CONCORD, N. C., Sept. 6, 1910

Ex-Governor Aycock's Prayer Answered.

About four years ago when Mr. Bryan was in Europe and it was confidently expected that upon his return he would have a triumph politically...

This exclamation reached North Carolina and produced consternation in many quarters for fear it meant the ex-senator was going to try to leap on the democratic band wagon...

"For the same reason the old darkey deacon down in Warren county prayed for the Lord to send Deacon Jones to hell," replied Mr. Aycock.

"Down in Warren at a darkey meeting one night an old deacon prayed with great fervor. 'Now, dear Lord, please send Brother Bill Jones to hell.' After the meeting the brethren reprimanded him for such seeming sacrilege...

Catawba College Opens September 7.

Catawba College and Preparatory School will open Wednesday, Sept. 7th. Rev. T. J. Haeker, D. D., of Roanoke, Va., will deliver the address in the college auditorium at eight p. m.

There is every indication that the college shall have a large increase in the enrollment as compared with last year and all the buildings are being put in readiness for the accommodation of students.

Thorough courses, a strong faculty and an up-to-date equipment insure the best educational opportunities and all who seek a liberal education will do well to take advantage of them.

Christ Portraits Not True.

"The portraits of Christ are not true to life," said Prof. Henry B. Wright, of Yale University, in an address before 50 Chinese students at Evanston, Ill., Tuesday.

"It is not strange that they should not be," continued the Professor, "for no man who ever painted a portrait of Christ ever saw him."

"From all descriptions of Christ in the Bible we are led to believe that he was a strong, muscular man, even bronzed and ruddy and anything but effeminate, as many portraits show him to be."

"This is as he should be. Christ was the only man who ever lived who was all powerful." David Starr Jordan, of Island Stanford University, declares that young men today get only half the power they should out of their efforts...

UNCLE SAM PAYS DEBT OF $12 AFTER 48 YEARS.

Ex-Postmaster's Lawyer Gets One-third as Fee.

J. W. Range, an Alaska miner, recently received a check for $12 due him when he resigned a postmaster-ship at Mill Village, Pa., in the fall of 1867.

At 6 per cent, an average legal rate of interest in the United States, the principal and compound interest would amount to $138.08. In other words, Uncle Sam made $126.08 on the $12 that belonged to Range.

Range was compelled to pay an attorney in Washington one-third of the amount he received after waiting more than forty-two years for collecting it. When the check was received Range sent $4 to the astute attorney in the national capital for his services.

"I served three years in the war," said Range, "and when I returned home my friends at Mill Village wanted to do something for me, so they had me appointed postmaster. I resigned in less than a year and went west."

"About five years ago I received a letter from an attorney in Washington, advising me that I had a good and just claim against the government for $12 and that he would collect it for one-third of the amount as his commission. I did not know the government owed me anything, but I told him if I had anything coming to me he might go after it. I think the claim was for overpayment of postage stamps. I got the check, signed by Secretary MacVeagh, and had to send the attorney $4 for collecting the claim."

CHASE'S DESK STILL IN USE.

Treasury Clerks Eager to Own Historic Furniture.

In the office of the auditor for the postoffice department bureau of the treasury department at Washington there is a mahogany desk of historical interest. It is flat topped, plain and not a little marked and worn from constant use for over fifty years.

This desk was taken from the treasury building just after the civil war to the building at the corner of Eighth and E streets, where the sixth auditor's office (called in those days the colony) was housed for some years previous to its removal to the Busch building.

Tradition has it that many clerks from time to time have asked the honor of sitting at the desk. In a recent purchase of more modern desks for the auditor's office, which made necessary the removal of all the old high desks, the Chase desk, which conforms in shape to the modern office desks, was just moved in line with others, thus escaping the ordinary fate of the annual junk sale of the treasury department.

AIR WILL RING UP FARES.

Hudson River Tunnel Has New Tub Keeping Scheme.

Aviators are not the only persons who can take a fall out of the air.

W. G. McAdoo of Hudson tunnel fame is going them one better. He is making the air work for him. A young inventor gave him the idea, and he is following it up by having compressed air device which registers the number of passengers using the "tubes" installed in the Hoboken terminal.

In the contrivance which Mr. McAdoo is using a constant flow of compressed air is directed toward a disk equipped with an electric registering apparatus. A person passing through the current of air interrupts the pressure against the disk, and this "rings up" the fare.

The device promises to prove practical.

STANFORD GETS COLLECTION

Jarboe Library on French Revolution Goes to University.

The famous Jarboe collection of rare volumes of the French revolution has been acquired by Stanford university. This extremely valuable addition to the library takes its name from the man who originally brought the books together, John R. Jarboe, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco, many years ago.

The value of the library does not lie in its size, but in the character of its contents. The collection contains approximately 2,500 pieces. These are from almost entirely original sources and materials, most of them being extremely rare. The collection of contemporary pamphlets alone comprises 1,500 titles, and memoirs are present in surprising numbers.

Many Villages in Japan. Japan has sixty-six cities, 1,297 towns and 13,697 villages. The rice production exceeds in quantity 500,000,000 bushels a year, tea nearly 60,000,000 pounds a year and silk more than 25,000,000 pounds a year.

NO LAUDATION IN GEORGE'S STATUE.

New York Revolution Tempest in Teapot—Symbolic of Tyranny.

The loud alarm that threatened to loose the dogs of war, caused by the proposal to erect a replica of the lead statue of George III, that stood in Bowling Green, New York, has abated.

For a time it appeared as if each member of every American patriotic and historical society in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut at least would become embroiled.

Not Complimentary to George.

The sudden calm over the matter was caused by the discovery that the commitment to the memory of King George, if paid, will be of the left handed variety. The purpose, it is said, will be attested by an inscription, occupying a prominent place on the pedestal, which will read somewhat as follows:

"This replica of the statue of the tyrant King George III is erected in memory of the American patriots who destroyed the original and molded it into bullets that were used in battling for American liberty."

The restored statue would stand as a powerful lesson in patriotism to American youth, it is declared.

The original leaden statue, it will be remembered, was pulled from its pedestal by patriotic New Yorkers at the beginning of the Revolution and molded into bullets for the Continental army. Parts of the original statue which were cast of metal not suitable for bullets are in the possession of various societies.

Cushing Stetson, grandson of a governor of Massachusetts, is the leader in the plan to collect as many of the fragments of the original statue as may be in existence and use them in the replica.

Fearing Clash of Nations.

The New York Daughters of the Revolution were among the opponents of the plan as it was originally understood, and one member forecast possibilities as follows:

"Serious objection to setting up an effigy of King George III on Bowling Green may be found on the ground that it might give rise to unpleasant incidents. It would be unfortunate if on a Memorial day parade of the St. George's society on its way to hang a wreath around the neck of the British monarch clashed with the Sons of the Revolution marching to festoon the memorial to the prison martyrs in Trinity churchyard."

"Cyrus Field several years ago made the experiment of erecting a monument to the ill fated Major Andre near Tarrytown, but it was not long in position before it was dynamited. About ten years ago a Chicago newspaper woman suggested that it would be a graceful act if the American visitors to Quebec commemorated their annual invasion of that historic city by putting up a statue of General Richard Montgomery, who was killed leading an assault on the city on Dec. 31, 1775."

"The Quebecers stated frankly that if such a monument were erected it would not long be in position. A compromise was effected by the Quebec Historical society itself setting up a plain tablet to mark the site of the battle. Like discretion will prevent the execution of this latest vagary of the historians."

SARDINE VALUES UNCERTAIN.

Bay of Fundy Tide Often Spoils Maine Fishermen's Hopes.

President Taft during his recent Maine visit was much interested to learn that Eastport is where sardines come from. He was told that one of the two banks there did $1,000,000 worth of this fish business last year and that $3,000 worth of fish left Eastport each night on the "sardine express."

Some of the uncertainties of sardine fishing were explained to him. There is a twenty-eight foot rise and fall of tide in the bay of Fundy, and specially constructed wooden picket inclosures are staked out in the water to gather in the fish.

Last season a man erected an inclosure in what he supposed to be excellent fishing territory, but got nothing. He deplored his loss and for a time failed to go near it. "Why don't you seine it again?" somebody asked. "What's the use?" he replied. "Let me try it," the other persisted. "Yes, said you may have all the fish you get." The other man pulled out $1,700 worth at one haul.

British Parcels Post Extended.

The British parcels post forwarded 2,808,051 parcels in 1909. By this means about $25,000,000 worth of goods are exported yearly and about $7,000,000 worth imported. Extensions were made in 1908 to Russia in Asia and to northern Manchuria and Japan by way of Siberia. The total number of parcels forwarded and received in 1909 was 4,342,008.

Alexandra, the dowager queen of England, is said to have changed greatly since the death of King Edward. The loss of her husband, the falling away of the social interest that formerly centered about her and the loss of prestige have hurt her greatly. She shows the sorrow and care in her face that for years preserved its wonderful freshness and appearance of youth. Her deafness has become more marked.
