Castalia Intelligence.

Mr. W. R. Blackwell is clearing the way and lumber is being placed on the site, and at an early date will begin the erection of a nice store building on Main street.

We regret to say Mr. D. E. Pearce, our rural carrier has been confined at his home in Franklin with grip the past week, and substitute Joyner has been doing the service in his stead.

Mr. Charles C. Cook an industrious and well-to-do farmer just over in Franklin, died of pneumonia last Sunday, leaving a young and devoted wife and four children, who have the sympathy of all in their sad loss and bereavement.

Quite an excitement was caused here early Sunday morning when Mr. I. C. Sledge was ferociously attacked by a mad dog, but fortunately was not seriously bitten. The rabid animal with a dozen others, after many hogs and cattle had been bitten, was pursued and killed during the day.

The Roanoke Railroad Lumber Company, of Norfolk, who owns near four hundred million feet of timber interests in this section, will in a short while begin putting in their trackage for taking the logs to their mammoth plant in Norfolk. The road will be narrow gauge and will be built from Momeyer.

With friends the writer mingled with the good people of old historic Hilliardston Sunday and, after partaking of a good dinner in the agreeable and hospitable home of Mrs. Bettie York, we heard an able sermon in the Methodist church by Rev. Mr. Kirton. They are an industrious and thrifty set of farmers, and their citizenship is surpassed by none in the State.

Joseph E. Taylor.

Again, the second time, the family circle has been broken. On Christmas day two years ago, the second son was suddenly called to go to his heavenly home. And now the elder has gone to join his brother's song with the ransom throng above.

They married sister, Jesse's wife was Miss Martha Strickland. The brothers were so much alike in character that the same description would answer almost for both.

The subject of this sketch was the oldest son of Mr. D. A. Taylor and his wife, Mrs. Louisa Taylor. Joseph was born February 10th, 1869. He had been an invalid for the past twelve months. He died February 11th, 1908, was 39 years old. He was married to Miss Octavia Strickland in 1896, who survives him with one only child; a daughter of tender years. "Jodie" as his friends loved to call him, had been an example of uprightness from his youth; was a good man every way. If he had an enemy it was not known. He was an esteemed member of Philadelphia Baptist Church from early boyhood. His religion was practical. An incident will give the keynote to his Christian character. Called upon to assist in putting out a dangerous fire in the woods, first knelt for Divine help, then he did his best.

Jodie was a most helpful and obedient son, loving brother, husband and father. He was a pupil of the writer in his youth, and never gave cause for reproof. Careful and painstaking, considerate of his teacher, a favorite of his school mates, excellent neighbor, and sincere friend. Tho' his death had been hopelessly expected for weeks, it was none the less painful.

Dear friend "sorrow not as those without hope," for some day in the bye and bye we will all meet Jodie on "That Beautiful Shore."

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express the thanks of the inmates of the Methodist parsonage for the kindness of Bro. T. A. Sills in the presentation of some needed table glass-ware, and also to record my sincere appreciation of a somewhat similar present from Mrs. Dr. Ross, and all this on the same day.

While organization is frequently a potent factor in accomplishing results, it is nevertheless a fact, that under some circumstances the generous impulses of individuals have a fuller and freer expression in a direct independent way. Self-constituted committees of one never have to brook organized differences of motive and purpose. I desire further to express the thanks of my family and myself for the thoughtful kindness and help which have been extended to us during the recent illness of Mrs. Kirton and Mrs. Russell by a number of good women in our town. Such acts as have characterized them are always very accurately noted by heavenly angels and will be graciously rewarded.

Sincerely
W. H. KIRTON.
