No appointment Gov. Kitchin has made is more fitting or will be more generally commended than the naming of Mr. R. R. Clark, editor of the Statesville Landmark, as a member of the board of directors of the State Hospital for the insane at Morganton. And it also gives a knock-out blow to the charge often made against Gov. Kitchin that he appointed only his personal friends and political supporters to office. In the campaign for the gubernatorial nomination Mr. Clark was one of the most active and vigorous workers for Mr. Craig.

Some of the correspondents down at Raleigh slipped a cog the other day when they said near-her had been knocked out all over the State. As stated in yesterday's Record, the bill applies only to Macon county. Andrew Joyner, who is representing this paper at Raleigh, however, did not get lost. He said it was purely a local bill.—Greensboro Record.

The Tribune's special representative at Raleigh also stated in his telegram to our paper on Friday that the bill referred only to Macon county.

One of the most notable bills that will engage the attention of the Legislature this session was the one introduced Saturday to regulate the rate of interest to be charged in the State so that by special contract as much as eight per cent. could be collected. We thought the six per cent. interest law was giving general satisfaction, and are of the opinion that it would be unwise to change it.

Panama Canal Will be Like a River.
The Panama Canal as it is today presents the most marvelous engineering feat in the world because of its magnitude and its bearing upon the future history of all nations.

Astonishing progress has been made. The work is on such gigantic scale that heretofore it has required the trained mind of an engineer to trace the course of the ditch.

It should be explained at the outset that the Panama Canal will be more of an artificially constructed river than the regularly cut canals with which the average American is familiar. When completed, probably the only feature which will suggest that it is a canal will be the locks and dam spillways. For the remainder of the distance, the inter-oceanic canal will appear merely as a river, winding its way through canyons and valleys.

It is predicted that the canal will be completed by December, 1913. This does not mean that it will be actually in use by that time. It will require a rainy season—eight or nine months—to store up water to fill the ditch, and in addition, Colonel George W. Goethals, chief engineer, desires that the force of men who will operate the locks and handle the vessels passing through the canal shall have several months in which to become proficient in their work.

The canal will be ready for commercial business by January 11, 1915.

Benefit Trinity Boys.

Durham Sun.
Benjamin Lowenstein has made a liberal offer in endeavoring to aid the students of Trinity college, who lost all their possessions in the fire early Thursday morning, which destroyed the Washington Duke building. Half of the proceeds from the sale of "As I Saw It" tomorrow at the Main Street pharmacy will be given to this cause.

MILEAGE BOOK NUISANCE.

How Atlanta Woman Suffered from the Mileage Book Rule.

Atlanta Journal.
R. N. Silliman, department manager for the S. S. White Dental Manufacturing Company, recounts an experience offering the most extreme instance yet on record of the inconvenience that may be occasioned by the rule forcing holders of mileage books to exchange the mileage for tickets.

Mr. Silliman is not a seeker after newspaper notoriety, but has recounted the following facts to the Journal in the hope that their publication will be of interest and help to the traveling public in the present campaign to have the rule changed.

"A short time ago," says Mr. Silliman, "I had occasion to travel north with my wife and along with other transportation which I purchased, I sent for a Pennsylvania railroad mileage book advising that it be made out to myself and wife. The Pennsylvania road sent me by return mail a mileage book that is nearly perfect as human ingenuity can make it; the book was simply numbered; no name was on it at all; the mileage was good for face value when presented on the trains by anybody. My wife and I and my friends, too, could travel on the same mileage book if we wanted to. This I recount simply by way of contrast to our experience later with mileage books of other roads.

"On the return trip I was compelled to stop over at Philadelphia, while my wife, traveling alone with two little babies, had to come on through to Atlanta. Her transportation was all right so far as Washington, but she held a Southern railway mileage book in her own name for transportation from Washington to Atlanta, and I explained to her before she left Philadelphia that she would have to get the mileage exchanged for a ticket at Washington. I told her, however, that since the train arrived in Washington late at night, and since the Pullman she was in was the same in which she would go right through to Atlanta, she might ask the conductor to exchange the mileage for her, or if the conductor was too busy, might give the porter a half dollar or dollar for performing the service. She had her Pullman reservation straight through from Philadelphia to Atlanta.

"Well, in the evening, as the train was rolling along toward Washington, my wife called the conductor and explained that she wanted to retire early and that it would be extremely difficult, even if she sat up, to leave her little babies alone and go out into a strange station to look for the ticket window at 10:40 p. m., and asked him as a special favor, to exchange the mileage for her. The conductor was courteous and regretful, but he said there was an ironclad rule against his doing it, and he couldn't. Then she called the porter. He was sorry, but there was a rule prohibiting him from doing it.

"So my wife had to get out all alone, leaving the babies alone in the train, to look for the ticket window. She only found it after many inquiries, through the kind assistance of a stranger (not a railroad man) to whom she appealed in desperation after she had consumed 10 or 20 minutes grace.

"Of course she had to wait in line at the window, and when she got back to the tracks her Pullman had disappeared! It had been shunted around onto another track. The thought of her babies alone made her frantic, and she demanded of the first man she saw with a uniform that he find her car for her—and she took no refusal that time.

"When she got aboard the car she found she had lacked only a fraction over a minute of losing it."

Improved Service to Knoxville, Cincinnati, Louisville and Points West.

Effective with the inauguration of the Southern's new train the Carolina Special which is a solid through train from Charleston, S. C., to Cincinnati, Ohio, put in operation on January 2, 1911, passengers for Knoxville, Cincinnati, Louisville, and points west, can leave Salisbury on train No. 21, at 2:30 p. m., which is a solid through train from Goldsboro to Asheville, with parlor car, arriving at Asheville at 7:40 p. m. and Cincinnati at 10:00 a. m. The Carolina Special makes close connection at Lexington, Ky., for Louisville and points west. This gives three daily connections from this section to Knoxville, Cincinnati and points west, and very greatly improves the service.

DON PORFIRIO.

Short be the lives of those who seek
To play with the Lord of Chapultepec!
Heart of bronze and hand of steel,
He treads his way with an iron heel.
The gates of Belem are opened wide—
Take heed! There is plenty of room inside.
Where drumheads courts mete out your lot
And Justice deals in sword and shot!
The Woman in White is drenched
with red,
And snow peaks hide the rebel dead.
Fury of Freedom dies soon here,
Where the banner stills the patriot's cheer.
The vultures flock from their mountain nests
To the feast Porfirio gives his guests.
Graves in their gullets they find who seek
To play with the Lord of Chapultepec!

MONUMENT TO GOOD LIVER IS ERECTED BY FRENCHMEN

Belley to Honor Memory of Brillat-Savarin.

Belley, a little town in the south-east of France, is about to raise a monument to the glory of one of its sons, Brillat-Savarin. The author of "The Physiology of Taste" was the absolute realization of the typical good liver. The revolution confiscated his property and removed him from his office as civil judge. He fled to Switzerland and then to the United States, where he played a fiddle in a New York theater to gain a living.

His property was afterward returned to him, and he was made a counselor of the supreme court, an office he clung to successfully through changes of empire and kingdom. His "Physiology of Taste" shared the fate of many celebrated books. It was refused by several publishers and eventually was published at the author's expense, but without his name attached to it, as he considered the nature of the work incompatible with his judicial functions.

It was Brillat-Savarin who declared that "the discovery of a new food does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a star."

Some of the axioms from his book are:

The man who can cook is made; the man who can roast is born.
To invite anybody to one's house is to undertake the responsibility of his well being during the whole time he is one's guest.

Animals feed; man eats. The man of sense alone knows how to eat.

The destiny of nations depends upon how they are fed.

The table is the only place where one is not bored for the first hour.

"Monsieur the counselor," a hostess asked him one day, "which do you prefer, burgundy or bordeaux?"

"Madame," replied the judicial authority, "that is a lawsuit in which I have so much pleasure in taking the evidence that I always postpone judgment."

PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE FORMED

Nonpartisan Organization Under Way to Advance Inherent Policies.

A few weeks ago James A. Edgerton, the newspaper writer, suggested the formation of a nonpartisan progressive league to push forward progressive principles. He has just received word of the first league formed under the plan. It is in San Joaquin county, Cal., in which Stockton is located, is organized as a county league and meets every month. The secretary, Mary F. Merrill, suggests that speakers be sent out to push the propaganda of the movement and believes that "such organizations will do a vast amount of good."

In the original suggestion of the progressive league the plan was to have the people organize themselves without waiting for outside help and when a sufficient number of leagues in a state had been formed to organize a state league, thus continuing till a national body could be formed. The well known progressive principles, such as tariff reduction, direct nominations, popular election of senators, initiative and referendum, control of corporations, elimination of special interests from politics and other like policies, should form the platform of the movement. It should be in no sense a new party, but should contain members of all parties and seek only the promotion of the people's rights.

Mr. Edgerton, whose home is in Nutley, N. J., now begins to believe that something may come of his suggestion and hopes to hear from the formation of other leagues.

BURNING STUMP HEATS TEEPEE

Washington Indians Pleased With Their Economical Ingenuity.

That the char pit process for clearing land is a good thing can be testified to by Sally Frank, a squaw, who with two young bucks pitched her teepee over a stump under which a char fire had been started, at White Salmon, Wash.

"Heap big stump burn all time—him no go out—keep Sally and papoose warm when big snow come," said the squaw in explanation of her selection of the strange camp ground.

The stumps give little smoke and warm the earth all around. Three other stumps are smoldering, and other Indians have pitched their wigwams and are proud of their ingenuity.

Buster Brown, January 12th.

"Buster Brown" whose name is a household word almost all over the world, will come to the Concord opera house on January 12 and it is hailed with delight and one grand exhilarating hurrah, for he comes this season with a splendidly equipped and new edition of the always popular musical comedy of the same name, "Buster Brown" which is always a success with a capital B. This season the play has been revised and equipped with an entirely new scene dress, new and elaborate costumes, together with popular songs that are the latest and new music throughout. The cast, which is headed by Master Harold as "Buster," and Al Grady as "Tige," is said to be by far the best of any one of the many seen in the comedy. "Buster" needs no introduction, his face is too well known and the mirth provoking elements of the play have been too thoroughly tried.

Involved.

Two country negroes from the same town met at the corner of Thirty-second and Bull streets recently, and the following conversation ensued:

"Howdy, Br'er Simmons! When yo' gwine to come back home?"

"I'm feeling right smart, Br'er Jackson. How's yo' self? But my name ain't Simmons no mo'."

"Dat so?"

"No, sir. Ain't yo' done hear dat sence I came to Chatham county I done call myself Caesar Robinson 'cause I done become involved wid another wife yere?"—Savannah News.

A Reliable Cough Medicine

Is a valuable family friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fulfills this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, N. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in my house. Soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and lessens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." Sold by Cabarrus Drug Co.

Oath That Binds the Burmese.

Perjury having been rife in Burmese courts because no form of oath existed which the Burman considered binding, the government prescribed a formula which is a queer admixture of Buddhism, Brahmanism and Shamanism. Here are phrases from it, picked at random: "If an untruth passes my lips, may all the gnats that live in lakes, ponds and brooks and the gnats of the five great rivers of India destroy me. May curdled blood pass my lips rather than a lie, and may I die vomiting blood, my body bent in two."

Foley's Kidney Remedy an Appreciation.

L. McConnell, Catherine St., Elmire, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken. Sold by Cabarrus Drug Co."

The death of Senator Stephen B. Elkins means that two Democrats will represent West Virginia in the Senate, as the term of his colleague, Senator Scott, will expire March 4, and the Legislature which meets next Wednesday, is Democratic.
