LEGAL NOTICE.

The undersigned receiver will on or about the middle of November 1917, offer for sale to the highest bidder, several thousand acres of improved farming and timber land situated in the rich agricultural Port Barnwell neighborhood in Craven County. The land is principally sandy loam with good clay subsoil, naturally drained, and suitable for tobacco, cotton, corn, alfalfa, garden produce and general crops. Nine miles from Norfolk Southern railroad; on good public roads, with auto truck freight line connecting with New Bern and Kinston; also river transportation to New Bern and Kinston; post office and R. F. D. mail routes; low tax rate; fine citizenship in historical section with splendid public schools and churches; unusually healthy locality; prosperous community with competitive stores, cotton gins and saw mills. One of the plantations, comprising several hundred acres is said to be one of the finest farms in eastern North Carolina. Altogether these lands are desirably situated for residential and farming purposes. Prospective purchasers are invited to visit and inspect the lands and crops now growing before the day of sale, which will be announced later. Attractive terms will be given to reliable persons; the property will be sold under the direction of the Superior Court; titles good; maps of lands will be shown and small tracts as well as large plantations will be sold.
