Cor. Charlotte Observer.

High Point, Nov. 23 .- The first business to come before the Confer-ences was the reading of the report of the committee of investigation in the case of B. M. Jackson, against whom aharges had been preferred touching his moral character. The report of the committee was to the effect that after careful investigation, the committee had found the charges not sustained and that a trial was not found necessary. A collection was taken to meet the expenses of the committee in making the investigain this case.

S. B. Turrentine read a letter from C. H. Clyde, one of the preachers in the Shelby district, asking for a lo-cation. On motion, the Conference granted Mr. Clyde a location.

At 10 o'clock came the reception At 10 o'clock came the reception of eight young preachers into full connection in the Conference. The following named compose finis class: Carl R. Allison, Henry V. Clarke. Linwood H. Griffith, Thomas H. Grocs, George A. B. Holderby, Elmer Simpson, Phillip L. Shore and Ar-thur P. Ratledge. Before propounding the disciplin-ary questions, Bishop Denny address-ed the class, speaking first of the im-portance of the step which meant the breaking entirely away from the world, if success was to crown their world, if success was to crown their work in the ministry. He urged each to become a yoke-fellow with Jesus Christ, and said that if they would do this, it would matter not how many difficulties came into their lives. Jesus Christ would help them to overcome them and that He would bear the greater part of every burden of life. The road upon which they were entering he said was a marvelous road and had its beginning at the cross on Calvary. He called attention also to the fact that the Methodist church, unlike some of the other denominations, makes no contract with her preachers and promises them nothing in the way of support, but that if her preachers are faithful, they never lack support or for necessary things in life.

The bishop also urged the mem bers of the class to be energetic and never to be triffingly employed, tell-ing them to be found in their homes at all times when their work did not demand they should be elsewhere.

He spoke also of the importance of the use of chaste language by the ministry, and said that a preacher with a filthy mouth, one who tells filthy jokes, is an utter disgrace to the church. He said in this connec-tion that he was glad to believe that the time had come when the number chicken feed

> The devotional exercises were con ducted by Rev. Chas. P. MacLaughin, pasor of St. James Lutheran church.

Mr. James C. Fink was made chairman, and presided over the meeting. Messrs. J. F. Hurley and S. H. Scar, of Salisbury, spoke of the meeting to be held in Salisbury, its objects and aims. The addresses were enthusiastically received, and it is expeeted that Concord will be well represented in Salisbury next week as a result of the meeting. A committee consisting of Messrs. H. I. Woodhouse, A. F. Hartsell and W. C. Correll were appointed, whose duties will be to work up interest, secure the names of those who will attend and zet information in regard to matters connected with the Salisbury convention. It is hoped to interest a large number of men, who will attend and

The plan which provides for the for mation of a net-work of schools for stimulating debating in the secondary schools has already been responded to by 43 representative achools of the State. The list includes the high schools of Raleigh, Charlotte, Ware. Salisbury, Statesville, Concord, Win-ston-Salem, Greensboro, Washington, Hendersonville, Oxford, Lenoir, and other foremost schools in the State. The committee promoting this debating union have been active in arranging the query to be debated, the prize that is to be awarded, and other technicalities towards making the union a thorough-going one. The prize, nominally the "Aycock Memorial Cup," will be contributed by the local chapter of the Tua Kappa Alpha debating fraternity, which chapter is composed of intercollegiate Carolina debaters. The North Carolina Drainage sociation will be in session at Raleigh on the dates of November 26-27. The University will be repre-sented by Prof. William Cain, professor of mathematics. He is interested in the furtherance of work of this nature, and his advices on the subject will be altogether worthy of consideration at this meeting of the
