

GOVERNOR VISITS AGRICULTURE BOARD

APPEALS ON SOCIAL SERVICE AND POLITICAL UPLIFT

Board Adopts Resolution Urging Writers to Use Language Laymen Can Understand and Not So Many Scientific Terms. — Snow Lumber Company and Others Pled to Substantiate Claims for Rebates for Overcharges.

Raleigh, June 6.—Governor Craig visited the board of agriculture today and spoke, outlining his views on social service and political uplift. He pledged the board the influence of his office in all things making for the betterment of the people of the State.

The board adopted a resolution urging writers for bulletins to use language entirely understandable by farmers and laymen and the eliminating of scientific terms as much as possible.

It appears that the petitioners in the case of the Snow Lumber Company and others against the Southern Railroad failed to substantiate their claim for rebates for overcharges. The commission will decide whether or not to revise the interdivisional rates. Oral testimony is concluded and both sides have submitted briefs.

A "PRISON TIGER" IS EXECUTED TODAY.

The Most Famous Convict in the West Goes to His Death Today.

Folsom, Cal., June 6.—Jacob Oppenheimer, the "Tiger of Folsom Prison," and the most famous convict in the west today went to his death after a remarkable fight for life that led to the United States Supreme Court. Oppenheimer was sentenced to die under a California law which makes an attack on a prison guard a crime punishable by death.

Oppenheimer was sentenced from Oakland to a 50-year term in Folsom prison for robbery in August 1893. A few years later he fatally stabbed a fellow prisoner named Ross. He was convicted of the murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin. There he stabbed guard McDonald, but not fatally. Placed in solitary confinement, he mysteriously secured a piece of steel, made a file and saved his way through a steel door. He stabbed a fellow convict named Wilson, who attempted to block his way to liberty. Oppenheimer was captured, tried for his attack on McDonald, sentenced to death and sent to Folsom prison. While awaiting execution "Tiger" Oppenheimer stabbed Corbett. Quietly to death with a fork following a trivial argument while eating.

Once again Oppenheimer was placed in "solitary," and once again he secured a piece of steel, made a saw and got out into the corridor, where he was captured. Oppenheimer, it is said, has a dozen or more times tried to saw his way from his cell by the authorities have suppressed the reports of it. His almost supernatural ability to secure material for saws and weapons made him the equal of the submarine Jaws. Promoted to head of the prison, he was sent to Charlestown, Mass. penitentiary in 1910.

HUNDREDS BY GYPSIES

The Shrewder Hoodwinked a Negro And Stole a Load of Oats. — The Oats Recovered.

A party of gypsies, a band of twelve, passed through the city on their way to Salisbury. The band, traveling in wagons and on horseback, were passing along the Mainopolis road near the Lubeger place, when they stopped and began talking with Walter Witherspoon, colored, who was engaged in cutting oats. Their conversation with Walter was very friendly as he in money and several sheaves of oats were secured from him as a result of it.

Mr. B. L. Umberger, owner of the Lubeger place, received word that the gypsies were securing oats from his employees and he and Sheriff Howey went to the farm in an automobile. When they arrived however, the oats had been regimined. Mr. Caleb Goodman, who lives near there, having stopped the gypsies and required them to return the oats to the farm.

In the meantime Walter was attempting to determine just how he had been so cunningly hoodwinked by the travelers. Explaining the gypsies' methods, to Mr. Umberger, Walter said that they put a piece of silk cloth on his shoulder and tied a knot in it. Then monkey signs were made. By this time Walter was becoming somewhat hoodwinked. More knots were tied and Walter's hoodoo gained firmer grip on him. The gypsies were also in a gripping business and they gripped Walter's coin. One gypsy held a finger on Walter's breast and another made curious figures on the ground. This was too much for Walter, and he became a thoroughly bamboozled "nigger."

In the meantime other gypsies were loading a wagon with oats. But there was more coming to Walter. Strange herbs and roots were pulled forth from a bag and rubbed on Walter. This was sufficient. What the silk cloth, knots, monkey figures, etc., failed to do was performed by the roots and herbs, and Walter became hopelessly hoodwinked, hoodwinked, bamboozled and honeyfogged all at the same time. In the meantime the oats continued to be piled high on the wagon and the gypsies evidently decided that they were through with Walter and left him to wonder just exactly what kind of an intellect he possessed.

The Sheriff was armed with a search warrant but he and Mr. Umberger arrived at Lubeger place and found that the oats had been recovered. They decided not to pursue the band and no arrests were made.

The Location of the New School Building.

Mr. Editor: I am glad to note a growing interest on the part of the tax payers and patrons of our graded schools in the question of the location of the new school building authorized by the issue of the $20,000 bonds. It would be well, in my opinion, for the school board to call in consultation, as to the location, the city board of aldermen and our representative citizens, which was done before the present Central school building was erected. Mr. W. G. Means, the pastor of our legal bar, and a trustee of the Union school board, has given his opinion to Dr. Smoot, chairman of the graded school board, that a good and legal title can be given to the city for the property. This property, known as the old Lutheran Church property, is an ideal location, while the proposed site near the Central graded school, is very objectionable. A prominent citizen, living in close proximity to this proposed site, informs me that he is opposed to its location there on sanitary grounds and the great expense that would be attached to preparing the ground alone for the building.

I would suggest that the city board of health be asked to examine the grounds as to its sanitary possibilities, besides the artistic well that would be covered by the proposed building. It might be necessary to furnish our water supply at some time in the future, as it is a well known fact that Cold Water creek goes dry—dries dry. This question of the location and proper expenditure of these $20,000 is an important matter to the tax payers and patrons of our schools.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS MEET IN SALISBURY.

Nearly 500 of Them Are in That City Today.

Salisbury, June 6.—Nearly five hundred travelers are in Salisbury today for the two-day meeting of the Grand Council of the Carolina of the United Commercial Travelers. There are fourteen councils in the two States and all of these are represented by large delegations, while many members from other States, who are working this territory, have dropped in to enjoy the fellowship of their brother Knights of the Grip at this glad time. Many of the delegates have their wives and daughters with them. Salisbury people have left nothing undone to make the two-day stay here an ideal one and replete with pleasure to all the visitors.

The opening session was called to order this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Grubb Theatre by Past Councilor E. W. Tatum. Senator Lee S. Overman delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the Salisbury Industrial Club, which was responded to by Dr. J. P. Stepp, of Spartanburg, S. C. The address of welcome for the city of Salisbury was delivered by Mayor W. H. Woodson and for Salisbury Council 507, W. M. Ruth delivered the welcome address. J. H. Semken, of Charleston, S. C., responded.

A business session of the convention was held in the local council chamber at 11 a. m. Two other business sessions will be held today, at 3 and 6:30 p. m., respectively.

From 11 to 12 this morning the visiting ladies were met at the Empire Hotel by the ladies' committee and given the keys to the social side of Salisbury. This afternoon from 5 to 7 the visiting ladies will be entertained at a garden party on the beautiful lawn of Mrs. Charles Price on North Fulton street.

Tonight from 9 until 11 o'clock the Salisbury Choral Society will give a musical in honor of the visitors at the graded school building.

Littlefield, Charlotte; treasurer, Clarence Kuester, Charlotte; grand conductor, A. E. Hughes; grand page, H. R. Barrow; sentinel, J. E. Call.

The Duke and Trinity.

Again the sons of Washington Duke have sustained the father's traditional loyalty to the cause of education in North Carolina. They have come to the rescue of Trinity and made possible the $1,000,000 endowment by which that institution's field of usefulness is greatly extended. The Duke has made Trinity the most richly endowed college in the South. The late Washington Duke started this work many years ago and strangely enough had to fight his way to each successive gift of money. Opposition to the Duke money, however, has ceased to be a disturbing element and the gifts are being received in the light of reason and in the spirit of the original Duke intention. Up to this week, the gifts of the Duke family to the promotion of the usefulness of Trinity had been more than $2,000,000. The public has been a long time in coming to a just appreciation of the value of the Duke endowment. They are captains of education whose work will for all time reflect honor and glory on the State.

MR. CORRELL WAS MARRIED APRIL 19.

The Ceremony Was Performed in Albemarle on That Day By Rev. Mr. Tucker.

Yesterday The Tribune published an account of the wedding of Mr. E. F. Correll and Miss Almatta Lips. The account of the marriage stated that it took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Levi Lips, near Misenheimer Springs and that it was witnessed by a few intimate friends and the contracting parties.

Mr. Correll, as noted in the account published yesterday, left Concord that morning, accompanied by his brother, Mr. W. C. Correll, and Mr. C. F. Ritchie, a close friend, the two having been asked by him to accompany him on the trip to witness the ceremony. They accepted the invitation with pleasure.

The party arrived at the home a few minutes before noon. The wedding, however, did not take place. Much to the surprise of the groom's two attendants the announcement was made that Mr. Correll and Miss Lips were married April 19, the wedding taking place in Albemarle and was performed by Rev. Mr. Tucker. After the wedding Mr. Correll went to her home at Misenheimer and Mr. Correll returned here, where they have since been living.

After the surprising announcement had been made a sumptuous dinner was served at the bride's home to the bride and groom, attendants and members of the bride's family. Mr. and Mrs. Correll returned to Concord yesterday afternoon, where they will make their home.

KLUTZ AND HALE WILL BE OFFERED PLACES.

Hale to Be Tendered Post as Minister to Costa Rica. — Better Job For Klutz.

Washington Cor. Greensboro News. Washington, June 5.—It is generally understood here tonight that Major E. J. Hale, of Fayetteville, will be offered the post as minister to Costa Rica, and that Whitehead Klutz, of Salisbury will be given a position in the diplomatic service a little bit better than the Costa Rica position.

These facts became known tonight after President Wilson had conferred at the capital with Senators Simmons and Overman and a number of other leading Democratic Senators in regard to appointments.

While neither of the Senators would talk for publication, it is understood that President Wilson wanted to know whether Senator Overman would object to the appointment of the Fayetteville man. The President, it is learned, stated that he would give Mr. Klutz a better place than that which will be offered the veteran editor.

RUNAWAY NO. 2.

A Thriller Late Yesterday Afternoon With New Fangled Thrills.

Runaway No. 2 yesterday took place about 6 o'clock and was a thriller with new fangled thrills. Runaway No. 1 (they are so frequent that numbers are necessary) had taken place several hours before. As a day it was not complete without a few runaways, judging by the number lately, the running steeds played a double leader yesterday, and as above noted, the second thriller took place about 5 o'clock, North Union street being selected as the course.

A horse belonging to the Gibson Manufacturing Company was left unattended while hitched to a wagon in front of the express office, an ordinance against leaving horses unattended on the streets to the contrary notwithstanding. The animal decided to run and run it did, dashing off up the street at breakneck speed. Each side of the street was lined with vehicles and automobiles and only the center was open for running purposes, and naturally the horse selected the open section.

However, this section was not open all the way. Mr. A. G. Odell was driving his buggy along the street and Mr. D. B. Coltrane was also suddenly surprised by a chorus of yells from pedestrians along the sidewalks to look out. They looked out and what they saw was danger and danger was a-running. The big draft horse was thundering down upon them. Both sides of the street were blocked with vehicles. There remained only one course to pursue—run. Did they run? Did Joe Dawson run when his car sped by the judges' stand ahead in the Indianapolis sweepstakes? Did Bruce Brown run at Savannah? Did Harry Grant run in the Vanderbilt cup race? They sped up the street at a hurricane gait, the horse and wagon only a few feet behind, rattling and bumping along along at amazing speed. The crowd stood in breathless suspense for a fleeting period and watched the race. The two steeds sped on to the square and a short distance beyond, when Mr. Odell saw an opportunity to pull to the side of the street and did so, the pursuing horse and wagon passing and continuing up the street until stopped, snorting and exhausted, several blocks away.

THE WILLIAMS LIQUOR CASE FINALLY SETTLED.

New Commissioner Permits Williams to Give Bond and Remove Large Quantity of Wet Goods.

Washington, June 5.—By modifying the action of former Commissioner of Internal Revenue Cabell is the famous N. Glenn Williams whiskey case, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Osborn has practically ended a controversy of eight years standing between the government and the claimants to 25,000 gallons of whiskey stored at Williams, N. C.

The new commissioner has permitted Williams to give a bond for the internal revenue tax and extended until January 1, 1914, the time of going into effect of his predecessor's order for the removal of the whiskey from Williams, N. C., to abandoned warehouse at Louisville, Ky.

Commissioner Osborn's action will permit the withdrawal and sale of the whiskey with the payment of taxes to the government aggregating $25,000. He said he modified Mr. Cabell's order so that the government may receive the taxes and be spared the expense of $12 a day in keeping a guard at the Williams distillery.

ALL FACTIONS TO GET TOGETHER, SAYS COWLES.

Former Republican Congressman From State Takes Optimistic View of the Future Politically.

Washington, June 5.—Former Congressman Charles H. Cowles, who represented the eighth congressional district, but owing to "judicious" legislation, is now residing in the seventh, predicted tonight before leaving for home that the Republicans, Progressives and all other factions will get together and help to solidify the Republican party and sweep the country in an overwhelming victory in 1916.

Mr. Cowles said he did not care to say whether he would be a candidate for Congress next year. "It is too early yet to talk about that. I have not been offered the nomination and, of course, will not refuse what I have not been offered. I am by far more interested in seeing the factions get together than I am in coming to Congress."

FINE YIELD OF WHEAT.

Mr. M. R. Bost, of No. 10 township, brought to our office this morning a bunch of wheat which showed a remarkable yield. There are on it, produced from a single grain, 118 stalks, each with a large head of bearded wheat. These heads would average probably 40 grains each, and this would make 4,720 grains produced from a single one sown. If this yield has a parallel we have never seen or heard of it.
