

THE CIRCUS IN CHARLOTTE.

Concord Citizens Roasts Charlotte And Its Mayor on Account of the Abominable Streets.

Editor Tribune:

Yes, we went to the circus all right. Left our clean little town on Monday so as to be on time. Found Charlotte as usual Monday. Tuesday "La Belle Charlotte" was on her usual behaviour. Who ever knew Charlotte to be anything but "messed" on great days, "Fair Days," "Show Days," "Presidential Days," etc., etc! The morning was distinctly dull, a "lead-en" sky very threatening. But hope as usual flickered in the hearts of many, crowds of people; white and black, and every intermediate color thronged the streets, filled the door ways and invaded even the porches of the houses of worship on Tryon street. Children all hope squalled on the sides of the streets in crowds as early as 10 a. m. The parade was to be at 10:30 or 11 a. m. Shortly after ten, just as the people and children were nicely settled and ready to be taken advantage of, the clouds over "Miss Charlotte" began to dampen their ardour, drizzling rain. By ones and twos the poor kids gave up their seats or stands. By 11:00 o'clock most of them were wet, by 11:30 soaked through. About 12 noon, the faded, washed out, second-best-attired procession came into view. Even the band men could not blow a blast and the drums were altogether beyond beating. The horses, elephants, camels were worth seeing, but ladies in rain coats and under parasols, although on gilded chariots looked dreary. By 12:30 thousands were off to the show ground. The rain poured down, and the mud! Was there ever such mud as Charlotte's? Over the soles, ankles, tops of the boots, right half way up to the knees, men's pants were plastered red, red clay mud it sticks. Oh, the shame of it, men, boys, women and children compelled to wade through yards and yards of liquid mud; there was no escape if you wanted to see the show, you had paid your money to see, down town. It was and is a disgrace to any city (I) calling itself civilized. At the entrance of the show ground there is not even a pathway, not a plank. Slipping and sliding into pools of mud, the crowd pressed on and the heavens opened and the rain streamed down to beat any band. "Sir-cus" was there, "lady-ens" and thousands of other curses and cursing. Wet and covered with mud, the crowd at last got into the "largest tent on earth", every seat of which was as wet as if a hose had just washed it off. The tent was large, but so were the holes in the roof of it, very large, and rain comes through even a small hole. The mayor and several officials who had collected nearly $1,000 in taxes, had the gall to be present, and see all the inconvenience they could have avoided, by using the chain gang and a few loads of gravel to make a pathway which has certainly been glaringly wanted for the last 5 years. Well, perhaps, when there is a vacancy again, the people will have the sense to select a "horse" instead of a "mayor" to carry out their wishes and until they have the sense to make roads and paths for people to travel (on foot) or cease to boost the glories of this Queen city (1).

VISITOR.
N. B. You will notice the Charlotte papers are quite silent as to the conditions existing, are they afraid to speak? or is there some other reason?

That 1853 Coin That is Worth $2,500.
In yesterday's paper we published a dispatch from Atlanta stating that a policeman there has a half dollar of the coinage of 1853 that is worth $2,500. A short time after the paper appeared Rev. Dr. J. C. Davis brought to our office a 50 cent coin, hearing this date, which he said he had been carrying in his pocket for 40 years. The good Doctor then explained to us that on the three coins made which are now so valuable there were no rays around the eagle, no arrows in his claws, and under him there was a small O. For some reason only three of these coins were made and each is worth $2,500. For fear that there might be many others of our readers who possess these coins and that their expectations might be heightened only to be shattered, we publish this fact. If your half dollar of 1853 has the marks above indicated, you may as well go ahead and buy something with it.

Not Visible in America.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—American sky-rasers are not directly interested in the annular eclipse of the sun which takes place tomorrow, for in this section of the world the phenomena will not be visible. The path of the annulus will begin on the east coast of the sea of Aral and moving in a southeast direction will pass over the islands of Hainan and New Guinea and terminate in the South Pacific ocean. As a partial eclipse it will be visible over nearly all Asia, Australia and the Northern part of New Zealand.

NO GAME AGAIN TODAY.

Will the Rain Never Cease?—Every Day Adds to Giants' Chances.
The ball game between the Giants and Athletics scheduled for today in Philadelphia has been again postponed on account of rain, making the fourth straight game to be postponed on this account.

FANS KNEE-DEEP IN DESPAIR—NO GAME.

Rain Still Slops Down Over Philadelphia And the Hopes of All.
Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—"Rain, rain, please go away!" begged Connie Mack today; but there was no answer to his prayer, and the fourth world series game was officially called off at 10 o'clock.
The rains descended and the floods came, and the owners of Shibe Park were requested to name their figure for leasing the park to a Venetian amusement company, while some of the big shipbuilding yards here wanted to use the newly made natatorium for trying out new battleships. Shibe Park was knee-deep and getting deeper. It was rain, rain, rain.
And every day of delay adds greatly to Giant chances, and to the same extent decreases Athletics hopes. For rest will give Manager McGraw a rejuvenated pitching staff. It will make it possible for Mathewson to do slab duty again tomorrow, should he be needed, and it will give Rube Marquard sufficient strength to take up the Giants' burden if he is called upon.
And the oftener Matty can pitch the oftener McGraw figures he can win.
McGraw went into this series with two pitchers upon whom he had pinned his faith—only two. Mathewson had never been beaten in a world series. Marquard had brought the National League pennant to New York. Of course, there were Ames and Wiltsie and Crandall, but McGraw did not count on them in his plan of battle about Marquard and Mathewson. But the two twirlers couldn't go in every other day; time was needed for them to regain their strength.
And the only way to gain that respite was for rain—copious rain—to fall. And the rain came. It came as a blessing to the Giant leader.

Delightful Luncheon.
Miss Grace Brown was the honoree at a delightful bridge buffet luncheon, the first of a number of pre-nuptial events planned in her honor, given by Mrs. W. H. Gibson at her attractive home on North Union street yesterday afternoon. At the close of the games the prizes were awarded. The prize for the highest score, a deck of cards were awarded to Mrs. L. E. Boger, and the guest of honor prize, a dainty embroidered apron, was presented to Miss Brown. Mrs. Gibson's guests were: Mesdames J. L. Brown, E. T. Cannon, L. E. Boger, E. A. Moss, L. T. Hartsell, A. E. Lantz, Hugh Propert, Ralph Cline, Misses Grace and Maudie Brown, Elizabeth Gibson, Miss Grey, Mabel Means, Wilma Correll, Margaret Lantz and Louise Means. Misses Frances Craig, of Columbia, Tenn., and M. Lanier Fountain, of Alabama, and Mrs. E. C. Barnhardt dropped in for lunch after the game.

An Error Corrected.
In our short comment in yesterday's paper on the law as to ad testificandum proceedings we fell into an error in stating:
"It will be noted that he law says that he court (magistrate, police justice, mayor of judge, as the case may be) must have good reason to believe that a particular person is violating the law before ad testificandum proceedings can be instituted against him."
The law does not contemplate this but states that when the court has good reason to believe that any person within his jurisdiction has knowledge of any fare-bank or fare-table, or gaming tables, prohibited by this chapter, or place where intoxicating liquors are sold contrary to law, then it shall be lawful to summon such person before him to give evidence as to what he may know.

Fox Hunt at Landis.
Rowan Record.
Parties from Landis, China Grove, Concord, Salisbury and Mooresville met at Landis Wednesday night to take part in a fox chase. There were about 100 parties and 35 or 40 dogs, left Landis about ten o'clock and going west struck a trail near Saw and a chase of about an hour and a half was had. The fox led them toward Enochville and then turned back but did not get far until he was captured. He had been turned loose the evening before and of course was an easy capture although Reynard gave the boys a lot of fine sport. He was caught in an open cotton field.

Frank Teeter's Scheme.
To Build a Town Between Rocky River and Coddle Creek.
Mr. Wade H. Harris, in his Charlotte Chronicle of Thursday, has the following:
Big developments are on foot in the short stretch of territory between Newell's and Rocky River, on the Southern Road, all within less than 18 miles of Charlotte. A short distance north of Newell and within a few rods of Back Creek church, the Southern some time ago established a block-house. Travelers have noticed that a store and several new residences have been built there—and that leads us up to what is coming. The block station is called Hahn's. The Southern is to build a depot there, and a Charlotte merchant, Mr. McLaughlin, is to build a roller flour mill. Land about Hahn's is selling at $200 an acre.
But a greater development scheme is that planned by Mr. Frank Teeter, at a point between Rocky river and Coddle creek. Mr. Teeter is going to found a town there. First, he will establish a bank for the benefit of the farming community. Then he will build a power plant at Lipe's mill, on Rocky river, a mile distant, and invite manufacturing industries. Mr. Teeter, who is going to found this modern industrial town, last year made 240 bales of cotton. Twenty years ago he moved from No. 9 township in Cabarrus to his present location, rented a one-horse farm and began life. He made it out of the ground raising crops, and on the ground raising cattle, sheep and hogs.
Near Harrisburg is a mineral water known as Teeter's spring. The water is similar to that of Sossamon's spring. The Harrisburg people, headed by Mr. Ed. Harris, are planning to build a sanatorium at Teeter's spring and found a pleasure and health resort. A stock company to carry out the project is now being formed.
This development zone represents one of the richest and most thickly settled parts of Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties. Teeter's Bank will be the financial center between Concord and Charlotte.

IMPERIAL TROOPS ROUTED BY REBELS.
Overwhelming Defeat of Government Forces in Kiuikiang Battle.
Peking, Oct. 20.—The rebels overwhelmingly defeated the Imperial troops at Hankow yesterday, according to a message received here today from the scene of battle by way of Kiuikiang.
Direct telegraphic communication with Hankow is still interrupted and few details are known. It is said the Imperial forces losses were very heavy and that the rebels are in complete control at Hankow.
The victorious rebels are reported to be ransacking Hankow now for Manchus and unmercifully killing them wherever found. Not even babies are spared. The Chinese seem fairly mad with hatred of the alien race which has so long dominated their government and oppressed the country.
Diplomats here do not believe that foreigners at Hankow are in much danger, as accommodation can easily be found for all of them aboard the 10 or 12 cruisers and gunboats off the city, but it is feared they may suffer heavy property loss if forced to abandon their homes and places of business.
The authorities are massing troops to defend the approaches to Peking at present, but dissatisfaction is so general there is hardly a regiment in the entire army which can be relied on. Scores of mutinies occur daily.

Baker Wins $1,000.
Frank Baker is the happiest man in Philadelphia. He will be happier before the end of the week, for the good fans of that city are arranging a testimonial with a purse of gold attached for the two good blows that have broken up as many games. Baker carries his honors modestly. He is more tickled than anything that they earned him about $1,000 on the side. A friend of Baker who lives in Baltimore and who is a rabid Giant rooter, bet Baker $500 to $250 that the cloutier would not get a home run off the Giant pitchers. After Baker picked the "fast, straight one to the inside" off Marquard, this friend agreed to bet right back on the same proposition, and Baker let the bet ride. Consequently, his second blow, the heart-breaker for Matty, was good for $1,000. Baker agreed to make it $2,000 or nothing, but the friend declined.

Greensboro News. 21st: Mrs. J. W. Menefee and W. E. White came over from Graham by automobile, yesterday morning to meet Mrs. J. M. Odell, of Concord, and Misses Caroline and Annie Lee Carlton, of Richmond, Va., who were going to Graham to attend the wedding of Miss Madeline White to Whilip Carlton.

Hands Woman Her "Rats" Before Whole Car Full.
Atlanta, Oct. 20.—Feminine readers will shudder and sympathize with Mrs. Mary A. Barnhill, of Atlanta, who has fled just against the Pullman Company, charging that the porter and conductor, after putting her in the wrong berth, made her get up and march into another car, baselined and clad only in her night-gown and a kimono.
But that wasn't the worst. The other car was brilliantly lighted and full of people who hadn't gone to bed. They laughed at Mrs. Barnhill.
And even that was not the culmination of the tragedy. Mrs. Barnhill was so perturbed that she left her switch and puffs and "rats" behind in the other berth, and sent the porter and conductor back after them. She charges that when they brought the hair to her they presented it with such formality that the other passengers were filled with unseemly merriment.

Wm. R. Hearst Back in the Fold.
New York, Oct. 20.—Out of William R. Hearst's announcement that he was back in the regular democratic fold there grew much speculation today regarding the fate of the Independence League. This organization was founded by Mr. Hearst and nominated candidates supported by him in the last national and state campaigns. The question now is, to what extent if at all, he will use the league in coming political battles.

Mr. Hearst declared himself last night at the opening rally of the local fusion campaign.
"I am preparing," he said, "as a good citizen, I hope, and also as a good democrat. Mr. Murphy and his kind drove me out of the Democratic party five years ago but the commendable course of the national Democracy has brought me back into the fold."
He declared he would continue his fight against the "undemocratic principles" of Tammany Hall but that the greatest benefit loyal Democrats could confer upon the national Democracy was to free it of the "hindrance and handicap of Murphy and Tammany Hall."

MECKLENBURG FAIR BUILDINGS DESTROYED.
Grand Stand And Floral Hall Both Consumed by Fire of Mysterious Origin.
Charlotte, Oct. 20.—Fire finished tonight what the fates had begun for the Mecklenburg County fair, when it wiped out every exhibit building on the grounds and left the big area in the suburbs a blackened mass three days prior to the opening. The first blow to the enterprise came yesterday with the announcement of the tragic death of Aviator Ely, at Macon, after the fair directors had been advertising extensively as a drawing card. Tonight fire of unknown origin discovered in the grandstand, destroyed everything inflammable in the grounds. Workmen were busy putting the buildings and exhibits in shape for the fair, which opens Monday. The loss cannot be estimated at this time. Undaunted, the directors announced tonight that he fair will be held according to program.
The directors of the fair desire to state that the fair will be opened Tuesday and continued as originally planned with the exception of the exhibits that have heretofore had places in the floral hall consisting of ladies' fancy work painting, art, pantry supplies and farm products, and the poultry exhibits beneath the grandstand. These exhibits will be omitted for lack of space.
The regular exhibit of love stock, farm and agricultural implements and the midway will be continued as previously announced. The races will be pulled off as booked, the entries being very fast and large. There will be no curtailment of free attractions, which will consist of aviation flights, concert by United States Marine band and other stunts.
Children's Day Tuesday will be carried out as scheduled.

MINISTER HELD FOR MURDER.
Arrested for Poisoning a Young Woman With Deadly Drug.
Boston, Oct. 20.—Arrested at the home of Miss Violet Edmonds, an heiress he was to have led to the altar in less than a fortnight, Rev. Dr. Richeson, pastor of a fashionable Baptist church at Cambridge, today was formally charged with the murder of Miss Avis Linnell, who believed she was to have been the minister's bride. Miss Linnell was buried today. Her wedding gown became her shroud.
A warrant for his formal arrest was issued by Judge Duff, of the criminal court, after William Haban, a druggist of Newton, Mass., positively identified Richeson as the man to who he sold a quantity of cyanide of potassium last week.
In Newton, Richeson first studied for the ministry—the same town in which the police say he purchased the drug that ended the life of the girl who worshipped him.
The police ascribe two possible motives for the murder; first, fearing Miss Linnell might interfere with the approaching marriage with Miss Edmonds, the heiress, Richeson set about with rare cunning to kill the girl. Another is that she purchased the drug for Miss Linnell, that she might end her own life when she learned the man she loved had become the husband of another.
The police claim to have a strong case against the pastor. He has been identified as the man who purchased cyanide and is known to have met Miss Linnell at the South station in Boston Friday night. The police charge it was there he gave her the drug, telling her it was a harmless headache powder. Saturday night the girl died of its effects.
