Wakefield News

Mrs. Vera B. Rhodes

Mrs. Helen Jones spent three days with her daughter, Mrs. Ferd Breslau, in Raleigh last week.

The Home Demonstration Club met last Wednesday with seven members present. The program was on serving. Mrs. Lala Pulley served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. Vera Rhodes spent the day with her mother, Mrs. Alice Hood, for the Orlando Puryears to go to his father's birthday dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Earp visited them Sunday a.m.

Mrs. Nellie Hood and Nancy, her brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Triplett, and son of Boonville visited Mrs. Alice Hood Saturday.

Nuber Bolton is visiting around in Durham.

The Donnie Gays, Mrs. Bertha and Angela Hood, the H. G. Hoods, the T. Y. Puryears, the Fred Hoods and Vera Rhodes, all visited Mrs. Alice Hood.

Wade Bolton is visiting his mother, Mrs. Fannie Bolton, a few days.

Mrs. Nora Wilder of Raleigh is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Lorna Ferrell.

Mrs. Myra Chamblee is a patient at Wendell-Zebulon Hospital.

Eddie Pippin is expected to leave the hospital in a day or two. Mrs. Annie P. Jones and Mrs. Cassie Chamblee spent last Thursday and Friday in Chapel Hill with Mrs. Addie Winstead and Charles.

Lonnie Poole and James Richardson went to Punkin Center and fished last Saturday.

Mrs. Lonnie Poole and sister, Mrs. Ethel Pearce, visited Mrs. Sallie Pearce at Wake Memorial Hospital Sunday p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bryant of Raleigh visited in Zebulon Sunday.

Mrs. Vera Rhodes has dressed a cannon ball bed at Whitley Furniture Co. with a double wedding ring quilt and dust ruffle and pillow shams. It was made by Mrs. L. A. Baker and Mrs. Vera Rhodes, and quilted by the Professional quilters of Wakefield Church. It will be on exhibit there for the next few days and will sell for $50.00.

There are two Wakefield Home Demonstration quilts on display, a lone star and a Joseph coat at $15.00 each.

The human heart pumps about four quarts of blood per minute through the body's 12,000 mile network of arteries, veins and capillaries, says the North Carolina Heart Association.

WHAT KIND OF A YARDSTICK IS THIS?

Rural electric co-ops call themselves yardsticks . . . yardsticks for measuring the fairness of rates charged by electric companies.

At best they are only part of a yardstick . . . nearer 22 inches . . . hardly suitable for measuring businesses which operate under an entirely different set of rules.

Remember, REA co-ops are subsidized with 2 per cent government loans, they pay no taxes, and they are free from regulation. Electric companies are regulated and taxed. Rules under which the two operate are so different that CP&L, for example, must use about 40 cents of every dollar it receives from customers to pay taxes and financing costs—normal utility costs which taxpayers bear for the co-ops.

To become the yardstick they claim to be, the electric co-ops would have to give up their subsidies, pay taxes and accept regulation as utility companies do.
