Raleigh Woman Is Awarded Honors in Pattern Contest

One of the highlights of the year of the Senior Woman's Club of Zebulon was the fashion show held here Saturday.

Two Raleigh women were declared winners of the Vogue dress-making contest. These winners will compete in the State finals held in Greensboro April 4.

Mrs. R. A. McCrary, winner in the senior division, modeled a high fashioned fully lined black wool two-piece dress. The garment could serve double duty by being that of a suit. The double-breasted jacket buttoned to the left with two bound button holes and buttons to correspond with a third on the suit. The jacket fronts had two diagonal tucks on each side, with seams which formed a panel.

The skirt had a left side pleat from the waist, ending abruptly at the knee, with a bound button hole and matching button. Two zippers were used for the back seams which also formed a panel corresponding with the jacket panel.

As a suit, a black and white paisley tie silk blouse was worn. The under sleeves of the blouse were gusseted and the corded neckline lent grace to the fitted blouse.

She wore black patent leather pumps and carried a black patent bag. Her hat was a white rough straw trimmed with black velvet band and black organza rose with velvet leaves. Her hands were attired with white three-quarter length gloves.

Mrs. McCrary, who lives at 2801 Wade Ave., is a brownette, 5-5, and weighs 130. She represented the Raleigh Woman's Club, where she is active, and where she was declared a winner.

Virginia Minister Named to Conduct Methodist Church Revival Services

An outstanding young Virginia minister will be guest speaker at the revival services that open Sunday night at the Zebulon Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. H. Hasbrouck Hughes, Jr., of Stanleytown, Virginia, will serve as visiting evangelist for the special services. The Rev. Mr. Hughes organized the Walmsley Boulevard Methodist Church in Richmond and prior to his present pastorate served the Mount Olivet Methodist Church in Danville, Va. He is married and the father of three children.

A classmate of the Rev. Bill Quick, the visiting speaker is a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Va., and the Duke University Divinity School. His

Consolidated School Site to Be Discussed at Meeting Tonight

TOWN MAY SAVE MONEY!

Bond Negotiations Set

Zebulon may save thousands of dollars in interest payments through further preliminary bond negotiations, Mayor T. E. Hales said this week in explaining a delay in calling a bond election.

Last week Mayor Hales, Town Manager W. B. Hopkins, and Town Attorney Ferd Davis held a conference with W. E. Easterling of the Local Government Commission in Raleigh, and were advised to hold up on a local bond election until the policies of the Housing & Home Finance Agency, federal lending entity, could be firmed up.

Mr. Easterling further suggested the possibility of issuing more bonds than necessary for the open bond market in order to pay interest charges during the construction period. He suggested that the town might find this financial arrangement less burdensome so far as carrying on normal services is concerned.

By waiting for H&HA action, the local government may obtain interest rates as low as three and five-eighths per cent as opposed to up to five per cent on the regular bond market.

The local Junior Chamber of Commerce has adopted as its first major project voter education as to the nature of the bond needs, and will begin its work upon the Local Government Commission's approval of municipal bond plans, according to Jaycee President Jimmy Medlin.

Wakelon Patrons Urged to Attend

An important meeting of all persons in the Wakelon School district interested in educational progress will be held tonight (Thursday) in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m.

The purpose of this meeting is for allowing the Wake County Board of Education to hear opinions of Wakelon School district citizens about the site of a proposed east Wake County consolidated high school.

Many of the Zebulon school patrons feel strongly in favor of the Sanford Pearce site located on the Wendell-Zebulon by-pass. There is already an option on this site.

"We are not contented for the school to be located just anywhere," one of the citizens said.

A considerable number of persons have voiced that they are agreeable to consolidation if the school is located in the Lizard Lick area. They feel such a school could serve the areas involved well.

One citizen said: "We hope the Board will give very, very earnest consideration to the Sanford Pearce site as being the one that will require the least sacrifice to the community than any other site now known of."

Any decision to locate a consolidated school appears to rest in the lap of the State Highway Commission.

According to a State survey read by Wake Superintendent Fred Smith at a consolidated school hearing last Thursday night before approximately 150 Wendell school patrons, a site was proposed in the Hephzibah Church area north of Highway 64, depending on (Continued on Page 8)

Union Service

As the Methodist Church begins a series of revival meetings this Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m., the congregation of the Baptist Church will join them for this first service. The Methodists will in turn meet with the Baptists in May for the Baptist revival.

Bulldogs Downed, 69-48, By Warrenton Quintet

By Bill Quick

The Wakelon Bulldogs, sporting a 16-6 record and spoilers in the District Three tourney, fell before the onslaught of Warrenton's John Graham High last Friday night 69-48. The hapless Bulldogs, Wake County Class A champs, were never in the game after pulling to within two points, 15-13 in the second quarter. From that point in the first half, Warrenton scored twelve points while holding the Bulldogs scoreless.

Playing without the services of playmaker Tommy Wood, who was suffering from stiff neck muscles, the Bulldogs scored only 13 points in the first half. Wood was inserted for about a minute prior to the half's end. He was used sparingly during the second half. The Bulldogs' shooting was their poorest of the season and only in the final quarter, against the substitutes, did they display their scoring efficiency. In the fourth stanza, the Bulldogs scored more points than in the first three quarters.

Thurston Debnam was high scorer for the game with a total of 16 points. Debnam was the only Bulldog to score in double figures. The Warrenton attack was paced by Chocky White and Billy Benson with 14 points apiece. Herman Rucker and Gordan Haihcox were offensive standouts in the second half and hit for 13 and 11 points respectively. Mitchener, a sub, was the fifth Warrenton player to hit in double digits with 10 points.

Wakelon a Surprise

Wakelon, according to most observers, was the surprise of the tourney. The Bulldogs earned the right for the District III tourney competition as Wake County champ. They defeated Woodland High and the Meadow High School from Johnston County. The semifinal round, many had hoped, would be with Middlesex but the Royals were ousted by Warrenton in the quarterfinal round. Local observers had thought that Wakelon would take the best of Middlesex in a repeat game and the Warrenton victory may have psychologically defeated the Bulldogs.

The Wakelon games were carried by the radio stations in Zebulon, Rocky Mount and Henderson, and the press and radio commentators agreed that Wakelon had been the tournament surprise. It was the first time in a number of years that a Wakelon team had advanced so far in the State Tournament, District competition. Coach Maurice Chapman has thus in three years rebuilt Wakelon into power in the Class A ranks.

Wendell Civic and Business Leader Files for Commissioner Nomination

TOM BAILEY
... candidate

D. T. "Tom" Bailey, business man and civic leader of Wendell and Wake County, filed in Raleigh last week for the office of county commissioner. Bailey is seeking the post vacated by veteran Commissioner Carey Robertson of Knightdale who has announced that he will not seek re-election.

Bailey is a qualified candidate for the post through education and business experiences. He has served church, fraternal and civic life of his community for many years.

Upon graduation from Hugh Morson High School in Raleigh, he attended North Carolina State College, majoring in engineering.

He came to The Bank of Wendell as a clerk, subsequently rising to serve as assistant cashier until he resigned to aid in the formula- (Continued on Page 8)
