Personals

It's always a pleasure to show off a corsage. And Mrs. J. W. Strickland is no different from any other woman. She didn't refrain a bit from showing off her corsage given by her children on her seventieth birthday. It was made of seven $10 bills, and was it ever more pretty attached to her shoulder.

Surprises are surprises are surprises. But Margaret and Judd Robertson got the surprise of their lives during Christmas. They learned they were going to be grandparents for the seventh time. News came from Okmulgee, Okla., that daughter Jean (Mrs. John Lambert) was expecting. The grandson arrived on the 29th. It is the third child for John and Jean. They already had a son and daughter.

Mrs. Helen Wall Massey is at her home suffering from an illness. She was stricken before Christmas and will have to take it easy for a while before resuming her job with Carolina Power & Light Co. here.

Capt. and Mrs. S. G. Flowers and son Tommy have spent the holidays here with his mother. S. G. and Bev and Tommy left on January 2 for Denver where they will visit with Bev's family before they start their trek for San Francisco. From San Francisco they will embark for Formosa where Capt. Flowers will have a tour of duty. He is a jet fighter pilot with the U. S. Air Force.

A Zebulon insurance executive and his wife couldn't have pleased the Hopkins Chapel Baptist Church congregation more Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Bobby McGee presented the church with a studio size Hamilton piano during the holidays and the congregation was overwhelmed with joy. Norma Faye and Bobby are active members of this church.

Here for the open house of her daughter-in-law and son was Mrs. George Tucker, Sr., of Whitakers. The charming Mrs. Tucker was not seen much, however, during the festivities. She was upstairs keeping Dr. and Mrs. Tucker's two daughters who were awfully anxious to get downstairs in the midst of the gala doings.

It was a crisp, cold, button-up-your-overcoat day Sunday. But inside the George Tucker residence things were warm and cheery.

Dr. and Mrs. Tucker entertained at open house. Mrs. Tucker said she prayed all day Saturday (which was one of the foulest days, to be sure) that Sunday would be fair. Her prayers were answered.

Mrs. Tucker, a charming blue-eyed blonde, beamed in an aqua chiffon dress which had an overblouse of the same material and a billowy skirt. Her shoulder sported a white orchid, a gift from Mrs. Forrest Hendricks.

Mrs. Bernice Bunn, who presided at the punch bowl with her charming daughter, Jo Ann, wore a green wool sheath with medallion insert around the neckline.

Mrs. Carsey Tippet was dressed in a black and gold brocade. Mrs. Tippet and her husband greeted guests. Mrs. Haywood Jones, who directed to the den, wore a rose chiffon.

In the den were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Finch, presiding at the register. Mrs. Finch wore a cafe au lait chiffon. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Estes said goodbyes. Mrs. Estes was chichi in a red and gold brocade.

Assisting with the serving of the refreshments were members of Mrs. Tucker's Sunday School Class. They were Donna Faye Stallings, Suzanne Beck, Cheryl Gay and Faye Sawyer. They wore Christmas red dresses.

Mrs. A. S. Hinton catered the affair. She wore an off-white brocade sheath with gold trimmings. Assisting Mrs. Hinton was Mrs. Donald Stallings, who wore a black embroidered wool dress.

December 23 was the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hinton. They celebrated the occasion with a dinner at the King
