Will Open Ladies to Wear Depart-ment in Large Room Over Ritchie Hardware Store.

Rardware Store.

Fird's large department store has taken another progressive step, having rented the large room over Ritchie Hardware store adjacent to the Piedmont Club rooms and Pythian lodge room, and will open a ready-to-wear department there. The room is one of the most spacious in the city and ideally located for this line of Efird's store. Workmen are engaged today cutting an entrance to the room, the entrance to be made at the rear of Efird's store, the stairway running up through the office of Ritchie Hardware Company.

A large line of the latest creations in ladies ready-to-wear goods will be placed in the new storeroom as soon as the carpenters complete their work and the fixtures are installed. The husiness will be conducted in connection with the downstairs store and will be in charge of experienced fitters and entters. Mr. Ray Effrd, manager of the store, stated this morning that he had purchased a large number of suits and that he hoped to have the new department opened in a short time.

CONCORD PUBLIC LIBRARY

Has Done and is Doing a Great Ed

Stional Work in Concord.

The following article on our library is taken from the last issue of the North Carolina Library Bulletin:

Less than two years ago the Concord Public Library was opened in one room, a room which had been secured free of rent. Today the library owns its own building for which $3,200 has been paid and there are over 1,200 books on the shelves.

It is doubtful if any library association in the State has accomplished

A brief account of the work of the Concord Library Association may be of interest and help to other library associations. As the library outgrew the one room in which it was housed the question of more commodious quarters became a very pressing one. Finally the Library Association decident ed to make an appeal to the people of Concord. Since its organization the Association had been carrying on ing sentiment in favor of the library a public campaign; had been creat keeping the library constantly before the public. There was probably not a man, woman, or child of ol age who did not know about the library and its work. And this was one reason the people of Concord responded so promptly, so generously, and loyally to the appeal made by the Association. Another and equally important reason was that the library had made good. It had done and was doing a great educational work for Concord, not only helping to educate the boys and girls but the men and women as well; it had provided books of "recreation, inspiration, and infor-mation;" and it had graciously of-which can be used as a children's awaiting sentence of death in the room or as a work room.

There cannot be found in Concord today a more attractive place than the public library and we extend our hearty congratulations to the Library Association to the Library Association and to the citizens of Concord.

May the root work of the Angler of the Court of Appeals decides against Becker, his attorneys will take his case to the United States Supreme Court at Washington. May the good work g oon and pros-per and may the library be a contin-ual source of life and joy and influennee to all the people of the comnunity.

OLD TIMES AND NEW.

Never Lost a Patient Who Had Appendicitis, Alias Cramp Colic. Mr. Editor.

Fifty years ago all the doctoring community, universally known as "Granny," deogwood bark, bone-set, sheep saffron and Sampson snake root were her stand-bys, and I never knew her to lose a patient. Appendicitis (no, cramp colie) was just as common then as now. You were not rushed off to some hospital and relieved of a hundred plunks, but she heated a board and told you where to put it, and within ten minutes you were sitting at the table eating a mess of collards.

At that time doctors, were few and far between-only two in Sampson They depended almost, if county. They depended almost, if not entirely, on blue mass. Tutt's pills and Perry Davis' Pain Killer to meet all surgical and functional disorders. But the doctors multiplied exceedingly and completely routed the old "granny." but she is coming o herself again.

Not since Jenner's short cut to smallpox, Friedmann's anti-tubereular toxin, nor Cook's discovery of the North Pole has domestic science made greater discovery than was recentw handed out to a chill ravaged section by one of those old "grannies. If you have the shakes all you've got to do when you rise up in the morning is to repeat the following in one breath and make three marks on the 'hath'':

"Say not howdy when you come. Nor farewell when you go. For I come not when I come. And I go not when I go."

Within three days time you will feel like you have been to a White house reception. I'd be glad if I could get in touch with the editor of the Observer, for the last time I saw him he said he had something like chills. He can be quickly cured by following the directions already giv-Manteo, June 16, 1913.
