

FOR THE JACKSON TRAINING SCHOOL

BILL INTRODUCED TODAY FOR ITS MAINTENANCE AND FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Senator Hartsell Asks for $20,000 Each Year for Two Years for Maintenance and $19,000 Each Year for Two Years for Improvements—Amendment to Divorce Law Introduced in House.

Raleigh, January 28.—Senator Hartsell introduced a bill for the maintenance and permanent improvements at Jackson Training School, at Concord. The bill appropriates twenty thousand each year for two years for maintenance and nineteen thousand each year for two years for permanent improvements.

By Gardner, to change name of A. and M. College for colored at Greensboro to North Carolina Industrial Institute, to avoid confusion with the white college.

House refused the increase of salary to law clerk to Attorney General.

A bill by Roberts amending the divorce laws so parties separated ten years may be divorced whether living in the same state or not.

Most of the time in the House consumed by discussion of Connor change of venue bill, enabling Judge to use discretion when defendant applies for removal. It was not finally disposed of. LLEWXAM.

Intoxicated Woman on Passenger Train

Greensboro News, 25th.

Passengers on No. 12 last night were discussing, in as many ways as there were passengers speaking, the actions of a handsomely dressed young woman who boarded the train at Lexington and left it at High Point. She was highly intoxicated and did not seem to care who knew it. Somewhere between the two stations, while the train was running at full speed, she went to the water cooler and, after drawing a glass of water, proceeded to pull a whiskey flask and pour into the water a pretty big drink of whiskey. She did not drink the mixture there but started to her seat with it in her hand. The train struck a curve and she fell down, spilling the whiskey in the lap of a gentleman. When the young woman left the train at High Point it required the combined efforts of two men to assist her in getting from the car. After she had reached the ground she staggered down the platform lurching against the car, and then the other way. Several people standing near were afraid that she would fall under the wheels, so they suggested to her that she go across the platform. As a finale to her previous actions, she fell flat on the ground and was unable to rise. The train came on to Greensboro and the young woman, who was not known to any of the passengers was left behind.

Music at Central Church Tomorrow.

The music for the morning service at Central Methodist church for tomorrow will consist of a solo, by Miss Patterson, with flute obligato by Mr. Kay Patterson. At the evening service Mr. Sam Goodman will sing a solo, and a selection will be rendered by a male quartette. It is expected that Mr. C. Pol Plancou, baritone, with the English Grand Opera Company, will also sing a solo at the evening service.

A Case for Sympathy.

Monroe Enquirer.

The North Carolina Press Association held its mid-winter meeting in Winston-Salem on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week and today the newspaper folks are off on a pleasure trip to Charleston, S. C., all of 'em except us, and we have to stay at home and work, doggonit.

The Heathen Rage in Vain.

The opinion of Attorney General Wickersham that there is no provision of law by which the statue of General Robert E. Lee in Confederate uniform can be removed from statutory hall, in the capitol, has been approved by the president. The opinion was called for because of the opposition of the G. A. R. of the department of New York.

"Cheek is the thing to win in this world," exclaimed Deneon Dodridge. "Yes, if the cheek is dimpled and rosy," responded his handsome daughter.

Board of Pardons.

High Point Enterprise.

The proposition so often discussed to establish a State Board of Pardons to consider all applications that may be made by the friends and relatives of persons imprisoned in this State for any crime meets with the approval of some people, and we have no doubt would have no opposition from the executive himself should it come before Legislature. It is no easy matter to imagine the responsibility and describe the feelings of kind-hearted Executives who are appealed to by the wives and mothers of condemned criminals to exercise clemency in their behalf or to release from prison some poor unfortunate who, however richly he may have deserved his fate, is the sole dependence of a family which is suffering because the law demands retribution for crimes he has committed. While on the other hand it is not fair to any Executive that he should have to listen to all these pleas, and it is too much to expect that a kind-hearted gentleman, who has no shred of cruelty in his make-up, can always see his duty clearly through mists of sympathetic tears, or who is just a little inclined to be dear to the voice of that duty when some good mother pleads with him for her son's life. The plan would lift from the shoulders of the Governor a burden of responsibility which should never have been placed there in the first instance.

National Progressive Republican League is Organizing.

The first step in what may prove to be the formation of a third party was taken in Washington, D. C., a few days ago when the progressive senators and representatives met and adopted a declaration of principles. The declaration is signed by nine Republican senators, the governors of six Republican states, thirteen representatives in Congress and twenty-three others. The organization is to be known as the National Progressive Republican League and its object is to "restore popular government in the United States."

The league will work for the election of senators by the people, a corrupt practices act, the initiative, referendum and recall, primaries for the election of delegates to national conventions and primaries for the election of all elective officials.

No Pickings Went the Way of Butler.

Mr. Tom Pence, Washington correspondent of the News and Observer, has the following in today's paper: "Both the North Carolina Senators were very much on the job during the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill by the Senate. They were watching for some of Marion Butler's schemes."

Although Butler was around the capitol, and very much interested, it looks like he fell down, so far as securing any of the pickings in the big Indian appropriation bill. Butler was interested in two amendments, each of which provided payment of $60,000 in attorneys' fees. Both amendments were knocked out. Had they crept into the bill, Butler would have stood a good chance of getting quite a slice of $120,000.

County Teachers' Meeting.

The county Teachers' Meeting was held at the Central graded school this morning. The teachers of the graded school met with the county teachers and the attendance was large. The course of study was conducted by Prof. C. E. Boger. "Hamilton on Recitation" was the subject under discussion and this book was completed at this meeting and next month's study will be "McMurry on How to Study."

Many very good people are annoyed by sleepiness in church. The following remedy is recommended: Lift the foot seven inches from the floor and hold it in suspense without support for the limb, and repeat the remedy if the attack returns.

LIVE LEGISLATIVE SUBJECTS PENDING.

Plan to Secure Uniform System of Good Roads—Amending the Divorce Law—Near Beer to be Knocked Out.

Raleigh, January 28.—The whole of Thursday afternoon was consumed at the joint committee on Roads in a discussion of the three general bills designed to provide a State Highway Commission and get together on the best provision of the several bills.

That of Senator Boyden seems to be the most satisfactory measure on the whole. The result of this joint committee meeting (held in the Senate chamber and very largely attended) was the appointment of a subcommittee of five, on motion of Senator Brown, of Columbus, to examine closely all the proposed measures (including also those designed to apply only to certain counties) and report at a future meeting of the full joint committee.

Everybody in North Carolina is interested in the question of what is best and most feasible procedure to secure a uniform and practical system of good roads, all over the State and the Boyden bill requires, as a sine qua non, that at the head of the State Highway commission there shall be a competent, energetic engineer.

The House Judiciary committee was handed a gentle rebuke on Thursday of this week when its adverse report on the bill to put the man and woman on an equal footing in actions for divorce alleging adultery was turned down and the minority report and substitute bill (practically identical with the original) by Williams was adopted by the heavy majority of 70 to 24.

But talking today with several Senators it is probable that the bill will have rough sailing when it comes over for concurrence. There are several objections advanced, but the delicacy of the subject does not permit them to be enlarged upon at length in this story. Lawyers say that if the bill which has just passed the House becomes the law they expect to greatly increase their incomes from the practice of their profession. That it will open the doors of the divorce court to a host of lecherous husbands, but to husbands (through their own acts) who wish to be separated from wives who are true in that relation of life but objectionable otherwise to their husbands. Those who believe there should be some way opened to relieve mismatched and unhappy couples would welcome the change.

The House will not take up the Income Tax amendment measure, passed by the Senate this week, till next Tuesday night, it being made the special order for that time.

Next Thursday night the House will take up the measure to prohibit the sale of near beer and similar drinks (including Kellum's substitute bill reported yesterday by the minority of the committee) and there promises to be a heated discussion of the subject.

There is a disposition on the part of some of the lawmakers to yoke up the near beer joints and the social clubs handling liquor and try to put both of them out of business at the same time—as far as legislative enactment can do it. But even they must feel discouraged by the evidence on every hand, even here in the capitol building of the open violation of the present laws on the liquor subject. LLEWXAM.

Death of Mrs. Houston.

Mrs. Elizabeth Houston, mother of Dr. W. C. Houston, of Concord, whose illness we have noted, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. William Phifer, in Gainesville, Fla., Friday where she had made her home for some time. She formerly lived in Monroe and was the widow of Mr. B. F. Houston, for years one of the most prominent citizens of Union county. Mrs. Houston was a woman of fine character, and the communities where she had lived have lost a woman who made happy all with whom she came in contact.

The body was interred in Monroe today. Mrs. Houston leaves besides Dr. Houston, one daughter, Mrs. Randolph Redfern, of Monroe.

To Be a First-Class Electric Road.

Greensboro News.

The purpose of the Southern Power Company, Mr. Duke told Mr. Hood recently, is to construct a first-class electric railroad, over which will be operated full trains, carrying passenger coaches, sleepers and diners, and freight, along with the line of which will be erected attractive and comfortable stations. The trains will be provided with all the latter day comforts, even to the minor details and will be unique. The railway will be the first of its kind in the South.

The work of construction has already begun at the other end, and the line will be built in sections, one section extending to Charlotte from Spartanburg, the next probably to Salisbury, the third to Greensboro and the fourth to Durham. Upon the completion of each section the operation of cars will begin, and the work on the next section carried on, making the work of construction and operation simultaneous after the completion of the first section. Just how soon the company expects to bring the road into Greensboro is not given out. This will probably be discussed at the meeting to be definitely announced in a few days.

In Honor of Miss Marguerite Brown.

Winston Sentinel.

Miss Marguerite Brown, of Concord, who is the guest of Miss Lois Brown, was the center of a delightful party given last night by Mrs. Phin Horton, at her home on Main street. The games were enthusiastically played at four tables, the highest score being made by Miss Marguerite Brown, who was presented with a box of bonbons. Later tempting refreshments were enjoyed, and after this the company, loath to separate, gathered around the piano, with Miss Louise Bahnon, accompanist, and delighting in their own melodies, sang one favorite selection after another till the "sweet hour" of midnight struck.

There is talk of a new railroad into Greensboro, which will connect with the Seaboard Air Line and give a direct route from Greensboro to Norfolk. This proposed route would start at Greensboro and run through eastern Guilford northwestern Alamance, southeastern Caswell, and Person to Roxboro, thence to Manson and connect with the Seaboard. A company is being organized for the purpose of surveying the route.

Walked from Alleghany County to Washington.

A six-footer, with roadstained clothes, strolled up to the elevator in the Democratic side of the House Thursday and asked the conductor for Mr. Doughton, says the Washington correspondent of the Raleigh News and Observer. He said he had walked from Alleghany county to Washington and that he wanted his congressman to get him a job. The man who claimed Tar Heel citizenship was much surprised and appeared downcast when he was told that Mr. Doughton had not yet taken his seat and that there will be no vacancies in House jobs until next December.
