State In Good Shape For Maryland Game

RALEIGH, Nov. 29.—With grid-iron warriors of both teams in perfect physical condition, North Carolina State and Maryland University today were ready to clash in their second annual football battle here tomorrow.

The Carolina Technicians were put through their final workout this afternoon by Coach Harry Hartsell. "Duke" Holland, the State's star end, and Frank Boston, pivot man, who were kept off the Wake Forest contest last Saturday on account of injuries, were back in the lineup. Park, who has been suffering with an injured leg since the V. M. I. game several weeks ago; Captain Floyd and Cleve Beatty, who were on the sidelines Saturday, will be in the thick of the battle tomorrow, according to Coach Hartsell.

The Maryland aggregation is one of the heaviest in the southern conference this year and has shown a remarkable improvement since being defeated by North Carolina University last month. Coach Curley Byrd's men defeated Catholic University Saturday, 54 to 0, at College Park, Maryland. North Carolina State's season schedule will come to an end with tomorrow's game and advance sale of seats indicates a large crowd of football fans will be present.

"Prophet" Gives The Score Of Virginia-Carolina Game

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 29.—News going to Charlottesville or heading around a telegraph office to find out the score of the Carolina-Virginia football game; it is told already.

"The Pickwick," the Chapel Hill sporting picture concern believed of Carolina students, is doing the "Grand Old Trick" of hitting the score in advance. It tells the world that when the final whistle blows Carolina will have 17 points and Virginia 7.

True, it hedges to the extent of putting a question mark after both the 7 and the 17. None the less, it has done the role of a prophet and its prestige hangs in the balance.

The forecast is spread on the front page of the weekly bulletin that announces the entertaining and super-exciting cinema event of next week. On the left of the page is the record of Carolina's scores this season, showing he defeat but the one met at the hands of Yale; on the right is the Virginia record, showing defeats by Princeton, V. M. I., and West Virginia. The closing item in each record is the Thanksgiving Day score of 17 to 7, modified by the afore mentioned "Prophet."

The "Prophet" might be either Major Robinson, who owns the movie concern, or Jim Phipps, graduate and law student, who manages it. A heavy majority of the inhabitants of the village charge the forecast up to Phipps.

CAROLINA MAY PLAY PRINCETON NEXT YEAR

CHAPEL HILL, Nov. 29.—Whether or not the University of North Carolina can accept the invitation to play a football match at Princeton October 13 of next year—the invitation received in a telegram here today—is doubtful.

Of course the University community would be pleased for Carolina to meet the 1922 Eastern champions, but there is a possible conflict of dates. Carolina played Trinity October 12 this fall, and a Trinity-Carolina event has been talked of as a possible University Day fixture. However, it may be possible to make a switch.

Carolina's one northern date in the last two or three years has been one week earlier than the one suggested by Princeton for 1923. Whatever happens, it is fairly certain that there will be no crowding to hard games in early October. Next year, at the best, there is more than one game a week.

Picks All Star State Football Association

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 29.—Here is the way Coach J. S. Phipps of Trinity college sees the mythical All-State eleven.

Picking an All-State football team for the coming year is no simple matter. The writer is picking his team on the actual play of the men in the games that he observed them in action. As a football scout he saw Carolina play Wake Forest, Trinity, and South Carolina; Wake Forest play Carolina, William and Mary, and Trinity play Davidson Wake Forest, Carolina and Guilford; Davidson play V. P. I. and Trinity. He did not have an opportunity to see either State of Elgin in action, so must take their men by hearsay.

The crop offerings this year has been unusually good; Neal and Carter of Trinity; Faison of Davidson; Morrison of Carolina; Holland, of State; Pegano of Wake Forest; are all fine ends. Neal is sure of one end because of offensive and defensive play and fighting spirit, and leadership. The other end goes to Faison of Davidson, who against V. P. I. played the best game of his career.

The tackle this year also not the equal of past years; McIver, of Carolina; Hatcher, of Trinity; Floyd, of State; Hatcher, of Davidson; are probably the best of the state. Floyd is sure of one tackle. The other will have to be picked by moving Hatcher, of Carolina, out for guard.

Quarterbacks of commendation are: Graham, of State; Poindexter, of Carolina; Taylor, of Trinity; Davis, of Davidson; Johnson, of Wake Forest; One guard should go to the veteran Taylor, of Trinity 135 pound, 3 year veteran, who has never taken time out, or been taken out of a game. This boy is one of the mainstays of Trinity's line. The other guard should go to Poindexter, of Carolina, and Simpson of Trinity. These men will probably split the vote throughout the State. However, in the one game these men played against each other this year, Simpson undoubtedly gave Blount more than he could return.

Quarterback goes with very little argument to Monk McDonald, of Carolina Perry, of Elgin is probably as great a quarterback in every way but playing with a smaller team, has not had the opportunity to show his wares as fully. Hendrix at Davidson, handled Davidson in mastery style against V. P. I. this boy is young, and will undoubtedly make All-State before he lays aside the molasses. There are plenty of good halfbacks; Johnson, Morrison, Merritt, and McGee of Carolina; Randolph and Park of State; Sheppard, of Davidson; Largestaff and Bullock of Trinity; Heekman (Continued on page five)

University Team Left Chapel Hill Last Night

DURHAM, Nov. 29.—Instead of spending the night before the Virginia game on the road sleeping in a Pullman car in the Charlottesville yards, the Carolina team will sleep in a hotel in Lynchburg.

They boarded a special car here at 10 o'clock last night and after midnight moved off for Virginia by way of Greensboro. Breakfasting in Lynchburg this morning, they spent the day there, going through light practice this afternoon. The trip to Charlottesville Thursday morning will consume only about two hours.

There have been no new developments of importance, in connection with the football, in the last two or three days. Practice has proceeded according to schedule. It has been light. The physical condition of the squad with which Fetzer left last night is thought to be as good as that of any team that has ever sent on to meet the Virginia foe.

On the part of the student body there is unquestionably pretty confident that Carolina will win. Perhaps the students as a whole are more confident of it than the coaches and players; for coaches and players are less apt to put dependence in past records; more apt to realize how great the chance there is, always, of the confusion of prophets. Fetzer, certainly, has been mighty careful to get it into the heads of his men what he firmly believes—that is, that in all probability they will have one of the big fights of their career.

MORE TICKETS FORMER "CHAMP" ARE BEING SOLD IS OUT LOOKING FOR THE GAME FOR A "SCRAP"

Indications Now Are That Big Crowd Will Leave Here on Special Train Friday

Quite a number of additional tickets were sold today for the special train to Raleigh on Friday, but the committee in charge of the train announced this afternoon that there were still plenty of vacancies.

Those who intend taking the trip are urged to get their tickets at once. Everybody knows that the trip is going to be a most enjoyable outing from the time the train leaves New Bern until it pulls in again the same night.

Tickets are on sale at The Stag, Al. Joway's place, Squibb Moore's place, the Sun-Journal office, Albert Kafer, Ed. Clark's store, Dean Bell, Paul Mengell and the Y. M. C. A.

Everybody going on the trip is urged to wear the New Bern colors and also bring some kind of noise-making contrivance along with them. New Bern folks want to let Raleigh know that there is such a place in North Carolina as New Bern.

Former Champion Believes He Has One More Beating Still Coming To Him

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—If Jack Dempsey does not agree to meet Jess Willard when he meets with the former champion at Los Angeles soon, Willard plans to force Dempsey to meet him, he declared here today.

Through his publicity agent, Gene Doyle, Jess Willard denied the reports from Buffalo that he had agreed to accept a match with Floyd Johnson, the bout to be staged by Charles Murray of Buffalo.

"Some time ago Jess received an offer of a match with Johnson," said (Continued on page five)

American Girls Hike Through Philippines

Miss Sharp, left, and Miss Ann McKee, society girls of Pasadena, Cal., who are back in California after a trip to the Philippines. The young ladies hiked 200 miles to the interior to see native Igorotes of the Philippines, and were entertained by an Igorote Chief who presented them with swagger sticks made from the tusks of wild boars.
