Nearing The Finish.

With the passage of the Underwood bill by the senate, and its return to the house, tariff revision enters upon its last stage.

At the latest, the bill should be passed not later than Oct. 1st. The two cardinal features, wool and sugar, have already been settled as between the two houses. The other schedules are rather in the nature of detail, needing only a little concession here and there to effect an agreement. If the test schedules of wool and sugar could safely negotiate both houses and Senate there is little reason to fear a deadlock over minor particulars.

For this forward status of tariff revision broad credit is due President Wilson and his administration. He has handled a delicate situation with wonderful adroitness and power. It is a safe assertion that he has met as have few other American presidents a party and a national crisis with rare success and impressive facilities of leadership. He has confounded all dismal prophecies to the effect that the party and his command of it would go to pieces on the rock of the tariff.

The tariff out of the way, currency reform will next be considered. That accomplished, the president will wisely rest the party's forces so far as the special session is concerned. The spirit of compromise and of statesmanship that characterized the handling of the tariff is guaranteed that the hardly less delicate currency issue will be met with similar absence of friction and equal success.

Few congresses and few administrations in the history of America can show a record of having handled, with such dexterity and breadth two such great issues. — The Atlanta Constitution.

While President Wilson is deserving of high praise, no man at the National Capitol has evidenced a greater degree of statesmanship and leadership, has shown the wisdom of his colleagues in making him leader in the fight for tariff reform, than Senator Simmons. To him more credit is due than any other one man. This the Constitution might consistently have stated. — Graphic.

Prosperity For One Prosperity For All

If you are a farmer the value of your farm depends on the value of the adjoining farm, and the value of both depends on the value of property in the nearest village or town. Farms near prosperous towns are always more valuable than those near dead or dying settlements. And this is true without regard to the fertility of the soil.

The farmer depends on the town just as the town depends for prosperity on the farmer. Their destinies are interlinked; their interests are common. What hurts one hurts the other. Poor crops will affect the city resident who does not even raise radishes, and depressed business affairs affect the farmer who depends on soil, weather and muscle for his living.

Money sent to mail order houses helps to ruin thriving towns into dead hamlets. It thereby depreciates the value of farm land. It decreases the population of the towns that most directly use the products of the farm. It lowers the price for butter and eggs, for chickens and for fruits and vegetables.

So, Mr. Farmer, if you deal with a mail order house in a distant city you are taking a course that takes from the value of your farm, that renders it less desirable as a place of residence and less productive of profit. You can't follow a system that injures your neighbors without being compelled to shoulder some of the expense yourself. Take the safer course and spend your money where you make it. — Holland's Magazine.

That Cotton Disease.

Some days ago The Graphic had something to say of a new pest that had made its appearance in Nash and doing considerable damage to cotton. Specimens of the diseased plants and bolls were sent to the Experiment Department for inspection. The Department pronounces the disease as "anthracnose" or pink boll and boll rot.

The symptoms are that bolls develop from sunken spots that enlarge to about half an inch and develop a pink growth over the surface. Affected bolls split open prematurely. A small worm is also found boring into the bolls, their presence being shown only by careful scrutiny. Seeds from infected bolls are infected internally, and are the chief means of dissemination. Bolls may be infected at any time from the blossoming period until they are almost grown.

The Bulletin, issued by the Agricultural Department, says that the main thing in the control of this disease is to avoid planting infected seed, and that sound seed must be planted were diseased cotton did not grow the year before.

STATE AND NATION

Brief Digest of What Has Transpired During The Past Week.

FROM THE STATE PRESS.

Presented in Short Sketches For The Benefit of Those Readers Who Do Not Read The Metropolitan Dailies and Magazines.

Greensboro, Sept. 15.—That the annual session of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina to be held in Greensboro, October 6 to 9, will be one of the most important and progressive gatherings that body has ever held is promised.

There is some evidence, in different parts of the county, of a destructive boll worm. The worms attack the bolls and make complete destruction. We trust that it will not be wide-spread and that some remedy may be quickly found.

New York, Sept. 15.—Gordon C. Johnson, 30 years old, salesman from Wilmington, N. C., is under arrest in New York, accused of throwing a large stone at Peter Foy, watchman of the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine, causing his death.

Millen, Ga., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee today was found guilty of the murder of Mrs. Florence Godbee, wife of her divorced husband and sentenced to life imprisonment. Attorneys for the defense announced that they would make application for a new trial.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The tariff conferees got along so well today that Chairman Simmons, of the Senate Finance committee, predicted tonight the report would be made to the two houses of Congress next week. The conferees today practically finished the cotton schedule and the flax and hemp schedule.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—A bill to appropriate $25,000,000 for the construction of roads in conjunction with the states and under the direction of a national bureau of public highways, was introduced in the Senate today by Senators Thornton and Bankhead. The bill proposes that the states provide an equal amount.

Thus far Harry K. Thaw, who escaped from Mattewan Asylum, where he was incarcerated after the killing of Stamford White, is making a tentatively successful fight against the authorities who have been endeavoring to secure his return. Expelled from Canada, he is now seeking relief through the Federal authorities of New Hampshire, who will investigate his sanity and at the same time ascertain whether or not he shall be returned to Mattewan.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—Raleigh is believed to stand an excellent chance of becoming a parcel post distributing station, one of the forty-four to be established in the United States. If the station is established it means that parcel post packages for North Carolina, South Carolina and parts of Virginia will be sent to Raleigh in car load lots and routed from there.

New York, Sept. 13.—"Big Tim" Sullivan, the New York politician who rose from newsboy to congressman, is dead. His mangled body was identified today by his step-brother, Larry Mulligan, after it had lain for thirteen days in a local morgue. Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses in the early morning of August 31 and a few hours after was struck and killed by a train at Pelham, parkway.

Eastern North Carolina towns are gradually recovering from the effects of the severe wind and rain storm of several days ago. Washington and New Bern seem to have suffered most, while great damage was done in many sections along the coast. The damage done is estimated to reach well up into the millions, the Norfolk and Southern Railway being heavy losers by reason of the havoc wrought to their property at Washington.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Supreme court of New York State is powerless to interfere with the prerogatives of the court of impeachment which is to convene next Thursday to hear the charges filed against Gov. Wm. Sulzer. The impeachment court not only has the right to judge the guilt or innocence of the accused executive but also has authority to determine the validity of the action of the assembly in adopting articles of impeachment.

New Bern, Sept. 13.—With a thirty-two calibre revolver clamped in his hand and a gaping bullet wound in his right temple, Adolph Roberts, proprietor of the Commercial Printing and Rubber Stamp Works, was found lying dead in his bed at the home of his brother, Will Roberts, No. 162 South Front street, at an early hour this morning, the self-inflicted wound having been made between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock. Mr. Roberts has for years been in bad health, being afflicted with some disease of the blood, and constant brooding over this and probable business worries are believed to have been the cause of his rash act.

Caught a Bad Cold

"Last winter my son caught a very bad cold and the way he coughed was something dreadful," writes Mrs. Sarah E. Duncan, of Tipton, Iowa. "We bought just one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that one bottle stopped his cough and cured his cold completely." Sold by Nashville Drug Co.

School Days.

Watch out for little Willie and Katie as you send them to school these days. Send them only in first class shape. Nine chances out of ten they need more than watching. It is a four-to-five shot that they need to have their teeth attended to, if you want them to have a lifelong blessing of good teeth. There is only one time to attend to teeth, and that is right now. Six months or a year may mean the permanent loss of one or more permanent teeth, and you doom your children to a lifelong handicap of bad teeth, such as you yourself have had. If there is any lesson parents should learn from hard experience, it is that neglecting teeth does not pay. If children are taught early the habit of using toothbrushes daily or twice a day, and if defects are attended to at once, 95 per cent of our tooth troubles would disappear.

Willie's and Katie's eyes should be watched these days, too. If they have to hold a book closer than nine inches or farther than twenty four inches from the eyes, or if they complain of headaches, or find that their vision is blurred in one or both eyes, take them to your family physician, or better still, to a specialist on eye, ear, nose and throat diseases. Never take them to a street peddler who sells spectacles or eye glasses. Remember, that your child has but two eyes for life, and you can't take many chances with only two. Properly fitted glasses will prevent or cure nine-tenths of the eye troubles of children, but improperly fitted glasses make bad matters worse.

Make sure that little Willie and Katie hear well out of both ears, that they are not mouth breathers, and that they keep in good physical trim while they are in school, and you will be proud of the progress and record of your boy and girl at the end of the school year.

Waiting.

A rural school had a pretty girl as its teacher, but she was much troubled because many of her pupils were late every morning. At last she made the announcement that she would kiss the first pupil to arrive at the schoolhouse the next morning. At hearing these of the largest boys of the school were waiting on the door-step of the schoolhouse and by 8 o'clock every boy in the school and four directors were waiting for her to arrive. — Ladies Home Journal.
