Son of Local Woman Is Commended In Editorial

Odell Strickland, son of Mrs. Tempie Strickland of Zebulon, has been editorialized by the Lexington (N.C.) Dispatch for his work with Davidson County's Health Department.

Strickland has been with the department for 16 years. He is a veteran of World War II, and is married to the former Grace McCullough of St. Mary's, West Virginia. They have two children, Steve, who is with the Air Force, and Cindy, 13, of the home.

The editorial read: "One place where Davidson County gets its money's worth is in the salary it pays to Bill Strickland (Ed. note: Odell is known as Bill in Lexington), sanitarian in the County Health Department. There are a number of duties connected with the office he fills, and he handles all of them with admirable efficiency.

"But the part of his job with which most people are more familiar involves inspection of restaurants and meat markets. A stickler for cleanliness and close adherence to all sanitary regulations, Strickland has not endeared himself to many restaurant and market operators here. Most of them would much prefer to be inspected by someone a little more inclined to 'let it go this time.'"

When the big "A" certificate is awarded after a Strickland inspection, however, there is no question about it being deserved and no one could be more proud than the operators of the establishments receiving grades sufficiently high to merit the "A."

"Visiting in other counties we've seen places with 'A' ratings which even to our uncritical eyes might well expect to have their places closed up if they were in Davidson County. The regulations are the same—the difference lies with the inspector. Lots of people who have had the opportunity to compare will say that a 'B' in Davidson is equal to or better than an 'A' in many other areas.

"Diligent inspections and proper posting of the grades earned is quite important. Even the most conscientious operator of a restaurant or market can overlook conditions which might not be to the healthy advantage of his patrons. And those other operators who knowingly would permit the existence of an unsanitary condition are kept on their toes through awareness of the certain fact that they can't get away with it.

"It follows, therefore, that every time Strickland goes by the book in making his inspections he is doing a service for his employers—the people of Davidson County."

Wake Representative Speaks To Rotarians

"I refuse to vote for a statewide bill unless I have a chance to look at it and read it," Mr. Coggins said. He did not vote for the measure, but was certain it will come up again in the next regular session of the Legislature.

"No legislation concerning REA or public utilities was passed because neither was interested in solely bettering themselves," he said. He indicated that all bills presented which favored either the REA or utilities were designed to harm the other side.

"I have learned much," he said, "and the more I learn, the more I find there is to learn."

During the business session of the Rotary meeting, Willie B. Hopkins, Ed Hales, and Ed Ellington were named a committee to represent the Rotary Club in a campaign to support a baseball team for Wakelon School.

Gabby Lost, Found; Everyone Now Happy

Gabby, the talkative four-year-old parakeet of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Veasey of Wendell, is happily back at his home. And his owners are even happier.

Last Thursday Gabby decided to spread his wings and see the world. But all was not as green and pleasant outside as he thought.

Gabby made quite a tour of part of Wake County. In fact, he got as far as Rolesville and his tired little wings gave out on him. He sank to the highway, not able to go any further.

Along came a couple who had heard over the local Radio Station WETC of Gabby's disappearance. They stopped and called to him. Gabby came to them, delighted to hear his name called.

Mr. and Mrs. Veasey were called and hurriedly went for their pet. It was a happy reunion for both owners and bird.

"Gabby happy," he chirped, "Gabby happy."

First Call
