LATEST STATE NEWS. Condensed From Our State Exchanges. Items of Interest Condensed in Short Paragraphs and Mainly Pertaining to Matters in North Carolina. Greensboro, N. C., July 15.—Hon. E. J. Justice returned last night from Asheville and left this morning for Raleigh to represent the State in assisting Solicitor Jones in the prosecution of the indictments against the Southern Railway agents for violating the rate law.

Educating the Boys. The farmer who is in a position to send his boys to college to study for any of the learned professions—medicine, law, or what not—usually considers that the boys who stay at home to work the farm can find all the necessary education they need in the common school. It is now an accepted view that in all departments of human effort the educated man has a decided advantage. There is no occupation in which more new theories and speculations and more problems are constantly arising than on the farm. Scientific farming today under the methods developed at the experiment station and by practical men everywhere is no more kin to the old haphazard kind than the wheelbarrow resembles the modern locomotive. The farmer who works without a knowledge of the laws of plant and animal growth and of soil fertility is like the sailor navigating the seas without compass or rudder. He merely sails before the breeze, but when the storm comes and shoals appear his vessel is wrecked.—M. V. Richards in Southern Farm Magazine.

A Contrast. When Miss Loving was called upon to tell her story in the murder trial at Houston, Va., the courtroom, by order of the judge, was cleared of all except those whose presence was necessary to the conduct of the case. Commenting upon this, the Nashville Banner remarks that "it is in pleasing contrast with the conduct of the Thaw trial in New York, where numbers of women thronged the court room throughout the trial, listening eagerly and unblushingly to the most salacious details, and where Evelyn Thaw was compelled to relate her pitiful story in the presence of a gaping crowd." We could never imagine a scene anywhere in the South like that which was daily presented in the Thaw trial. Southern women are too well-bred and have too keen a sense of the proprieties of life and of their station in life, to lend their presence to sensational court scenes; and when a woman has to tell a story of embarrassment, Southern chivalry protects her as far as possible.—Charlotte Chronicle.

FOREIGN NEWS NOTES. Occurring Events The World Over. Brief Review of What Has Transpired in Other Sections During The Last Week and Since Our Last Issue. Washington, July 9.—The secretary of the navy has ordered that only the most modern boats shall be sent to the Pacific coast and none but young and vigorous men shall be put in their command. Valdosta, Ga., July 9.—A head-on collision between freight trains on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad occurred at Blue Springs, ten miles from here last night. Two persons were killed and five injured. Boston, Mass., July 15.—By the explosion of a case of powder in the hands of a gunner in the after superimposed turret of the battleship Georgia, in Massachusetts Bay today, eighteen men were killed and thirteen injured. Not one of the persons in the turret escaped injury. Austin, July 11.—The most drastic anti-trust act ever enacted will go into effect tomorrow in Texas. It provides that any person who represents as agent or sells goods made by a trust shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon trial and conviction punishment from two to ten years in the penitentiary. New York, July 11.—Driven frantic by a small blaze in the hallway of house at 80 Ludlow street this afternoon, Rose Gassman, 16 years of age, picked up her year-old brother, Hick, and threw him from the window of the six story, and then threw herself to the street. The baby struck Fireman McRae, knocking him unconscious. The baby is dying in a hospital and the is seriously injured. Hagerstown, Md., July 9.—Miss Josephine Eavey, the daughter of Samuel Eavey, a farmer residing near Keedysville was the victim of a peculiar accident which will probably mar her beauty for life. While she was assisting her mother to make custard pies at her home Miss Eavey fainted and fell face downward into a pie that Mrs. Eavey had just taken from the stove and placed on a table. San Diego, Cal., July 11.—A report was in circulation today that a Japanese had been arrested at Fort Rosecrans, while making drawings of the fort Major Getchell acknowledged that a Japanese was arrested; that he was drawing plans of the fort; that he was not a servant, but a stranger, and that there is heavy punishment for the offense. He declined to give the Japanese name and would not say what he had done with the prisoner. Louisville, Ky., July 9.—Three persons were killed and several injured in a terrific wind storm which swept this city this evening. Many horses and mules were killed, buildings unroofed, smaller structures blown down and heavy damage done to shade trees all over the city. The records of the weather bureau show that the maximum velocity of the wind was sixty-eight miles an hour during the height of the storm and the wind blew at the rate of sixty miles for fifteen minutes. Des Moines, Iowa., July 15.—At a luncheon tendered him today by Des Moines business men President Winchell, of the Rock Island Railroad, said that the Rock Island road is out of politics and will do away with its lobbies and lobbyists both in the State Legislature and the national Congress. John Sebastian traffic manager of the same road, who was entertained with President Winchell, said that the Rock Island will not reduce its passenger service on account of the two cent rate laws, but has and will improve it further.

Young Man, Save Your Money. It is almost impossible for a young man who does not save money to make a business start in the world. Most young men are wishing for better positions and bewailing the impossibility of doing anything on a small salary. They want to go west or south, they want to make money hand over fist—but their ambitions are checked right at the start for the want of a little ready money to begin on. A young man who has not the stamina and backbone to put aside little temptations and save a portion of his salary each week or each month is not likely to accomplish much in life. If his purpose is not strong enough to enable him to make a few sacrifices for the sake of his ambition he cannot expect to be successful ultimately. The history of successful men shows strong purpose and invincible determination.—American Boy. The Power of Cotton. While cotton was cultivated for fifteen hundred years before Christ by Hindoos and is cultivated to some extent by other countries, it is in the south that over three-fourths of the world's supply is raised. With our youth skilled in every detail of cotton growing—seed selection, plant breeding, fertilizing, preparing the seed-bed, cultivation—we may confidently expect the south to hold a practical monopoly of the world's greatest staple crop, and at the same time continue to increase the yield to meet the ever increasing demands of civilization. Dr. Walter H. Page, of the world's Work, is correct in his prediction that "we are in sight of the time when the cotton grower of the old slave states will become the most prosperous tiller of the earth." It is a question of increasing the yield per acre, reducing the cost per bale, improving the fibre, and maintaining a fair price for the products.—The Cotton Journal. Men No Good to a Town. Dead men are only fit to inhabit cemeteries. If they are decently dead, dead all over, we tenderly lay them away in the sleep of the tomb; but if they are dead to all the enterprise out of the narrow plane of their own interests and yet persist in walking around, moving their dry bones, calloused hearts and consciences where real business is wont to throb and pulse with vigor, they are only like the drone bees, in the way until they are stung to death and dragged outside the hive of legitimate industry. Twenty real live men are worth more to the public generally than a round full thousand of useless material that lies around like rubbish in a rising stream that is aching and foaming to turn mills and factories. Yes, live men bless, and dead men curse a town.—Times.

Take the Postmaster's Word. Mr. F. M. Hamilton, postmaster at Cherryvale, Ind., keeps also a stock of general merchandise and patent medicines. Man's Body. On an average man's body there are 340,000 hairs. Plucking one every second, it would take him twelve eight-hour work days to pull them all out. In his blood there are 25,000,000,000 red corpuscles. Laid out side by side they would cover a surface of 3,130 square yards. The whole of the blood passes through a man's heart nearly twice in every minute. It weighs one-thirteenth of the entire body weight, and it moves in different parts of the body at speeds varying from ten feet to 1,666 yards (nearly one mile) an hour. The fat of your body is fluid. It becomes solid when the body cools after death. It is one of your most useful constituents, forming a non-conducting sheath to protect you from cold, acting as pads to preserve you from shock, on the tips of the fingers the toes, and the heels, and lying always ready as a reserve food supply when you can get nothing to eat.
