CONCORD, N. C., JUNE 23, 1910

HARMONY IN THE SANCTUM.

The above was the caption of an essay read at the recent meeting of the North Carolina Press Association at Wrightsville by Mr. Wade H. Harris, the able and versatile editor of The Charlotte Chronicle. The paper was a model one, in subject matter and length, and made a deep impression on all who heard it. We can fill our editorial columns in no better way than by producing this address entire, which we do, as follows:

Your executive committee requested that I should undertake to read a paper at this meeting of the Association, and the subject having been left to me, I have decided to talk along the line of good will in the shop.

A very much better condition prevails in North Carolina Journalism today than in the recent past. Newer and better ideals are governing the press. The old time editor who was always looking for his toes to be trod upon, has given way to the editor who runs a business paper, who is devoting his talents to the development of manufacturing and industries, to the uplifting of his community and State and the entertainment and instruction of his readers.

The old time newspaper was a knocker, and it never knocked harder than when its field was invaded by a newcomer. The editor who would go into a town where a paper was already "running" would be met with a club in the hands of his esteemed contemporary. He would be denounced as an invader of established rights; as a disturber of the peace, and parenthetically, the laziness of the town, and once a week it would be up to him to dodge a shower of mud balls.

But, as I have indicated, the times are changing. The newspaper business is being raised to its proper level. The editors who have been preaching that "competition is the life of trade" are themselves accepting the truth of the doctrine, as they should do. Where one paper can do good, two papers may do more good.

Instances of the more elevated tone of the press in this State are not lacking, and it may not be improper to cite a few. In Durham we have the ideal newspaper situation. The same is true in Wadesboro, in Monroe, in Asheville, in Hickory, in Charlotte and in Wilmington.

While in these towns the papers are in a sense competitors, the only strife is to see who can get out the better paper; which can give the most news and which can do the most good for the development of its particular community. In that way, the spirit of harmony in the sanctum is cultivated and the newspaper is performing its function.

The reader of the newspaper of today does not care for the petty prejudices of its publisher. A bilious editorial will disgust him. On the other hand, an editorial that will lead his mind into pleasant and profitable paths will make him feel that he is getting the worth of his money.

Every editor should have political opinions of his own and should be free to express them. No editor should be an echo. And by this same token there should be tolerance by one editor of the opinion expressed by another. It is this sort of policy that is leading to harmony in the sanctum.

One of the rocks on which the press is sometimes shattered into discord, is the tariff. A Democratic editor will pay ten cents for a straw hat and then go to his office and write a column editorial to prove that if the tariff on straw were removed, he might have gotten the hat for nothing. His Republican contemporary will come back at him with the argument that if the tariff on straw were killed the American bound steamships from Europe will be little less than floating straw stacks and that what Samson and the Philistines would not be a circumstance to what free straw would do for the farmers of the United States.

I, myself, am a sufferer of long standing from the tariff iniquity. It was in the campaign of 1884 that Rev. Tom Dixon, conceiving the idea that Senator Vance was not able to handle the tariff question, set in to help him explain it to the people. In a speech in Charlotte, Mr. Dixon got to an explanation of the tariff on hardware, and felt in his pocket for a knife to hold up as an example and I saved the situation by handing him my tariff paid knife. From that day to this I have never seen that knife, but I have made no howl about it.

The harmony plan is the most profitable one. The people do not like a quarrelsome paper and will take advantage of the first opportunity to stop it coming to their homes—and forget it. The paper that is bright of speech, cherry of tone and that gives the news as it comes, is the paper that is going to be in popular demand.

It is up to that standard that the newspapers of the South and of North Carolina are steadily working their way.

In this day, no newspaper has any cause to knock another. That is an art of the past. The mission of the newspaper of the present time is to give its readers all the news it can get, and in handling men and events do it honestly and candidly and so far as it may be in its power, intelligently.

And here, under the spell of the sweetest harmony of the universe, that of the ever restless sea, pounding in and seething out, is of all the most fitting place and time to elapse, to let breezings fly to the winds, and to enter into a compact to work for the good of our readers and for the advancement of all material interests of North Carolina.

The Ohio Democratic convention, held yesterday at Dayton, seems to have by an almost overwhelming vote spurned Mr. William Jennings Bryan's advice. The proposition to endorse a candidate for United States senator, which was suggested by Bryan, was defeated, receiving but 24 votes out of the 1,099 votes in the convention. Judge Harmon is a much bigger man in Ohio than Mr. Bryan, and is fast coming to the front as a candidate for President in 1912.

Italian Colony Near Wilmington.

We have seen much of North Carolina in our day, but not until the trip to Wilmington last week did we know that a few miles out from that city, and across the line in a neighboring county, is a colony of Italians that are making their section blossom like a rose. Their location is called St. Helena, and there are said to be something like 400 of them in the colony. They were brought there from northern Italy, noted for its good farmers, and are a vastly different people from the Sicilian class of peanut and banana vendors who come from the southern part of that country. This colony was planted on unimproved land right in the woods, but they set to work in earnest and their section now looks like a truck garden. They are a class of immigrants that North Carolina needs and the State should have many such colonies.

Immense Mill Picnic.

The annual picnic dinner given at Greensboro, by the Messrs. Cone to the thousands of operatives of their mills and their visiting relatives and friends will be held this year on Saturday, July 2nd, instead of the usual date, July 4th. This is the sixth annual picnic given by the Messrs. Cone to the employees of their Proximity, Revolution and White Oak cotton mills and it promises to be the biggest, since arrangements have already been perfected whereby 15,000 people can be fed. Besides speeches from the Messrs. Cone, other exercises of the day will include band concerts by the Union Textile Band, a musical organization of 60 pieces made up of employees of the three big mills, baseball games, vaudeville shows, and other attractions beside the big dinner.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA.

Does it not seem strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema?

A 25-cent bottle of a simple wash stops the itch and will surely convince any patient.

This wash is composed of mild and soothing oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol and glycerine, etc., and known as D. D. D. Prescription. We do not know how long the D. D. D. Laboratories will continue the 25-cent offer, as the remedy is regularly sold only in $1.00 bottles and has never before been put on the market on any special offers.

If you want relief tonight try a bottle at 25 cents on our personal recommendation. Gibson Drug Store.

South Becoming the Most Prosperous. Atlanta Constitution, 21st.

That the South is fast becoming the most prosperous section in the country is the opinion of the fourteen superintendents of the Bradstreet Company who are now holding an important session in Atlanta, the convention coming to a close on Wednesday night.

Inasmuch as they represent all portions of this section they are in a position more than, perhaps, any one class of men, due to their close touch with trade conditions, to know exactly what is going on at all times. Their opinions on such subjects are of great importance.

Anti-Typhoid Vaccine.

Prof. Vincent at Paris last night announced before the Academy of Medicine the discovery of an effective anti-typhoid vaccine, which he prepared by steeping typhoid bacilli in a weak solution of water and sodium chloride (common salt) with an admixture of ether.

Prof. Vincent made a number of experiments with animals which after being vaccinated with a good subsequent inoculation with typhoid germs. He also vaccinated thirteen persons, an examination of whose blood after the operation showed that it possessed to a high degree properties destructive of the typhoid bacillus. Further experiments demonstrated the fact that the typhoid bacilli was placed in conjunction with serum of the blood than from the poison vaccinated, lost all vitality.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedial. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Scared into Sound Health.

Mr. B. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley's Kidney Pills and after taking them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free from all distress." Cabarrus Drug Co.
