NEW YORK STOCKS MARKETS

COTTON FUTURES (By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 5.—Cotton futures opened firm, July, 38.60; October, 36.45; December, 35.43; January, 34.70; March, 34.20.

NEW YORK COTTON (By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 5.—Reports of further rains in the south and still more numerous crop complaints from the west belt section were followed by an opening advance of 3 to 23 points in the cotton market today. Foreign trade interests were again good buyers and there was a renewed scattering demand, but it seemed to be pretty readily supplied to 38.60 for July and 36.50 for October, and the market was irregular after the call.

NEW YORK STOCKS (By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 5.—The cotton market closed barely steady, July, 38.45; October, 36.07; December, 35.05; January, 34.48; March 33.93.

NEW YORK STOCKS (By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 5.—Further covering of short contracts contributed largely to the strong opening of the stock market at the start of today's brief session. Steels, oils, shippings and specialties and the fertilizer groups led the further rally. Crucible steel and International paper gained 2 points each, Vanadium steel, American Tobacco, securities, Union bag, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Famous Players averaged about 1 point advance. United States steel was the only important issue to react, losing a small fraction. Rails and equipments registered only nominal changes.

WOMAN RELATES EYE WITNESS STORY MARASH HORROR

Men, Women and Children Shot Down in The Snow Like Flies

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Turkish nationalist forces in besieging Marash, Syria, last January deliberately and continuously fired on the American college and Near East relief hospital and orphanage there, according to Dr. Mabel Elliott, of Benton Harbor, Mich., who was in charge of the hospital during the three weeks' attack.

Dr. Elliott, who has now returned to this country, with Mrs. Mabel Power, of North Hero, Vt., Miss Helen Schultz, of Reading, Pa., and Miss Minnie Dougherty, of Holyoke, Mass., told an eye-witness story of the attack, directed against the Armenian population.

Horrible Slaughter.
The slaughter of men, women and children was horrible, she said, and the pillage of houses barbaric. In one Armenian church 2,500 persons were killed—only 22 surviving the attack on it—she said.

Of a fleeing column of 5,000 Armenians, mostly women and children driven from the besieged city, Dr. Elliott said only 2,200 reached their objective, Islahia, seventy-five miles away.

"The whole three weeks of the siege the firing from house-tops and windows never ceased," she said. "The Turks fired man's, buildings all over the town, and from our windows we could see columns of smoke rising first from one part of the city and then another, every hour of the day and night."

"The largest Armenian church at first sheltered some 2,500 Armenians of the better class, shop keepers, business men and merchants and their families. They had arms, and they put up a good fight. But the Turks finally fired the church and forced them out. Only 22 of them escaped with their lives."

French Troops Suffer.
"A communication trench was dug from French headquarters to the hospital by which the French wounded were brought in to us. They were all Senegalese and Moroccans. The Senegalese blacks suffered frightfully. We had 900 cases of wounded and frozen feet—mostly frozen feet."

"I was over town the Armenians would gather in the nearest churches for protection, largely because by being concentrated they were in greater force, and also because the church buildings are of stone, and surrounded by high walls, and thus made the best means of defense. It wasn't possible to live a day in a private house, as the Turks would fire the house and drive the inhabitants out, killing them as they ran for shelter. We could see that going on everywhere."

"There were about 5,000 Armenians who joined the column and tried to make the march over the mountains to Islahia, seventy-five miles from Marash, when the French troops evacuated the city."

"There was no food for anyone, and only a few carts. Practically everybody had to walk the whole way. It was a ghastly, incredible nightmare. The worst blizzard that Marash had ever known caught us."

Died Like Flies.
"Most of the fugitives were women and children. The men stayed behind to fight and cover our retreat. They died like flies. Every fifty yards or so some one would drop in the snow. There was no use trying to do anything. It was all anybody could do to keep going."

"We had to cross many streams, which were frozen at first, but the ice was broken by the French trains and artillery, and when we came along we had to wade in the icy water, and then walk on in the snow. I saw the French general in command wading the streams on foot."

"Out of the 5,000 who started only 2,200 ever got there."

"Mrs. Mabel Power, of North Hero, Vt., and Miss Helen Schultz, of Reading, Pa., who came with me, went to Adana in a French hospital train."

DR. GAMBLE TO SPEAK.

Dr. R. A. Gamble, of Petersburg, Va., will speak in the graded school auditorium, Vanceboro, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be "The Day of Judgment." The subject will be explained from a Bible standpoint.

FOREST OFFICIAL'S REPORT ON LUMBER IN NORTH CAROLINA

Several Men of National Reputation Will Speak At Asheville

WASHINGTON, June 5.—That lumbering is certain to lose its present importance in North Carolina and become one of the minor industries if measures for conserving present timber supplies are not taken speedily, is one of the principal points to be made in an address by Assistant Forester, E. E. Carter, of the United States forest service, before the North Carolina forestry association, at Asheville, June 9.

Conditions in the States.
Mr. Carter will discuss the results of an investigation of lumber conditions throughout the United States, which the forest service has made in response to a resolution passed by the United States senate by Senator Capper. This resolution called for a report on the timber supply of the country, the effects of present depletion on the high cost of materials, and the effects of lumber exports on the domestic market.

Mr. Carter's forest association address will show that unless the young forests in North Carolina and adjacent states are protected from fire and wisely managed, these regions, which are now shipping lumber to other parts of the country, soon will be forced to import supplies for their own use.

Definite Forest Policy.
At the meeting in Asheville it is understood that the question of a definite policy will come up for discussion. The need for such a policy, including an adequate organization for the prevention and suppression of forest fires, will be emphasized by the assistant forester's address as it has also been emphasized in the forest service report to the senate.

Although North Carolina still has a considerable amount of timber, cutting is progressing at a rapid rate and the remaining old growth forests are bound to disappear unless a definite conservation program is adopted by the state. On account of the mountainous character of a large part of the state and the heavy rainfall, it is said by foresters to be all important to take steps now to prevent denudation of important watersheds.

In addition to the assistant forester, the meeting at Asheville will be addressed by Governor T. W. Bickett, a number of prominent lumber men and others interested in forestry.

"SPUDS" BEING MOVED IN HURRY FROM THE EAST

BEAUFORT, June 5.—Several carloads of potatoes have left here this week for the north, and from now till the middle of June "spuds" will be moving right along. A little digging was done last week but Monday the growers went to work in earnest and this week times are lively sure enough on the farms about here. From early morning till dewy eve and sometimes later men, women, boys and girls are busy digging, assorting and packing the crop.
