castle. Mr. P. M. Doup, of Newcastle, Pa. owns a little farm of 50 acres out in the county near Winston, and he wants to sell it, in fact he will sell it on next Thursday. Mr. L. M. Mewbry, an attorney at law of New Castle is here representing the interest of Mr. Doup. Mr. Mewbry has with him a Mr. George Rafferty, also of New Castle, who is here to auctioneer the place off. Mr. Mewbry in answer to our question as to the cost of selling this property, put the sum at $200, which we thought was fair. These gentleman all appear to be clever, nice fellows, but we can not help thinking that the bringing of an attorney at law and an auctioneer here to dispose of 50 acres of land is very much like our carrying coal to New Castle, their home.

It Won't Work Here. If some man in the grocery busineswere to take his wagon and follow the wagons of others in the same line of trade, and when he had seen goods delivered at certain houses that he would stop, and as soon as the other party was gone, go up to the proprietor of the house and misrepresent the goods just delivered, claiming they were not what they should be, endeavoring to place orders for his own. If this should occur in regard to clothing, in regard to dry goods, shoes, or in fact anything that supplies the wants of the people of this or any other town, it would be looked upon by the people as mean, contemptible way of doing business, and it would be condemned by every fair-minded, honest business man, and yet it is just the way we are

A Big Fall Business

There is an air of confident expectaney among all our merchants to regard to a good fall trade, and many of them are making unusual efforts to meet it. Car loads of goods are being received here every day. They go principally to our clothing and dry goods people. there are many things that will contribute to make this fall and winter phenomenal for good business. First, the war is over and peace is being restored, second, there is an increased yolume of currency to do business with and lastly there are local causes of a decided favorable nature that will contribute much toward aiding in business, the principal of them is the interest incidental and direct in regard to our Tobacco Fair. An air of confl dence, the touch stone of all business success, is manifesting itself in all business circles.
