Zebulon CP&L Is Expanding

Carolina Power & Light Company here will double its electrical output this month, according to F. T. Scarborough, branch manager.

On August 26 three 5,000 KVA transformers will replace the three old 2,500 KVA transformers, Scarborough said. The substation is located on West Barbee Street.

Scarborough said more room for the facilities is needed and the company asked the local Planning and Zoning Board to re-zone the present site. The board agreed to the request at the August Town Board meeting.

The manager was not able to report just how much more property is needed for the expansion. He also was not able to report the size of the present property. The property for the expansion of the substation is to be purchased from C. E. Duke. Scarborough was not able to report the cost of the property to be secured from Duke.

The 2,500 KVA transformers are the original ones installed when the substation was established here. With the installation of the 5,000 KVA transformers, Scarborough said better service will be available to electric users in this area.

Mouth-to-Mouth Breathing Used By Wendell Youth to Save Life

A Wendell youth is credited with saving the life of an Adel, Ga., youth last week.

Jim Dale, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dale of Wendell, administered mouth-to-mouth breathing to restore life to the 17-year-old Adel boy.

Felton Folsom was struck by lightning Monday afternoon as he worked in the Adel Warehouse. Folsom had just placed a metal buggy of tobacco on the scales for weighing when the lightning came through the roof, down a steel rod and along the electrical cord to the scales. The youth apparently had a hand on the metal hand of the buggy.

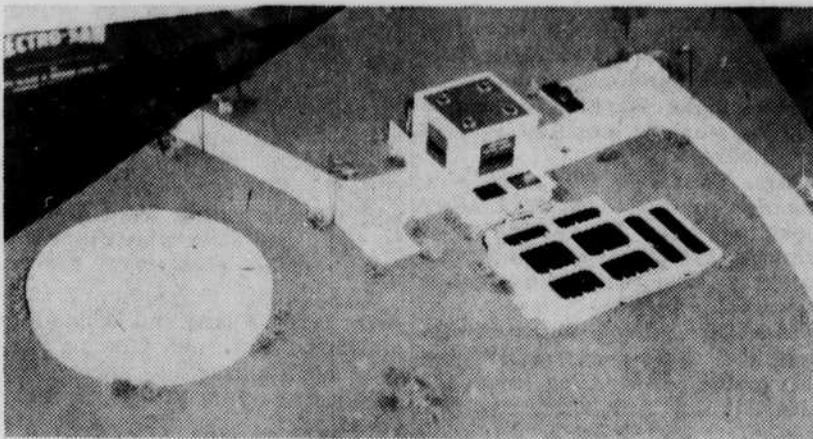

Folsom was knocked to the floor and there was no sign of life in his body. Several workers in the warehouse tried to revive him but to no avail. Then Dale used mouth-to-mouth breathing and Folsom came to.

The youth was taken to the hospital and treated for shock and minor burns.

Dale, 20, will be a sophomore at the University of North Carolina in the fall. He learned the newest method of resuscitation when he became a student at the University.

Dale's father is a prominent Wendell tobacconist.

Scale model of proposed filter plant

Condemnation Suit Is Now Pending

A condemnation suit is pending in Wake County Superior Court for proerty on which the Town of Zebulon wishes to construct a modern water supply system for the town.

The proposed water plant was to be on property to be purchased from Wilbur Bullock. The site is located on the Wendell-Zebulon bypass.

Police Say White Lightning Tossed, But Suspected Tosser Not Found

The pint of white lightning was hurled across into the woods when the wreck occurred. And the tosser left the scene of the accident and hasn't been seen since.

The wreck that sent two persons to Wake Memorial Hospital Sunday afternoon occurred at the intersection of Whitley Street and Highway 264, according to investigating officers Wendell Perry and L. A. Baker.

Weldon Pace, Jr., of Glenburnie, Md., was charged with failing to yield the right of way after the accident. The 1956 Cadillac he was driving was hit in the right side by Edward B. Jordon of Wilson, who was driving a 1961 Valiant.

Jordon and his wife, Elizabeth, were sent to Wake Memorial Hospital for possible injuries.

Officers said both cars were a total loss.

Katerinia Bland, who was said to be the owner of the car Pace was driving, was said by Perry and Baker to have thrown the white lightning from the car. She later left the scene and could not be found.

The demolished yellow-colored Cadillac is parked silently at Zebulon police station.
