Wendell's Oldest Literary Club Has Thirty-Fifth Birthday

It was an evening of reminiscing when the Wendell Wednesday Afternoon Club celebrated its 35th anniversary Friday, June 22.

During the pleasant evening the members talked about their first meeting long, long ago. They talked about when their children were toddlers, the marriages that have taken place over the years, and, of course, the grandchildren.

The club, Wendell's oldest literary organization, is an outgrowth of the matrons gathering at a local drug store in the afternoons. They would sit around talking, and finally they decided to organize a club and pursue literary and cultural aspects.

Mrs. Tom Allen encouraged the then-young mothers and even gave them access to her home. There the meetings began, with the guiding hand of Mrs. Allen.

The programs have been presented with quality. The once-a-month meetings always produced something for the members' betterment. Only recently they have finished a study of famous persons.

One member commented that "something must have rubbed off on us" when the cultural aspect was mentioned.

Mrs. B. C. Satterfield was the group's first president when the band of 20 organized in September of 1926. Mrs. Melvin Britt will serve as next year's president, succeeding Mrs. W. R. Nowell.

Asked the ages of the members, one person chimed: "Just put we are a middle-age group."

The club has lost but two of its charter members. Death has claimed Mrs. Haywood Swanson and Mrs. Joe Wootton. Charter members were Mrs. Otha Mullen, Mrs. R. R. Thompson, Mrs. W. C. Land, Mrs. W. C. Faison, Mrs. J. W. Dean, Mrs. W. R. Nowell, Miss Marjorie Richardson, Mrs. B. C. Satterfield, Mrs. J. Thomas Allen, Mrs. Douglas Bain, Mrs. Marie Liles, Mrs. Reid Key, Mrs. James Ward, Mrs. Norwood Harris, Mrs. Bob Young, Mrs. L. C. Ledford, Mrs. Silas Todd, and Miss Nora Davis.

The present membership includes Mrs. G. P. Conoley, Mrs. Wayne Cooke, Sr., Mrs. Graham Dean, Mrs. J. W. Dean, Mrs. W. C. Faison, Mrs. J. J. Henderson, Mrs. J. D. Hobgood, Mrs. Kelly Hunter, Mrs. Miley Johnson, Mrs. Marie Liles, Mrs. E. V. O'Neal, Mrs. Pearl Wall, Mrs. W. R. Nowell, Mrs. Haywood Biggs, Mrs. Melvin Britt, Miss Marjorie Richardson, Mrs. L.

325 Pound Man, His Dog Are Rescued After Accident

His weight was enough to sink the boat even if it hadn't leaked. But with a weight of 325 pounds and a leaky boat it wasn't long before the boat sank and William P. Murphy found himself sinking with it.

Murphy and his black cocker spaniel dog were together two weeks ago on the farm pond of Clifton Perry in Pearce community. Murphy, a former Pearce resident, was fishing.

Suddenly the boat sank and Murphy and dog went with it. The dog clambered atop the capsized boat and Murphy clung to it with one hand and to his snuff box with the other.

William Smith saw the hapless fisherman and hurried to J. W. Perry, Jr.'s Store for help. Perry, who runs a fishing tackle shop, grabbed an arm load of life saving rings and went to help the two water-soaked victims.

The life preservers were thrown to Murphy, but they didn't help. The 68-year-old couldn't swim, and his weight was too much to be supported by the preservers.

A rope was tossed out to him, and a group of bystanders pulled in the boat, the dog, and a dripping Murphy.

He still clung to his snuff box. He said he wanted to keep that from getting wet.

Murphy admitted he was so interested in pulling in the bream he didn't realize he was sinking. But next time you can be sure he will find a boat that doesn't leak.
