

WOMEN AS SCHOOL COMMITTEEMEN

HOUSE PASSED BILL TODAY ON SECOND READING

Bill for Inspection of Liquors Referred for Report at Next Session. Gov. Craig Appoints Members of Commission on Constitutional Amendments.

Special to The Tribune. Raleigh, N. C., March 11.—The Doughton bill for the inspection of liquors shipped into the State was referred by the House to a committee "for report next session."

The House passed on second reading the Senate bill to allow women school committeemen and trustees on the text book commissions. An objection forced the measure over to the afternoon session for final reading.

In the Senate announcement was read from Governor Craig of his appointments as members of the commission on constitutional amendments as follows:

A. M. Seales, Greensboro; J. W. Bailey, Raleigh; D. Y. Cooper, Henderson; H. Q. Alexander, Mecklenburg; N. Y. Rouse, Lenoir.

President Daughdrige named as members from the Senate, Senators Stubbs, Ward, Washington, Ivis and Grant. Those of the House will be announced later.

The Senate members of the commission to investigate and recommend as to selling the States' stock in the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad are Senators Pearson, Gilliam and Weaver. This involves E. C. Duncan's proposition.

Corrupt Practices Act Passed. Special to The Tribune.

Raleigh, N. C., March 11.—The Senate passed the Justice corrupt practices bill from the House and the House tabled the bill to empower women to vote in the municipal elections.

A sub committee on penal institution, recommended that the headquarters of the State's prison be removed to the State farm and suitable buildings to be provided there.

Raleigh, N. C., March 11.—The House found itself in very much of a chaotic condition late last night when, by a vote of 56 to 34 the first section of the machinery bill for the creation of a State tax commission separate from the corporation commission.

The remainder of the pending bill had been framed on the basis of the separate State tax commission and it seemed impossible to readjust it. Finally the House went into committee of the whole and, after more than an hour's work with several tense periods, emerged with a bill that was made up of the first thirteen sections of the 1911 machinery act with the corporation commission retained as the State tax commission, and with the remainder of the bill, the subsequent sections of the 1909 revenue act. The material change through this adoption of the 1909 sections is the elimination of the appointment of county assessors by the State tax commission and leaving the assessing and listing entirely with the county authorities.

This combination bill was passed on second reading by the house and went on the calendar for final reading Tuesday in both houses.

The revenue bill will come today from the conference committee on amendments tacked on to it by the Senate and will get its second reading passage in the House. Then there is the schedule session tonight to continue into the "wee wee" hours so that the revenue bill can have its final roll call reading right after midnight as of Wednesday and be thereafter ratified along with the final batch of bills thereafter. It is expected, however, that the real adjournment will not take place until toward noon Wednesday, although the required quorum for action on the revenue bill roll call will surely vanish on the early morning trains as members leave for their homes.

ONLY ABOUT ONE-THIRD OF THE CITY RESIDENCES ARE CONNECTED. HOWEVER.

From City Engineer Smith it is learned that Concord has 20 miles of sewer line. In speaking of the line Captain Smith stated that only about one-third of the residences on the line are connected. He has been making an effort to get more people to take advantage of it and has met with good success in a number of places but many people have so far failed to have their homes connected with the line.

Now, that the summer season is approaching which requires more strict attention to municipal sanitation, further efforts will be made to have homes connected with the line. The city sanitary officer is of the opinion that no one thing would make Concord healthier and more sanitary than for the people to connect with the line where it is possible.

The revelations in the Chicago probe, paralleled in every section of the country, has stirred the people. There is little doubt but that the problem will be a serious one when the regular session of Congress opens in December. It is insisted that national and not State legislation will be required to solve the problem.

"I defended Watkins, do not believe him guilty, he ought not to have been convicted and has suffered too much," Governor Craig says. Watkins served eight of his eighteen months on the roads.

IT WAS REALLY SUNDAY AT WHITE HOUSE.

Executive Offices as "Dead" as the Proverbial Door Nail.

Washington, March 10.—It was a strictly Wilsonian, near-puritanical Sunday at the White House yesterday. The executive offices were as "dead" as the proverbial door nail.

It was the best precedent-shattering Sabbath Washington has seen in many a day.

A handful of political visitors and some newspaper men were amazed when told that only two men were at work in the executive offices. They were Executive clerks Rudolph Foster and "Tom" Brahaney, and it so happened that they narrowly missed a violation of presidential orders in spending the day at work instead of with their families.

"I will not be down tomorrow," said Secretary Tamm Saturday night, "and there will be no work for anybody to do. Spend Sunday at home."

Pofter and Brahaney said they were "on this job" merely through force of habit.

President Wilson left word at the executive office that he would not touch any work or receive any messages this afternoon unless they were of the first importance. The State Department, where for years at least one of the secretaries as bureau chiefs has worked on Sunday, was entirely deserted today except in the telephone office. Secretary of State Bryan left word with the employees of the department last night that he would follow the Wilson rule in closing his offices "tight" on the Sabbath.

TO PROTECT NORTH CAROLINA INTERESTS.

Movement Being Formed by North Carolina Senators for Defense.

Washington, March 10.—It became definitely known today that since Congress adjourned, Senators Simmons and Overman have been very industrious in the foundation of a group of Senators from States adjoining North Carolina, with tariff interests, similar to those of North Carolina who will be prepared to stand together for the protection of the interests of the Tar Heel State when the time comes for readjusting schedules in cotton, tobacco and other State industries.

This movement is being formed not for offense but for defense, which goes a long way towards giving it warrant. A group of Democrats from seven Middle Western States initiated the idea and the Senators from the cotton mill states of the South are simply keeping pace. It was rumored today that the New Englanders are also forming a similar organization to protect their manufactures.
