Louisburg College Celebrates 175th Anniversary This Week

Residents of Zebulon and the five-county area the Zebulon community serves have been issued a special invitation to the 175th Anniversary Observance of Louisburg College January 4-7.

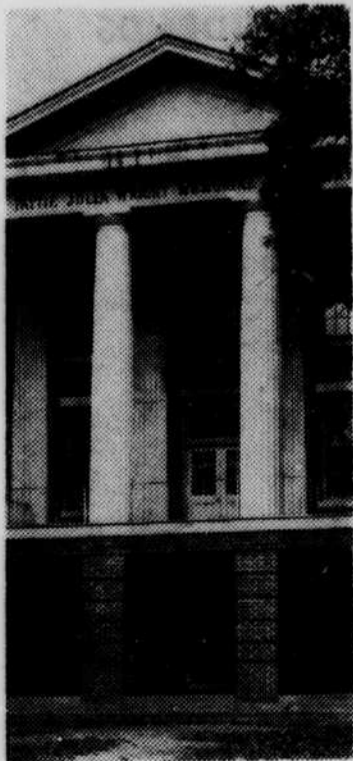

There are a large number of alumni of the Methodist College from this area.

All Anniversary events open to the public are free and features an outstanding Baptist Layman and Presidential Assistant, a Methodist Bishop, and world-famed balladeer and guitarist, William Clauson.

The Hon. Brooks Hays, former Arkansas congressman and now special assistant to President Kennedy, will speak Thursday night (tonight) at 8 o'clock in the college auditorium. Hays will be introduced by Sen. B. Everett Jordan, North Carolina's senior senator.

Bishop Paul N. Garber of Richmond, Va. will officially open the Auditorium - Classroom Building on Saturday morning, January 6, at 10 o'clock. Bishop Garber will also preside over the cornerstone laying of the new dormitory for men, now under construction. The new $325,000 dorm is the first to be built at Louisburg since 1926.

William Clauson, world-renowned guitarist-balladeer and called by Carl Sandburg as "The Viking of Song," will be presented in concert on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The concert, open to the public, WRIGHT DORMITORY. The Pattie Julia Wright Dormitory for women was built in 1926.

FRANKLIN ACADEMY BUILDING. Built in 1806, this building still stands, and is a historical landmark of Louisburg College.

will be a cultural highlight of the year.

Other featured speakers during the week will be Dr. Clarence Bass of St. Paul, Minn., and Dr. Daniel McFarland, head of the history department of Atlantic Christian College. Both are graduates of Louisburg and are natives of Franklin County.

Saturday, January 6, will be Founders' Day and will also honor the college's benefactors and alumni.

Alumni will gather for a luncheon at 1 p.m. on Saturday and Dr. D. E. Earnhardt, a former president, will speak.

Louisburg College, chartered in 1787 by the N. C. Legislature as Franklin Academy, is the oldest school in America operating as a Junior College. Related to the Methodist Church, it has an enrollment of 552 from 13 states. The college property is valued at $2,500,000.

The Rev. William K. Quick, Zebulon minister, is a member of the 175th Anniversary Celebration Committee.

During the four-day celebration, the college art department will offer three exhibitions. Twenty-five large oils of North Carolina artists, a comprehensive exhibit of Southern artists, and an exhibit of Currier and Ives prints will be on display daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building.

FIRST SNOW

The Zebulon area experienced its first snow of the winter New Year's Day. The snow, mixed with sleet and rain, began late in the afternoon. During the early part of the night the snow stopped, but Tuesday morning there was a thin covering of ice on the ground and remains of snow in shaded places.

Paul Dew To Talk To Farm Bureau

Assistant County Agent Paul Dew will be the guest speaker before the Zebulon Farm Bureau at the January 8 meeting, according to Raymond Pippin, Bureau president. Other county officials also will speak at the meeting to be held at the Wakelon Ag Building.

All members of the Farm Bureau are urged to attend and guests are invited.

Holidays in Zebulon Quiet, Chief Reports

Christmas and New Year's holidays were very quiet.

Police Chief W. B. Hopkins reported that there were "only a few public drunks."

No breakins, shootings, or other accidents were reported.

Hopkins did report a minor auto accident just outside the city limits. He said this was just a slight bump up with no damages incurred.

"We didn't even have to make any calls to help settle any marital differences," Hopkins said.

There were two fire calls during the holidays. One was a grass fire and the other to an auto that was thought burning. Neither was of any consequence, the chief said.

Hopkins said there were fireworks being shot in and about town, but no accidents were reported and no arrests made.

Hopkins said he is "very happy" to have had such a pleasant holiday season. "Everything was very nice, just the way we wanted it, and just the way it should be."

Legion District Commander To Speak Tuesday Night

American Legion District Commander Frank Wood of Raleigh will be the guest speaker Tuesday night, January 9, at 7 o'clock before the Zebulon Legionnaires. The meeting will be held at Daniel's Restaurant.

Zebulon Soldier Takes Part in Army Cold Weather Training Maneuvers

Army Pfc. James E. Honeycutt, son of Mrs. Lois L. Honeycutt, Route 1, Zebulon, recently participated in Exercise Trailbreak, a 12-day winter training maneuver at Camp Drum, N. Y. During the first ten days, Honeycutt and approximately 1,400 other paratroopers of the 82d Airborne Division's 325th Infantry from Fort Bragg, N. C., took part in acclimatization and cold weather training. During a simulated combat situation the paratroopers repelled "aggressor" forces and seized road and communications networks. The exercise exemplified the Strategic Army Corps' ability to go anywhere, anytime, and land ready to fight. Honeycutt, a mortar gunner in Company D of the infantry, entered the Army in September, 1960, and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C. The 19-year-old soldier attended Wakelon High School.
