You Will Find the Store That Satisfies Just the Same.

We are CAR LOAD BUYERS, DISCOUNT SAVERS, and what's best, we are PRICE MAKERS. We don't sell goods "at cost" or "below cost." We can't and stay in business. You can always find what you want at The Bell & Harris Furniture Co's Store. We are "Johnny on the Spot" with the goods—in season and out of season. And the price and quality of goods considered. Fine may look like oak, but there's a difference. Last but not least—money back if goods are not as represented. Come and see us—it will do us both good.

NEW YORK STORM COSTS SIX LIVES.

Boats Blown Over and Subway is Flooded.
Four men in a fishing sloop were drowned when their craft capsized off Sea Gate in the squall at New York Saturday afternoon immediately following the disbanding of the Roosevelt parade.

A canoe was blown over in the Hackensack river, and Frederick Webber, twenty-one and Miss Mary McMillan, of this city, were drowned. Flagstaffs on water craft and Broadway buildings were snapped. A Red D Line tug rammed a ferry boat in the thick rain and passengers strapped on life preservers as the water came into her bow. Women fainted, but no one was hurt.

Central Park and Bronx Park lost some of their finest trees. The wind tore the canvases off the main tent of the Forepaugh-Seils circus, and 3,000 persons were soaked. All the baseball fans on the Polo Ground bleachers were wet to the skin, and the wind snapped the championship pennant loose from the pole and spread it out on the bleacher seats.

Women caught in the sudden storm sought refuge in Broadway barrooms. The rain flooded the subway in Harlem and put the schedules out of business for thirty minutes. The wind was blowing fifty-eight miles an hour for five minutes. The Weather Bureau said the squall might be likened to a miniature tornado.

THE TRIBUNE

CONCORD, N. C., JUNE 20, 1910

TO-DAY'S WEATHER REPORT.

Partly cloudy with light showers to-night or Tuesday; light variable winds.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE.

Mr. George Lippard is visiting in Wrightsville.

Special offerings in ladies gowns and waists at Fishers' today.

Royal Worcester Corsets, price $1 to $4, are sold by H. L. Parks & Co.

We learn that Mr. James McAnulty is quite ill at his home in No. 10 township.

Prof. A. S. Webb, who was confined to his bed several days last week, is now able to be up.

Sheer gauze hose, look and feel like silk, three pairs for $1.00 at Black & Shepard's.

Miss Marian Morris, daughter of Mr. Z. A. Morris, has been ill for over a week of malarial fever.

Miss Minnie Miller, of Charlotte, spent yesterday in the city, the guest of Mrs. J. A. Kennett.

Miss Clara Russell spent yesterday in Charlotte with her father, who is in one of the hospitals there.

If you want a coat suit, a silk or wash dress, or anything else to use on your vacation trip, go to Black & Shepard, who have it.

On account of the bursting of a pipe on McGill street, there has been no water from the city supply since about 11:30 this morning.

Miss Elma Suther, of the millinery department at Parks', has been granted a vacation, and will leave Wednesday for Durham to visit relatives.

Miss Fay Polk has resigned her position as stenographer for Montgomery & Crowell and left Saturday afternoon for her home in Charlotte.

A considerable increase in the size of the congregations at the various churches was noticed yesterday, due, so doubt, to the closing of the drug stores.

A Concord gentleman told us today that he was informed by one of the best takers Saturday that a colored man of the city gave in his household and kitchen furniture for taxes at about 100 cents per hundred.

Mr. H. C. Sharp has resigned his position as manager of the Postal office here, and left this morning for his home in Statesville. Mr. A. M. Diggs, of Gagny, S. C., has accepted the position made vacant by Mr. Sharp's resignation.

Charlotte News: "It was Editor Dockery who stated to a smoking room audience on his return from Wrightsville, and he did it with all seriousness, that his paper had never contained an untruth. Still the veracity medal went to Sturill."

Charlotte Observer: Col. Jake E. Newell, of the Charlotte bar, who disposed of his interest in the Star theater on West Trade street a few days ago, after operating it for three years, is contemplating writing a booklet recounting his experiences as caterer to the public.

Mr. W. A. Foil has a force of hands at work grading the lawn at the home of Mr. C. F. Ritchie. He is also making several driveways, terracing and otherwise improving the lawn. When this work is completed, together with the handsome residence, Mr. Ritchie will have one of the most desirable homes in this section.

The business of Max Moses & Co., wholesale grocers, who a year or so ago succeeded The Concord Wholesale Grocery Co., will be discontinued here, and the business conducted from the Salisbury house. Mr. I. Marks, who has been the manager here, will leave tomorrow for Asheville, where he will live. This leaves only two wholesale grocery houses here now, A. F. Hartsell Co. and G. W. Patterson, whereas for several years there were four.

Dr. Shull Gets License.
Charlotte Observer, 20th.

Dr. Rush Shull passed through the city yesterday from Wrightsville where he stood the State board examination and procured his license to practice medicine in North Carolina. He received his degree of doctor of medicine at Jefferson University, Philadelphia, last Tuesday. Dr. Shull led his classes at the University of North Carolina for four years and while in Philadelphia was appointed resident physician of the Alleghany hospital. He is a brilliant young man and has always stood in the forefront of his classes in medicine. His home is in Shelby and he will be there six weeks before returning North.

President Signs Railroad Bill—Passed by House.

The Taft railroad bill is now on the statute books.

The measure was finally passed by the House Saturday and was signed by the President at 10:15 o'clock last night.

The President found both the administration railroad bill and the Statehood measure, which also went through the House on its final passage Saturday afternoon, waiting for his signature in the White House when he returned from his trip to Pennsylvania.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Some of the People Here and Elsewhere Who Come and Go.

Mr. Fred Patterson is spending the day in Charlotte.

Mr. W. W. Stuart left this morning on a business trip to Asheville and Morganton.

Mr. J. Lindsay Ross, of Anderson, S. C., was a Concord visitor yesterday.

Mr. Ed. S. Eiril has returned from a visit to the family of his father in Anson county.

Miss Margaret Lentz will leave tomorrow for Salisbury to attend the Alexander-Mauney marriage.

Mrs. J. F. Harris and children, who have been visiting in Mooresville, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Galloway, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. P. B. Means, returned this morning to her in Elkin.

Miss Minnie Ross returned Saturday afternoon from Raleigh, where she has been teaching school.

Miss Margaret Vance left this morning for Charlottesville, Va., to attend the Summer School for teachers.

Mr. W. S. Spradley, who has been visiting relatives in the city, left Saturday afternoon for his home in Danville.

Miss Sallie Misenheimer, who has been visiting Mrs. A. S. Dayvault, returned Saturday to her home in Mt. Pleasant.

Miss Eleanor Watson, of Salisbury, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. E. Smoot, will be in Concord the remainder of the week.

Miss Cora Johnson, of No. 2 township, after spending three days at her home, left again today for Charlotte, where she is taking a course in stenography at King's Business college.

Miss Amy J. Stevens left this morning for Goldsboro, where she will visit for ten days. Miss Stevens will go from there to Boston, Mass., where she will attend the National Educational Association.

Miss Annie Page, who has been visiting Mrs. F. J. Haywood, Jr., for several days, will leave today for her home in Raleigh. She is a daughter of the late beloved Rev. Jesse H. Page, and has many friends here.

There is Many a Slip—

You can never tell from where you stand whether it will hit or miss, and presumption is sometimes pardonable for in the affair of Jim Doyle, the dandified cowboy of the camp, it looked as though the race was his. He was in fine form, the track was good and he was certainly in the running. Milly Howard, the belle of the camp, certainly gave all the impression that things were pretty well understood between them, as she seemed attracted by Jim's manly bearing, dandy appearance and extreme good nature, and as the boys all withdrew their suits—that is, all but one, Manuel the Mexican. He loved, and when he loved he was determined. So he sets to work to cut Dandy Jim out, and he succeeds. Jim, however, is persistent and one day escorts the fair Milly to her home from the village store. The sight of Jim and Milly strolling along together knocks to "pi" in the minds of the boys the Mexican's yarn that he and Milly are engaged, and when they see him they twit him about it. Manuel is furious and goes to see the girl accusing her of being false to their truth, and so spurns her. Milly, at his departure, falls sobbing to the ground. Two of the boys pass at this moment and imagining her grief due to a jilt by Jim, go off to find the supposed offender. Meanwhile, Manuel has relented and hurries. Milly off to the minister's, where they are married, thus ending their unrest. The gang have surprised Jim, and before he has a chance to speak, bind and gag him. Jim has a sneaking suspicion that it is to be a lynching bee, but is ignorant of the cause. The boys hustle him along, passing the minister's house, who they call to accompany them. Jim believes the minister's services are enlisted for his funeral, so you may imagine his surprise when they halt in front of Milly's residence, and calling her out demand the minister to marry her and Jim at once. Milly refuses to become a bigamist, the minister refuses to perform the ceremony until the Mexican consents to make her a widow, and although Jim would be most willing to marry her he realizes the conditions prevent. At the Pastime tonight.

Two Mighty Attractive Things About BROWNS CANNON CO. CLOTHES.

The first is the price.

You get an exquisitely tailored product at a reasonable self-respecting price.

The next attractive thing is the suit itself. Its style, drape and hang and exclusiveness of design are there in every line.

These qualities discriminate Browns-Cannon Co. Clothes, wearers from the crowd.

We are selling for these warm days a Blue Serge Coat and Pants for the special price of $18.50. It's a peach. Come in and try it on, you do not have to buy. Others at $15.00 and up.
