the first month's operations of the hospital "most satisfactory."

Ceruzzi said figures for the daily load haven't been compiled but the need for hospital facilities in this area is apparent due to the fact that the daily patient load has increased each week and the use of the facilities in the hospital likewise.

One hundred eighty-seven used the private out-patient lab and x-ray facilities during the first month's operation.

The administrator said the financial future of the hospital looks bright because of the wonderful support the community-at-large has given the hospital.

Wendell and Zebulon physicians were lauded by the young administrator, saying they have used the hospital facilities to the fullest extent.

To aid in the success of the local unit, patients here have the additional assurance if and when needed of a tie-in with Wake Memorial Hospital. Ceruzzi pointed out that the local unit is a branch of Memorial and as such has received
