MAYOR'S TRIP

Some Russians Friendly

"People behind the Iron Curtain are afraid to express themselves because of the fear they might be talking to the wrong person," Mayor Ed Hales said in an interview.

Mayor Hales was among 40 Wake County city and town officials who toured Europe and Russia for three weeks. The group returned last Thursday.

"They are fearful, and you can't get close to them," Hales said. "However, we found them sociable."

He said he talked with a young Russian man who spoke English. This young man's father was a Communist, and oftentimes he and his father would discuss things of Communist nature. They did not see eye to eye, this young man told Hales. He further told Hales that the laboring class of people in Russia liked Stalin even with the many persons he had had killed during his reign. The young man said further to Hales that Russians won't know how many Khrushchev has killed until he is dead.

"The food in Moscow was the worst we encountered in any of the places we went," Hales said. "The meat reminded me of World War II C rations. I sort of had a fear of eating it because I was afraid it was not clean. However, I am sure it was the best they could get and prepared all right."

Hales said food in the rest of the cities the group toured was very good to excellent. Most of the times there were five courses served.

"The friendliest city we toured behind the Iron Curtain was Erevan," he continued. Erevan is in the USSR republic of Armenia, in the southern part of Russia near the Turkish border. From Erevan they saw Mt. Ararat, the renowned mount of the Bible where Noah's ark parked.

"The people of Erevan were very, very friendly. I had my Polaroid camera. I took some pictures of the residents. The camera created a great excitement. At first they seemed to be afraid, but when the picture developed on the spot and they could see themselves they were delighted. Sometimes there were between 25 and 50 persons gathered around me, watching me take pictures."

Hales told of one rather peasant-like gentleman standing in the crowd. This man caught Hales' attention and motioned to his infant child resting on his shoulder. Hales said he knew he wanted a picture made.

"I told him I would in sign language," Hales said. "And the man was so glad that he went and found his wife who had another infant with her. I took their picture and gave it to them. It might be the only picture they will ever get."

Hales said if you want to make friends to take a Polaroid camera and plenty of film.

He said he talked with a member of the Moscow city board of councilmen. He said he asked the Power to Be Off Sunday Morning

Work on a 12,000-volt power line near Zebulon will necessitate an interruption of electric service in some local neighborhoods early Sunday morning.

F. T. Scarborough, manager of Carolina Power & Light Company at Zebulon, said the work will be between 4:30 and 7 a.m. Sunday. The region affected is from Shepherd School on Highway 64 to Tant's Crossroads, including the Pilot community.

Zebulon Rotary Club Gives $112 in Books to Library

Zebulon Community Library recently received a shipment of 24 volumes, according to Mrs. Melvin Lanier, librarian. These volumes were donated by Zebulon Rotary club.

Mrs. Lanier said this is only a partial shipment. More are to arrive at a later date. The donation from the Rotarians was $112.

The librarian said another list of books is being readied. This shipment will be paid for with money allocated in the town budget.

"Before we get any more books," Mrs. Lanier said, "we've got to have some where to put them. We are running out of space. I do wish we had some where with more space and accommodations to use."

Mrs. Lanier said a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, which sponsors the local library, has spoken to a member of the family who owns the unused Privette service station on Arendell Avenue. The person, Mrs. Lanier said, did not give a positive answer for converting the station into a library.

The books received are: Amy Vanderbilt's Complete Book of Etiquette, The Fannie Merritt Farmer Boston Cooking School Cook Book, Silent Spring, Jack London Tales of Adventure, Six Plays, The Bronze Bow, Devil Red, The Tunnel, Mary Wakefield, Young Renny, 13 for Luck, Savage Sam, Travels with Charlie, O Ye Jig and Juleps, Secret Language, Project Mercury, All About Under Sea Explorations, The April Umbrella, Lance of Oak, The 3 Policemen, Trouble Is a Cat, Momo's Kittens, Mister Penny Circus and The Poky Little Puppy.

Wakelon Homecoming Friday; Eight Lovelies Vie for Queen

Wakelon School homecoming festivities get underway today (Thursday). It is Black and Gold Day at the school. Students will wear clothing of the school's colors.

Tonight at 7:30 a pep rally will be held on the athletic field. The rally will be held around a blazing bonfire. This rally is sponsored by the Monogram Club.

A homecoming parade will be held Friday. The parade, featuring the band, floats sponsored by school organizations and town business establishments, and fun, will begin at 6:15. It will form at the school and continue down the main street of the town.

At 8 o'clock the Wakelon Bulldogs will bow up against the Fremont High gridironers. During half time the homecoming queen will be named and crowned by the presently reigning queen, Miss Linda Lilles.

Candidates for homecoming queen are: Betsy Faye Long, Joan Kaye Baker, Shirley Faye Baker, Ann Layfield, Donna Faye Stallings, Carolyn Sue Denton, Faye Douglas Finch, and Sandra Nell Perry.

Betsy Faye Long is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron D. Long of Route 1, Zebulon.

Donna Faye Stallings will be riding atop a convertible driven by Norman Perry and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stallings of Zebulon.

Carolyn Sue Denton, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. E. W. Denton of Route 2, Middlesex, is 17-years-old and a member of the sophomore class.

Faye Douglas Finch will represent Mrs. Owen Strickland's freshman home room. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Finch of Zebulon.

Sandra Nell Perry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Perry of Route 4, Zebulon. She will represent Mrs. Reynold's freshman home room.

Bulldogs Take 14-0 Win From Wendell on Friday

By Wayne L. Davis

Beat Wakelon, Beat Wakelon, Beat Wakelon was the chant used by the Wendell White Rams in their warm-up exercise before the game time, but they found this easier said than done. After the dust settled it was Wakelon's Bulldogs over Wendell's White Rams, 14-0. The Bulldog offense was in high gear and the defense was as stubborn as molasses in January, not allowing Wendell inside the Wakelon 21.

Wendell's line averaged in the neighborhood of 200 pounds per man, being some 35 to 40 pounds a man larger than the Bulldog line, but Wakelon dominated the line play all night, both on offense and defense. The Bulldogs left little doubt as to who owned the football and the score was no indication as to the soundness of Wakelon's victory.

The Bulldogs have 3 more games and need to take all three in order to have a winning season. Left on the schedule are Fremont, Spring Hope and Enloe.

Wakelon Theater Has New Manager; Top Films Promised

A former motel operator and his wife are now operating Wakelon Theater here.

Charlie and Floyd Tucker took over the theater Monday, October 11. They came from Coral Gables, Fla., where they operated a motel for 11 years.

Tucker, however, has had previous theater experience, he said. He was the manager of a theater for 15 years before entering the motel business.

Tucker and his wife are part owners of Wakelon Theater. They bought an interest in the theater from R. A. Howell of Smithfield. Howell has a chain of theaters throughout Johnston and surrounding counties.

Mrs. Tucker is a native of Pinehurst. He is a native of Red Springs. She is a registered nurse and he is an ex-GI. They have no children.

The couple said the theater will be completely renovated. First run pictures will be shown, and every available form of good entertainment will be offered.

He said the theater has some of the best projection equipment to be found anywhere. He added that the sound system is perfect.

"We are going to give the public the very best in film entertainment," Tucker said. "It will be good, clean entertainment."

The couple has already become very fond of Zebulon in the short time they have been here. They are residing at a local hotel, but are making plans to purchase a home here when they find a suitable one.

"I've already been out looking," Mrs. Tucker said.

The theater was managed by Mrs. Polly Pendergraft of Zebulon before the Tuckers took over.
