JOHN M. OGLESBY, City Editor

Concord, N. C., January 6, 1911.

ABOUT OUR CENSUS FIGURES.

The showing for Concord is a distinct surprise, in a disappointing way. That town has been claiming over 10,000. It had 7,910 by the census of 1900. The best it can do by the last census is 8,715, an increase of only 805 in ten years. Salisbury beats that record by a close shave, Charlotte Chronicle.

Of course, there are many "explanations" that could be given, all of which would go far toward a clear understanding of the situation, but it is useless to enlarge on these now. The newspapers in Salisbury, Asheville, Greensboro and other cities whose population as announced by the census director is much less than was expected, are busy with giving all sorts of reasons as to "how come." We want to state this, however: When the census enumerators made their rounds here it was after the Odell mill No. 4 had been burned, and before the Locke Mills had erected the new mill in its stead. There were thrown out of employment many families, the individuals numbering more than 1,000. Nearly all of these moved away from Concord, as the other mills were running on short time and were not operating at night. Since the big new mill has been completed and put in operation six days in the week, nearly all these people have returned; besides many new families have come in, and now Concord has more than 10,000 people.

Another thing: There is a general impression in other cities, which somehow look on Concord as one of the small towns, that our corporate limits extend "over all creation." This is a great error. Three of our large cotton mill settlements, and part of another are outside the city limits. The Brown mill, Young-Hartsell mill and the Franklin mill settlements are all outside, and part of the Gibson mill settlement also. In all these, which are really as much a part of the city as any other section, there are 1,000 or 1,500 people. Concord therefore, if the corporate limits included what really belongs to the city, would at present have about 12,000.

While at first blush it seemed that our growth in ten years had been discouraging, when the above facts are considered, and also the fact of the remarkable depression in the cotton mill business for the past several years, we consider that we have done remarkably well. Don't you?

The beverage commonly known as "near-beer" came in for a good hard rap at the hands of Attorney General Bickett in his recent report. Here is what he says on the subject: "The cases that have come to the Supreme Court and the large number of letters addressed to this office make it clear that the sale of near beer is an unmitigated nuisance and legislation should be enacted to destroy it root and branch.—Winston Sentinel.

And the near beer business got a still harder lick the very first day the Legislature met for the transaction of business when a bill was introduced in the House to prohibit the sale of the stuff, passed on third reading and sent to the Senate without engrossment. This is quick business, but the situation demands it.

We cannot have too many railroads. The Charlotte Observer learns that the Seaboard Air Line is planning to build from Charlotte via Salisbury to Ston-Salem. The best thing that could happen for the State would be for all the big lines to spread out and put an end to the division of territory, which has prevented needed railroad construction.—Charlotte Chronicle.

WESTERN STANLY.

Mr. Adam Love, of Trinity College, who has been visiting home folks has returned.

Miss Odessa Connell visited her brother, H. R. Connell, last week.

Miss Mattie Nance has returned to school at Albemarle, Miss Ida Young, to Wingate, and Mump Love, to Unionville.

Lesson II.—First Quarter, For Jan. 8, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings xii, 25, to xiii, 6—Memory Verses, 28-30—Golden Text, Ex. xx, 4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

All the predictions and foreshadowings of Scripture and their fulfillments should be of the greatest possible interest to every child of God, and before we leave the story of Jeroboam we should notice that in the fifth year of his reign, or just about thirty-four years after the temple was completed, it was plundered by Shishak, king of Egypt. Compare 1 Kings vi, 38, and II Chron. xii, 2, 9. In John II, 19-21, the Lord Jesus spoke of Himself as the temple and of His death and resurrection, and He must have been about thirty-four years of age when He was crucified.

In the lesson of today we are introduced to Jeroboam, son of Nebat, the first king of the ten tribes, and afterward spoken of over twenty times as the man who made Israel to sin, and this he did deliberately, although he had been told that the kingdom had been divided and part of it given to him because of this very sin of idolatry on the part of Solomon (chapter xi, 31-38). He had also been told that if he would do right in the sight of the Lord the Lord would be with him and build him a sure house.

He seems, however, to have had no confidence in the assurance of the Lord, but was afraid that if the people went to Jerusalem to offer sacrifice in the house of the Lord the kingdom would return to the house of David. So he took counsel and made two calves of gold, placing one in Bethel and one in Dan, for the people to worship and said, "Behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt" (verse 28). There is an evil one, the devil, who hates the living and true God and His word and His people and ever seeks to have people worship him instead of God. Whatever is not the worship of God is the worship of the devil and of demons, and all idolatry is of the devil (Deut. xxxii, 16, 17; I Cor. x, 20; Ps. cvl, 35-37). The great deceiver and enemy of God and man sought to have even the Son of God worship him and to that end offered Him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them (Matt. iv, 8-10). He will ere this age closes, but after the church has been caught away, possess a man whom all the world will worship except those whose names are in the book of life (Rev. xiii, 4-8). This Jeroboam and all others from Cain onward to the antichrist of the last days, who do not believe God and therefore do believe the devil, are all one family and on their way to the place prepared for the devil and his angels (Matt. xxv, 41).

In verse 28 we read that the king took counsel, but it was certainly not of God, reminding us of Isa. xxx, 1, 2; viii, 9, 10, for it is only the counsel of the Lord that stands (Ps. xxxiii, 10, 11). The whole thing was a device of his own heart, like the false prophets of Jer. xxiii, 16, 26, whom the Lord did not send, and therefore the devil did. Three of the places mentioned in our lesson were places of the greatest possible interest to a child of God, and if Jeroboam had been such he could not but have profited greatly by the recollection of what had happened there. Two of them, Shechem and Bethel, would have reminded him of an altar unto the Lord and of the Lord's appearing to Abraham and to Jacob (Gen. xii and xxviii). At Peniel or Peniel the Lord wrestled with Jacob, humbled him and gave him his new name of Israel, and Jacob said, "I have seen God face to face" (Gen. xxxii). At Shechem Joshua delivered his farewell address to Israel, which might have done Jeroboam good if he could have read it, for he greatly needed such words.

There also the body of Joseph was buried, which the children of Israel brought out of Egypt (Josh. xxiv). And there the Lord Jesus sat on Jacob's well and saved the woman of Samaria (John iv) and afterward many others. Dan was the northern boundary of the land, and Bethel was in the south of the ten tribes, so that Jeroboam might be said to have filled the land with idolatry from north to south. How fearful and horrible! (Jer. v, 30, 31). The prophet Ahijah was commissioned to tell Jeroboam by the mouth of his wife that because of his sin the Lord would root up Israel out of the land and scatter them beyond the river (chapter xiv, 12-10).

If an expression can be a key to a chapter, then chapter xiii is the greatest "man of God" chapter in the Bible, for the title is found there fifteen times, though the name of the man of God is not given.

It is a marvelous record and a most solemn warning not to believe even an angel nor a prophet, however venerable, if his testimony is contrary to the word of God. It may be that the Apostle Paul had it in mind when he, by the Spirit, wrote Gal. i, 8. In chapter xiii, 2, we have Josiah, the king, mentioned by name about 300 years before he was born, and the fulfillment of this prediction concerning him is recorded in II Kings xxiii, 15-17. May this prediction and fulfillment strengthen us to believe firmly that every prediction in Scripture shall be as literally fulfilled. Read carefully this wonderful chapter.

Dandruff and Itching Scalp Yield to this Treatment.

We invite you to try ZEMO and ZEMO SOAP and if not entirely satisfied we will refund your money.

It's easier for some men to paint word pictures than it is for them to tell the plain unvarnished truth.

A Reliable Cough Medicine
Is a valuable family friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fills this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, N. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in my house. Soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." Sold by Cabarrus Drug Co.

A TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLAR PROPOSITION.

The State Treasurer and the Cabarrus County Public Schools are now making loud and pressing demands upon me for the money due these causes. We have reached the VERY SPOT where something must be done. The State has obligations to meet, and the faithful school teacher here in Cabarrus county is expecting his salary to be promptly paid at the end of each month. They all look to me.

How in the world can these demands be met unless the taxpayers pay their taxes? This is the only way I know.

The taxes have been due since September and they have been collectable by law since November 1st. I have been patient, resorting to no force, threats or begging; but necessity now forces me to collect in the next ten days at the outset at least twenty thousand ($20,000) dollars, AND THEY MUST COME. I am in dead earnest.

I will be glad to have those in arrears to voluntarily call; but, in the meantime, having no time to waste and being desperately in earnest, I will make personal calls and demands in order to be sure to raise this amount. It just can't be put off; and please don't ask for any extension.

Yours in great need of taxes,
J. F. HONEYCUTT, Sheriff.

"Thimble, Thimble, who has the Thimble?"

"I don't know," answered the little girl.

"There are no thimbles in our house. We wear Wunderhose Mother never has to darn our stockings any more."

The spinning wheel, like the darning needle, speaks of a day that is past and gone. Wunderhose put the spinning wheel in the garret; Wunderhose leaves the darning needle to rust. Neither the bachelor, nor the married man, nor "mother" worry now about stockings wearing out.

Wunderhose

are everlasting. Doubt it? You get new ones if four pairs do not wear you four months without holes in heels, toes or sole. And stylish—well, ask your best girl. She wears them. So does the entire family. So will you. "The man who knows, wears Wunderhose."
