FAIR WARNING! GET BUSY WHILE THE DOUBLE VOTE OFFER IS ON!

2 FOR 1 THE SLOGAN! MAKE A NOTE OF IT.

An Opportunity That Should Not be and is Not Going to be Neglected by Those Working for the Babies in the Big Gold Contest Now on—New Announcement is Pleasing and Causing All Hands to Wade in and Make Greater Efforts Than Ever Before to Secure Prizes in the Big Contest.

Though the baby contest of The Times and Tribune was already the liveliest newspaper enterprise ever attempted in this part of the country, yesterday's mammoth double vote offer has infused a still greater degree of life into it.

Contentants had been warned to be on the lookout for a big announcement but they little dreamed what was in store for them. The contest manager has been assured that the kinfolks and friends of the babies, and if this be true we are going to have something doing all this week.

A wonderful opportunity is here offered to put your little favorite so far ahead in this race that he or she will have little to fear from any of their less ambitious opponents.

This contest has only seen its preliminary stages. There is still plenty of time to win or lose, but the final standing may depend to a very large extent on what you do this week.

Stay in this game to the end. You never can tell how interesting the last inning is going to be. And whether you win or lose you will have a good time just the same. Don't be a quitter! Stay and see the finish.

It is not too late to start in the race by any means, but you should not delay much longer. Get a book, get subscriptions, get the advice of the contest manager, come out vigorously and energetically for your favorite and you will be a hard one to beat, if indeed you are beaten at all. If you worked hard last week to win those special prizes, work just twice as hard to get those double votes.

There were a number who came very close to winning the special prizes; if they show the same degree of activity between now and Saturday night they will carry away certificates calling for thousands and thousands of votes for their favorites.

Of course if you are at the top of the list today it does not signify that you will not be at the bottom tomorrow. It takes a sustained effort to maintain a place at the top, and you may be weak-kneed, lacking in backbone, etc., and by letting up in your efforts fail to hang on to the enviable position to which you have climbed. Never get the impression that your chances are not as good as any others. They are, if you will apply yourself to the task that is set out for you.

It is a grand offer, this double vote proposal, and we hope you are already doing some hard work. There are some people concerned in this race who have not even exhausted their list of kinfolks in their search for subscriptions, and the accompanying votes, to say nothing about getting out among their friends and acquaintances. But then again there are some who have, so it behooves you to hurry.

Mothers and Friends of Babies Living Outside of Concord— You have the grandest opportunity ever afforded a baby to win, as two big prizes go outside the city. The babies out of town have exactly the same chance as the babies in Concord.

The Times and Tribune are clean papers, and when it is so easy to secure subscriptions under ordinary circumstances, it certainly should be no trouble at all with this contest as an incentive.

THE FINAL EXERCISES.

Scholarships Announced and Diplomas Awarded to Graduates—Dr. Caldwell's Speech.

The annual commencement exercises of the Concord graded school came to a close last night when the literary address was delivered by Dr. J. L. Caldwell, newly elected president of the Presbyterian College, and the diplomas were awarded to the graduating class.

The exercises were opened with a song after which Superintendent Webb announced that Albert Norman had won the University scholarship and William Glass the Trinity scholarship. Prof. McLain then read the list of graduates, namely:

Misses Isabelle Cecil, Mary Pemberton, Helen Wilkinson, May Pounds, Grace Gibson, Elma Byles, Alice Brown, Carrie Laughlin, Mary Barnhardt and Addie Klutz and Messrs. Albert Norman and William Glass, and the diplomas were awarded with a few inspiring remarks by Dr. J. E. Smoot, chairman of the school board. Rev. S. N. Watson, in a speech effervescent with humor, presented the medals, one to Miss Laura Fisher Ridenhour, the winner in the declamation contest Friday night, and one to Miss Grace Furr, for the best speller in the ninth grade. Prof. Webb then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. J. L. Caldwell, who said in part:

"I am happy to make my debut as a college president in North Carolina in Concord. It means that my coming will not bring discord but Concord among the educators in whose midst I will labor. I will take the triangle, emblem of the great order of Masons, with the all seeing eye of the Ruler of the universe as an example. But it is the human triangle of which I will speak and in the center of that triangle I want to write the word 'Education' and emblazon it in letters of fire. It is astonishing how this triangle runs through everything, body, mind and soul, youth, middle age and old age, all of which, qualities and glorifies education. Modern education demands a sound mind in a sound body and a child's body must be properly trained by capable teachers until it becomes a healthy, strong and vigorous body. It is not enough to teach arithmetic and grammar and not teach a child how to enjoy sunshine, how to breathe and to educate the body.

This is one side of the triangle. We turn to the other side and find the mind. Man comes into this world with every faculty needing education. You are made to study things that apparently you never need in after life but education does not consist in filling our mind with information but in training your mind so that you may have complete control over any situation. The other side of the triangle is the spiritual side. You cannot educate the human mind and not educate the human soul any more than you can educate the mind and not educate the body. Body, mind and soul go together. You cannot educate one and not the other, they go hand in hand, side by side. Any education that leaves out body, mind and soul is false, and whenever you leave out one it is one-sided. Whatever you have gained in knowledge or how learned you may be in astronomy and how much you know about the stars if you do not know about the Star of Bethlehem your knowledge is incomplete. You may dig down into the bowels of the earth in your study of rocks but your knowledge of both is incomplete if you do not know of the Rock of Ages. You may know of the waters of the sea but your knowledge is incomplete if you do not know of the Waters of Life. That is why we have educational colleges.

True education is in a great triangle. It means an educated body, an educated mind and an educated soul that teaches of Christ who redeemed us. Education means a body prepared, a mind prepared and a soul prepared. There is only one time set apart for education and that is youth. God has set aside this whole block of the triangle of life for education. God in his goodness has said to us I give you all these years to educate the body, mind and soul—the whole man. At the close of his address the audience sang "The Old North State" and was dismissed.

In compliance with a recent order of the Postoffice Department the city mail carriers are this month keeping a record of every piece of mail matter delivered by them, each carrier having a note book in which a record is made of every delivery and the class to which it belongs.
