COLLECTIONS IN FOUR MONTHS ARE SIX MILLIONS

Collections from the automobile fund for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, will run to $10,096,872.29, it was estimated by Secretary of State W. N. Everett, in a letter addressed to the governor.

Collections during the four months of the present fiscal year have reached $6,015,963.70, the letter said. Taxes on automobiles have about reached its limit for the year, due to the fact that most licenses have been issued, it was said, but the gasoline tax is said to average about $500,000 per month during the remaining year.

According to the letter, taxes from the automobile department up to November were divided as follows:

After a few seasons Mr. Adams bought a hotel in Chicago, but some time ago he sold out.

Plans for the new season are already being made. New advertising matter is being prepared. Early in the year Mr. Adams will leave for resort sections in Florida, where he will spend several weeks in the interest of Mayview Manor.

THE MILEAGE OF EACH KIND OF ROAD IN THE STATE

North Carolina now has 1,370 miles of hard-surfaced highways, according to an announcement given out by the Carolina Motor Club, C. W. Roberts, vice-president, and having come from H. K. Witherspoon, director of publicity of the State Highway Commission. Of this amount there are 736 miles asphalt, and 634 miles of concrete, with a program that provides for the hard-surfacing of approximately 3,500 miles. The system under state direction and maintenance consists of 6,000 miles, it is understood.

"Tourists continue to pour into North Carolina," stated Mr. Roberts in the statement. "Invariably they request at our branch routes which will take them on their journey and keep them in North Carolina longer. This is an evidence of good roads—as direct as it is possible to get it. More than 300 tourists are obtaining information at the various offices of the club and we have the opportunity of checking up on this.

"Six thousand miles is a pile of roads, and anyone who will stop to consider, will agree with most tourists that a 'whale of a job' has been done well in the maintenance and construction of these miles. When the transient is told the story of the construction of the 1,370 miles of hard-surfaced; 274 miles of bituminous macadam; 511 miles of gravel; 2,464 miles of sand-clay and topsoil; 959 miles of dirt and 71 miles of shale and brick, he wonders. It is proper for Carolinians to wonder, too, and with the gradual closing of links here and stretches there, the State highways are becoming surprisingly real and definite."

96 STILLS CAPTURED DURING OCTOBER

FORCES WORKING ON ROAD TO MORTIMER

National Forest Has Appropriation of $6,500 for Improvements; Need Changes

An appropriation of $6,500 has been made for improving the road across the national forest lands between Mortimer and Globe. Forester Monroe Coffey of Edgemont has a big crew of men working on this section of road now. They are working on the Mortimer end and are headed towards the top of the ridge.

About three miles of the Globe-Mortimer road is across national forest lands. This is the section being improved. The national forest line crosses the road just west of the Grace Gragg place, about one mile east of the top of Wilson ridge. From that point east the road is across private property in Caldwell county. The county has a small appropriation for work on this part of the road. But the county funds are not large enough to provide for a relocation of the Stair hill section, which should be made before very much money is spent on work on the east side of the ridge.

BIG RHODHISS DAM IS NEAR COMPLETED

Some Parts of the Gates and Wheels Are Causing Delay; Finish in January

Work on the big Rhodhiss power development of the Southern Power Company has moved forward so rapidly that a few more days will see the concrete on the dam completed. This will be with the exception of the sluiceways left for the present run of the river. These must be left open until the installation of the big turbine wheels and gates have been completed. Some of the equipment has not come in yet and this will in all probability cause some delay.

"We expect to complete the entire job early in January," said Mr. Perkins of the Dennis-Rinehart Construction Company, Saturday. Mr. Perkins said that they would be able to complete the job before that time if the gates and wheels had not delayed them. The whole job will be completed several months ahead of the schedule time.

Eleven persons are dead from the effects of drinking cider containing arsenic at the Elks' National home, Bedford, Va., and fifteen others are dangerously ill.

Superintendent Charles Mosby, after making a careful investigation of the circumstances surrounding the poisoning, stated that it was an accident and that no blame could be attached to anyone connected with the home or to the county merchant from whom the cider was purchased. It was delivered to the home in a barrel thought to have been used at some time for the spraying of fruit trees. It was declared E. M. Richardson, Bedford county, from whom the cider was purchased, had washed the kee thoroughly before he put the cider into it. Officials believe the poison had saturated the wood.

STATE COMMITTEE VISITS PARK AREA

Governor-Elect McLean in the Party; All Express Wonder at Unrivalled Scenery

A meeting of the members of the park committee which visited the Grandfather mountain and Linville river sections last week was planned for last night in Raleigh. This is the first meeting of the committee since the trip through Lenoir and this section was made. The committee plans to make an active campaign to secure the location of the national park for this part of the State. Members of Congress from this State are also to be prevailed upon to give active aid at once.

It is understood that the national park committee will submit its report, through the secretary of the interior, Dr. Hubert Work, at the convening of Congress in December. This national committee visited Lenoir last summer.

Three states are making strong bids for the park, namely, Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina. It is said that the Stony Man mountain region of Virginia is being given careful consideration by the national park committee, due to the fact that the region contains many of the natural features sought and because it is within easy reach of the large centers of population in the North and East.

The State committee, accompanied by Gov.-elect McLean and a number of other State officials and citizens, passed through here Tuesday of last week for a two days' trip through Grandfather mountain and Linville river sections. The entire party were the guests of A. M. Kistler of Morganton, member of the State highway commission.

Leaving Lenoir Tuesday morning, the first stop was made at Blowing Rock. From there to Linville over the Yonahlossee and then down Linville river to Linville Falls. At the MacRae place in Grandmother Gap the party went out a short way on the Grandfather mountain, but did not make the trip to the top. At Linville Falls they visited the big and little falls and then made the trip to Bridgewater over the old Linville Mountain road. This road is a mere trail cleaned out sufficiently for cars. The narrow road leads along the crest of the mountain. It was Gov.-elect McLean's first trip over this road or in this section. His eyes were opened in amazement, he said, at the panoramic vistas of surpassing magnificence that unfolded before him as he passed along this route. He was especially impressed with the variedness of the scenery, changing as it often did from rugged peaks to smooth slopes, and from rolling plateau land to deep, rugged, roaring gorges. As the motorcade passed through the country from Blowing Rock over the Yonahlossee road to Linville City, to Linville Falls, and down the long ridge of Linville mountain, the wonder of every member of the party grew and many declared that they did not know that western North Carolina had such scenery. And to crown it all, the last stop was made at what Gov.-elect McLean declared as perhaps the most remarkable view of all. The party climbed to the summit of Pinnacle and before the eyes of the visitors was spread out a panorama completely perfect. Water and sky and mountain blended together into a harmonious masterpiece of beauty. From the top of Pinnacle the members of the party could see Linville Gorge on one side and Lake James on the other. In the distance Table Rock mountain loomed up in ragged profile, while the walls of the Linville Gorge were in sharp contrast to the smoothness and mother-like aspects of the gently sloping hillsides that surround Lake James. One of the many wonders pointed out to the party was Shortoff mountain, upon the top of which is said to be a two-acre lake.

The following is a very nearly complete list of those taking the trip:

Messrs. R. A. Doughton of Raleigh, J. G. Stikeleather of Asheville, O. Max Gardner of Shelby, Kenneth Tamer of Rutherfordton, Chas. H. Haynes of Cliffside, G. F. Harper, J. H. Beall, J. L. Nelson, Mark Squires, F. H. Coffey and Rufus L. Gwyn of Lenoir, George N. Hutton of Hickory, J. Q. Gilkey, W. W. Neal and D. F. Giles of Marion, H. E. Noell and W. P. Arts of Old Fort, J. F.
