LOCAL AND OTHERWISE.

The Sanitary Plumbing Co. has a new ad in this issue.

See ad in this paper of the famous Davis White Sulphur Springs.

Fishers are now cleaning up everything in millinery at low prices.

Miss Sadie McInnis, of Salisbury, is visiting Miss Eva May Brown.

Mr. Smith Barrier has returned from Durham, where he has been attending Trinity College.

We are glad to note that the condition of Mrs. H. B. Parks, who has been ill with malarial fever for the past fortnight, is very much improved.

Quite a crowd of the curious ones gathered at the depot and on the street corners this morning to get a look at the Western Bloomer girls, but what they saw was a homely looking aggregation.

Among the graduates of Roanoke College at the recent commencement was Herbert Franklin Cooper, of China Grove. The degree of A. B. was conferred on Ernest Merlin Shenk, formerly of Concord.

It isn't safe to keep money in the house. Read the new ad of the Cabarrus Savings Bank, which invites you to deposit your money with them. Parasols from 25 cents to $6.50 at Black & Shepard's.

The infant of Mr. B. S. Gray, died Tuesday night at his home on Young street. The funeral was held at the home Wednesday, conducted by Rev. T. W. Smith. The remains were taken to Harrisburg for interment.

Mr. Alexander Graham was yesterday unanimously re-elected superintendent of the Charlotte Graded schools, this making his 23rd year as superintendent of the schools. Prof. R. L. Keester was re-elected music teacher.

Efird has another page of great specials in today's paper. They have especially big bargains in the notion department. If you don't see something in this ad to suit both your taste and your pocket book, you are hard to please.

Mr. Joe Paris today opened up his restaurant in the northern part of the room formerly occupied by Carroll & Caldwell. A partition has been put in and the goods of Mr. D. J. Bostian have been placed in the southern end of the building.

The Gibson Drug Store has received $14.50 as the amount of damage to the window glass and desk which was sustained by the recent fire in their store. There were eight insurance companies involved in the loss, three on the glass and five on the desk.

The Baraca classes of Salisbury and Spencer are to be represented at the National Baraca convention, which is to be held at Jamestown, N. Y., July 9 to 14, and Mayor A. L. Smoot has been chosen to attend as a delegate from the above local unions.

The Western Bloomer Girls and the Concord Baseball team will cross bats this afternoon at the Brown Mill Park. The following is the line-up of the Concord team: Cannon p., Cook c., Barrier b., L. Sappentfield ss., O. Sappentfield 3b., Moose cf., Swearingin lf., Dorton rf.

Mr. J. E. Farra, a well known traveling man of Charlotte, has been confined to his room at the St. Cloud-Normandy for several days on account of illness. Mr. Farra's numerous friends in this city will be glad to know that he is again able to be out on the street.

The district conference of the Salisbury district will be held in the First Methodist church, in Salisbury, July 28-31, and will be presided over by Dr. J. C. Rowe. Mr. J. F. Shinn, district lay leader, will arrange the work of the laymen in connection with the district conference.

Lexington Dispatch: Prof. A. H. Jarrett, superintendent of the graded school, is in the hospital at Salisbury for treatment, having gone there last week. While he is a very sick man his friends have reason to believe that he will regain his good health in ample time to take charge of the school in the fall.

One of the policemen on his rounds collecting dog tax found a family consisting of mother and five fatherless children, three of whom worked in the mill and supported the family, and seven hound dogs. The tax on the dogs amounts to $7.00. The mother says that they are unable to pay this tax but she refuses to get rid of the dogs.

Lexington Dispatch: R. N. Hackett, grand master of the Masonic grand lodge, has appointed Rev. Plato Durham, who is grand chaplain, to be grand orator at the annual communication in Oxford June 24. Mr. Durham is one of the most powerful speakers in the state and the appointment will serve to increase the attendance at the grand lodge.

ROTATION IN OFFICE

Greensboro Record.

In election years we hear this almost daily—generally from the man who is one and wants to get in. Readers of this paper know our position of it, but about the best illustration of its utter futility is this from the Wilmington Star, where the press association has recently been in session. Says the Star:

"Somebody, evidently a browser outside the green pastures, recently emitted the declaration that 'rotation in office is a principle.' Principle nothing. It's a policy. There is a time to rotate and a time not to rotate. Editors are good judges of the time and they take a long time to render a decision about it when they get a good man in office.

The North Carolina Press Association has kept one man in office for twenty years. He is Editor John B. Sherrill, of the Concord Daily Tribune and the Concord Weekly Times, who is the association's veteran secretary. He actually thinks there is a whole lot of fun in strenuously doing the work of the association and all the editors encourage him in it because he knows how to perform the service with a magnitude of efficiency and a magnanimous willingness that has met with prolonged appreciation from editors who know a good thing when they see it.

The right man in a position which he is eminently qualified to fill and does fill with signal fidelity to duty and marked ability in the performance of his official work, brings about a cessation of the necessity for and the advisability of rotation in office. That is the reason some men hold office for many terms and that explains why Editor Sherrill is still on his job. Capable service and persistent fidelity merits and wins recognition and when an officeholder's incumbency is of long standing it generally is an indication that those whom he serves are satisfied to let the right man for the right place stay where he can go right on making good.

For the reason some may think that all of this is an exclusive bouquet for Secretary Sherrill, we want it understood that it largely concerns the policy of rotation and applies to all men who are on their jobs, officially and otherwise. When a party or business concern has a cinch on a man who makes good the policy of rotation is suspended till it is needed in their business.

This is what we think about rotation and also what we think about the Concord editor. We assert with more or less defiance of contradiction that we have killed two birds with one stone."

This covers the ground exactly; what is true of editor Sherrill is true in many other cases. He could never have held the job had he not been fully competent. Same way with men in political life. When you have a first-class man, hold on to him; if he is incompetent, fire him at the first opportunity.

Rushing to Europe.

New York World.

Twenty liners, most of them crowded, will leave New York for European ports this week. The congestion of summer travel follows close upon a record Mediterranean season and lends further probability to the expectation of the companies that the year's volume of traffic will exceed that of 1907. If trips to Europe are an index of prosperity we are approaching boom times again.

The Passion Play at Oberammergau and the Brussels Exposition are among the attractions which this summer lure the travelers across the ocean. But Europe itself remains the great magnet regardless of incidental sights, and the increase of travel is due to the same general causes—the growing habit of Americans to spend the summer abroad and the ampler means of indulging it. In addition to the annually augmenting number of teachers, clergymen and professional men who go abroad, more travelers from all walks of life swell the passenger lists.

The English of old had the reputation of being the greatest travelers. As specialists in travel, explorers of remote nooks and unfamiliar ways, they may still deserve the distinction. But as respects the travelling public they have lost their laurels to America. Our yearly tourist crop has become so important an item of European income that its sudden failure would cause distress from Trondhjem to Taormina.

No Populist in House.

Washington Cor. Baltimore Sun. There is not a Populist member in this Congress, and neither is there an independent, unless the regular Republicans should insist that the Insurgents ought to be so classed.

The last negro member of the House was George W. White, of Tarboro district, North Carolina. He served two terms, moved to New Jersey, where he was interested in a negro colonization enterprise, and later took up his residence in Philadelphia. White is a mulatto.

The last genuine specimen of the race in the House was George Washington Murray, of the Charleston district of South Carolina. He was seated on a cohesit. Murray was so black that when all the white representatives were in their seats during a roll-call in exciting times he looked like a huckleberry in a pan of milk.
