

TRUST-BUSTING BILL CONSIDERED TO-DAY

REPRESENTATIVE KOONCE, OF ONSLOW, WANTS TO INVESTIGATE INSURANCE BUSINESS OF THE STATE

Bill to Regulate Passenger Rates—Bill to Raise Age Limit for Working Roads from 18 to 21—Other Bills.

Raleigh, January 12.—The first trust-busting bill of the session, Koonce's bill to investigate insurance business in the State, caused a spirited discussion in the House to-day.

The bill had been referred to the Judiciary Committee, No. 2, at Koonce's request, but Battle, chairman, reported it back with the recommendation that it be referred to the Insurance Committee. To this Mr. Koonce objected and finally got it referred to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances, by a vote of 77 to 21.

The following new bills were introduced:

To regulate passenger rates in State, by Cave, of Duplin.

To provide new fire proof building for State Records preservation.

To amend law so as to give corporation commission jurisdiction over track scales of railroads, etc.

To raise age limit for working roads from 18 to 21 years.

A lot of bills passed the House, but none were important.

The principal development in the Senate was the introduction by Graham, of bill providing bond issue for one million dollars to meet appropriations this session of the Legislature if needed.

The Senate also passed a bill regulating standard of time.

It also adopted rules for the session.

Dr. Young to Address Wilson's Inauguration.

Thomas J. Pence, Washington correspondent of The News and Observer says:

"North Carolina will be well represented at the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson as governor of New Jersey on the 17th. Major Charles M. Stedman, who was a close personal friend of Mr. Wilson's father when the two lived in Wilmington, N. C., and Dr. Robert Young, of Concord who was a classmate of Woodrow Wilson at New Jersey, will join Representative Claude Kitchin here and make the trip to the Jersey capital. Mr. Kitchin is to be the guest of Congressman Hughes, of New Jersey, on the occasion."

Dr. Young was not a classmate of Dr. Wilson, but a colleague, as the former was a medical student and the latter a law student, but the two were very close friends and Dr. Young will go to New Jersey to attend the inauguration.

The Methodist Orphanage.

Winston Republican.

Rev. J. P. Rogers, field agent for the Methodist Children's Home, this city, has done some good collecting for that institution during the past year. To date he has raised by subscription $54,000 which will be used in erecting buildings, etc., and aid in making this institution one of the best in the state. Let us say that in the matter of support, in addition to the above, the Methodists of the Western N. C. conference are contributing liberally. It is a worthy work and a credit to elohidism and the spirit of benevolence which actuates every effort.

Setback Party Yesterday.

Mrs. W. J. Hill delightfully entertained at a setback party yesterday afternoon in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Freeman, of Durham. The prize, a fine apron, was won by Miss Adeline Morrison.

After the delicious refreshments were served, those present were:

Misses Mary and Adeline Morrison, Edna Correll, Frances Goodson, Blanche Brown, Anna Sherrill, Frances Craven, Fay Polk, Laura Ridenhour, Ethel Hooks, of Dunn, Pearl Boger, Mary Hartsell and Miss Plaster.

Children Played With Matches; One is Dead.

Her clothing igniting from a match, Nelson, a 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wincoff, residing near Salisbury, was burned to death Tuesday. A number of small children were playing with matches and accidentally fired a barn which was destroyed and from the same place the child met death.

Mr. W. R. Harris, who is here with the Concord Furniture Co., is representative of the Standard sewing machine, instead of the Singer, as we said yesterday.

McKAY-PROPT.

Miss Lizzie Propt Becomes the Bride of Mr. Lloyd McKay, Jr.

A marriage marked by its beautiful simplicity was solemnized at the home of Mr. A. H. Propt last night when Miss Elizabeth Propt became the bride of Mr. J. Lloyd McKay, Jr. Rev. Plato Durham, pastor of Central Methodist church, officiated. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few relatives and friends of the young couple. The marriage was solemnized in the parlor, which was most attractively decorated. A collection of ferns and palms formed a bank beneath the north window where the vows were spoken, and the windows were draped in ivy.

The first soft touch of Mendelssohn's wedding march, skillfully rendered by Miss Mary Hartsell, was the signal for the bride party to enter. Miss Geneva Parks, maid of honor, dressed in yellow crepe de chine and carrying a huge bouquet of carnations, entered from the hall. The groom and his best man, Mr. Joe McKay, a brother from Charlotte, entered from the dining room. The bride then entered from the hall, dressed in a blue traveling gown with hat and gloves to match and carrying a gorgeous bouquet of white roses.

Following the ceremony the young couple were showered with the congratulations and best wishes of those present, after which they left on train No. 35 on their wedding tour, keeping the place of destination a secret from even their most intimate friends.

Mrs. McKay is one of Concord's most attractive and accomplished young ladies and by her attractive personality and many noble qualities of her strong Christian character has attracted to her a multitude of friends and admirers. The groom is a young man of recognized worth for his ability and bright promise of a useful future, and during his residence here, where he holds a responsible position at the office of the Kerr Bleachery, he has won the friendship and esteem of a large circle of friends.

Will Miss Eddy Rise?

Talk among Christian Scientists in New York emanating from the followers of Mrs. Amanda Stetson, who was excommunicated from the Church last summer, is to the effect that Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the religion, will rise from the dead. It is said that there has been a protest against the guard which has been placed over her tomb since her burial. The Stetsonites claim that she is expected to arise from the dead according to the following quotation from her book, "Unity of Good:"

"And there appeared a new wonder, a woman clothed with the sun, the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars." Eugene Cox, a church official, said: "There is nothing in Mrs. Eddy's teachings that would give basis for such an idea. She taught there was no spiritual death. She taught nothing about resurrection."

Funeral of Mr. C. C. Boyd Tomorrow.

The remains of Mr. Charles C. Boyd, who died Tuesday night at his home in Roanoke, Va., will arrive tonight on train No. 35. The funeral will be held at the home of his mother, Mrs. W. C. Boyd, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. J. M. Grier, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and the interment will be made at Oakwood cemetery. A short funeral service was held at the home in Roanoke this morning, conducted by Rev. W. F. Powell, pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

Bishop Kilgo.

The Florida Christian Advocate says of the presidency of Bishop J. C. Kilgo at the recent session of the Florida Conference: "The coming among us of Bishop Kilgo will be remembered with gratitude by the members of the Conference. Never has a pulpit in this city been filled with a more forceful and eloquent speaker, and no Conference has been presided over by a sweeter spirit. It is the prayer of his brethren in Florida that his life may be spared for many years to bless our common Methodism."

A New Burbank Strawberry.

Luther Burbank announces a new type of strawberry, "The Patagonia," which begins to ripen earlier and continues to bear longer than any other strawberry. It is heralded by its creator as the first of a new race which has come to make strawberry growers rejoice. The berries are uniformly large, single berries sometimes weighing an ounce. The seeds are so small as to be almost imperceptible.

Mr. Miller and Son at Arma, Texas.

A postal card received here yesterday from Mr. Lester Miller, son of Mr. John L. Miller, who went away with his father, said that "we" (meaning, it is supposed, his father and himself) were in Arma, Texas. This is where Mr. W. A. Duggan lives.

Walter Brooks Abbott, secretary of the Spartanburg Y. M. C. A., shot himself through the head with a .38-caliber revolver while sitting in the association building Tuesday morning and died a few minutes afterwards. Whether it was suicide or accident it is not known.

ADVISE AGAINST BOND ISSUE

School Board Does Not Think an Issue of Bonds at Present Advisable.

At a meeting of the city aldermen Tuesday night Mr. M. B. Stickle, Dr. J. E. Smoot and Prof. A. S. Webb were present as representatives of the school board. They were invited by Mayor Wagner to bring any matter relating to the schools of the city they desired before the board. Mr. Stickle stated to the board that as a representative of the school board he thought he expressed the sentiment of the majority of the members and stated that on account of the present rate of taxation and the increase in taxation that would result from a bond issue for the schools, he did not think the bond issue advisable at the present time. Dr. Smoot and Prof. Webb both expressed their approval of such a course by the board, although they said that a larger and more commodious buildings were an imperative need of the schools, they had concluded to do without these improved facilities for a time and continue as they have been doing—making the best possible progress with their present equipment.

Ravages of Wolves in Alaska are Serious.

Several residents of the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, southeastern Alaska, have been killed and eaten by wolves during the last year, according to Charles A. Sulzer, brother of Congressman Sulzer, of New York, who has just returned from the North. Mr. Sulzer says that the wolves having killed off all the deer, have become desperate with hunger and now come right up to the doors of the cabins of the miners.

Senators who have been studying the Panama canal problems are convinced they are about to pave the way for making the canal of tremendous commercial importance to the United States and that as the result of the untrammelled use of the canal by American vessels in the coastwise trade, this country is one more going to take rank as one of the leading maritime countries.

Cotton Mill Men Urge Drastic Curtailment.

Drastic curtailment in the manufacture of cotton goods until the prices of the manufactured product assumes a more correct ratio to the cost of raw cotton was urged in a resolution adopted by the Textile Manufacturers' exchange at Atlanta Tuesday afternoon. More than 2,000,000 spindles in the southern states and Illinois and Indiana were represented at the meeting. All state organizations also were urged to cooperate in this movement and it was suggested that a general meeting be called in the near future to consider a plan for putting the curtailment into effect.

It was pointed out that while the price of the staple has risen phenomenally in the last few years the price of the manufactured product has not kept pace.

Our Proposed Dog Law.

A petition is being gotten up in Cabarrus county to get rid of worthless dogs, and in a few days will be submitted to the voters. The petition advocates a tax of $1.00 on all dogs in the county, one half of which will go to the school fund and the other half for the protection of birds and other beneficial game to the farmers. If it becomes a law it will result in killing off half of the worthless dogs in Cabarrus, and at the same time the valuable dogs will be made subject of larceny and protected by law. The Concord Tribune says it is claimed that $1,500 is a conservative estimate of the revenue that will be derived from such a law.

Didn't Hit Pole Exactly.

The House committee on naval affairs completed their examination of Captain Robert E. Peary Wednesday on his claim to attainment of the North Pole and Hugh C. Mitchell, a skilled computer of the coast and geodetic survey, testified that he handled Peary's observations. Mr. Mitchell said that he had figured that Peary when he made his furthest march was less than five miles from the Pole and that in his marches on that day of the climax of his trip, he passed within one and one-sixteenth miles of the actual Pole. He did not hit Peary exactly at the Pole. Mr. Mitchell believed that Peary's observations could not be faked.

Peary Admits Jealousy.

"The Pole was something to which I had devoted my life. It was a thing on which I had expended everything—a part of even myself—and for which I had gone through such a hell as I hope no man in this room will ever experience, and I didn't feel that under the circumstances I was called upon to divide it with any man." This was the defiant answer made Tuesday to the subcommittee of the House Committee on Naval Affairs by Capt. Robert E. Peary, in his reply to the blunt question by Representative Roberts why the explorer had not taken any white man with him on the final dash to the top of the earth.

"Mary Jane" at the Opera House Tonight.

Mr. Clinton Black, one of our promising young men, has gone to Raleigh to take a course in agriculture.

Mrs. Tucker of No. 1, died at the home of her son, Mr. Jacob Tucker, last Friday. She was buried at Bethel Saturday.

The many friends of Miss Mary Brooks are glad to welcome her home again after having spent several weeks in the Salisbury Sanatorium. She is fully restored to health.

On Friday night, January 6th a delightful soiree was given at the home of Mr. S. J. Bost, complimentary to Misses Turner and Roberts, of Sossamon's school. After everyone had swapped a joke with his neighbor they retired to the dining room where a table was loaded with candies, fruits, cakes, etc., all of which set at night all pangs of hunger. The people after listening to some songs, recitations, declamations, etc., were turned over to Mr. R. W. Biggers, who amused them with some sleight of hand tricks, which would of compared with some famous Chinese juggler. We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Bost for their kindness and hospitality in extending every courtesy for the comfort and ease of their invited guests.

Got Here in Spite of a Bad Schedule

Rev. Plato Durham arrived in the city yesterday from Raleigh, where he has been spending several days. Mr. Durham left Raleigh yesterday morning and intended arriving here in the afternoon at 3:40 in good time to officiate at the McKay-Propt marriage, but the train from Raleigh before it arrived, and Mr. Durham came on to Salisbury on that train. Of course he had some on to Concord, but he did not get there until a schedule he 'phoned Mr. Boger of the Concord Garage, who sent Mr. Fred Correll for him in an Interstate "40". They reached Concord about an hour before the time for the marriage.

Unknown Man Jumps to Death from Moving Train.

A well dressed white man, apparently about 37 years old, boarded passenger train No. 12 Wednesday evening at Hickory with a ticket to Elmwood and jumped from the train before it came to a stop at Elmwood. He was instantly killed, having a hole knocked in the top of his head. The body was taken to Salisbury on the same train at 8:30. Nothing was found on the body by which it could be identified. The man wore a pair of rubbers and a black suit, carried a silver watch with Waltham works and had $95 in money in his pocket. No one on the train knew anything about him and none who has seen the body could identify it.

Wants $100,000 for Ejection from Train.

Body is Unclaimed.

Unclaimed and without relatives the body of A. C. Frank, who was found dead in his bed in a Salisbury hotel Monday morning of this week, lies in the morgue of G. W. Wright, undertaker, of that city. The body will be held for several days with the hope of finding relatives.

Mrs. B. J. Adair, who has been visiting in the city, has returned to her home in Salisbury.

"BUSTER BROWN" IN CHARLOTTE

The Observer Says the Show Pleased a Large Charlotte Audience.

"Buster Brown," which will appear here tonight, played in Charlotte last night, and the Observer this morning says of it:

"Juvenile Charlotte had no evening with a vim yesterday. Buster Brown, a real boy this time, was here, accompanied by Tige, also a real human person, who displayed at times an almost human intelligence. One of the largest, if not the largest, audience that ever attended a matinee performance here, witnessed the production. It was a S. R. O. house, strange as it may seem. All the kiddies were there. At least if there are any more in Charlotte there need be no fear that Charlotte will cease to grow. Hundreds of nurseries were left behind by the tots and totties and seat-tots. Like the circus menagerie in the time-worn Noah's-ark joke, Buster proved a convenient excuse for many grown-ups, some of whom ordinarily labor the theatre with up-to-date hand as having its proper place among carnal things. Sometimes as many as three or four large-size adult persons attended for the express purpose of bearing escort to a very diminutive little fellow of scarce three years and not nearly so many feet in stature."

"So much for me crowd. The show pleased. It was quite naturally changed from the play which has been previously presented—sufficiently so as to provide variety. Master Harold West as Buster was clever and very popular with the little folks. The rest of the cast, too, while in some cases vaudivillian, sustained the youthful funmaker adequately."
