

Pre-School Registration

Pre-school registration for children who will enter Wakelon School in September will be held Wednesday, March 6, at 8:30 a.m. in the cafeteria, Principal J. C. Hawkins has announced.

Hawkins said parents with children who will begin at the school are requested to register them on this date. It is also necessary that the child's birth certificate and immunization record be presented at this time, too.

The North Carolina State Law requires that each child who enters school be immunized against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio.

Promoted

The promotion of Douglas Y. Perry from second lieutenant to the rank of first lieutenant in the North Carolina Army National Guard has been announced by Governor Terry Sanford.

Perry was born in Wake County and at present resides with his wife in Zebulon. He is a mechanical engineer with Corning Glass in Raleigh.

Lt. Perry was graduated from Wakelon High School in 1955, attended Campbell College and received a bachelor of science degree from N. C. State College in 1961. He also was awarded a master of arts degree from State in 1962.

He attended Officer Candidate School at Fort Sill, Okla., in 1959.

Lt. Perry began his military career in June, 1954, when he joined the National Guard with Battery A. 113th Artillery in Zebulon. In April, 1959, due to the reorganization of the National Guard, this unit was redesignated the 1st Rocket Howitzer Battalion, 113th Artillery, the unit of his present assignment.

Sister's Brother Dies Monday Morn

A Middlesex town commissioner and prominent businessman and farmer died Monday morning in Duke Hospital after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage Sunday night about 9:30 o'clock.

Wade Hubert Thompson, 64, was serving on the town board of commissioners at the time of his death. He had served on the board for several terms. He was also one of the directors of the branch Peoples Bank and Trust Co. there.

Thompson was a member of Middlesex Baptist Church where his funeral rites were held Wednesday at 3 p.m. The Rev. C. C. McCullough, pastor, and the Rev. Rudolph Dixon, former pastor, officiated.

A duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," was sung by Miss Peggy Lewis and Mrs. Billy Corbett.

The casket was covered with a pall of yellow roses. Pallbearers were W. S. Williams, Jr., Roscoe Hales, Henry Manning, Lonnie Davis, Joe Lewis, and Cecil Corbett.

He was the son of the late William Walter Thompson and Lenora Johnson Thompson.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. John L. Stone of Middlesex; three brothers, Garner of Alice, Texas, W. E. of Washington, D. C., and A. B. of Philadelphia; two sisters, Mrs. Zeb Corbett and Mrs. Jessie Bailey, both of Zebulon, and three grandchildren.

The Job's Not Done . . .

In 1935, ninety-seven out of every hundred farm families in North Carolina HAD to draw and carry water from the well. Thanks to REA — and the member-owned rural electric cooperatives—ninety-eight out of a hundred now have electricity available to do the job.

BUT, only six out of ten farm homes actually have running water systems—a convenience that most of us consider a necessity.

As the price of electric service falls, more rural people can afford to add electric pumps. And if our rural electric cooperatives are allowed to survive, that price WILL continue to fall.

In eight years, rural electric cooperative rates in North Carolina dropped almost 34 percent. Despite this, we still have a long way to go. Our cooperatives get only $453 in revenue per mile of line in North Carolina. Compare this to the $3,879 per mile received by our state's private power companies.

As our cooperatives add consumers, and revenue per mile increases, each member bears a smaller part of his system's costs. That's why it's important that cooperatives be allowed to serve new loads and enjoy the benefits of their investments within their territories.

If they are allowed to do this, it will mean that more and more rural people will come to know the conveniences that city people have had for years.
