PROVISIONS OF THE NEW CURRENCY BILL

OUTLINE OF THE MEASURE IS MADE PUBLIC.

Issue of $500,000,000 Emergency Money Authorized by Measure. — 50 Per Cent Limit On All Land Loans.—President Wilson Will Ask Immediate Action.—Many Changes Looked For.

Washington, June 20.—The main provisions of the Administration currency bill became known yesterday when Chairman Glass of the House Banking and Currency Committee and Chairman Owen of the same committee in the Senate prepared the final draft of the measure to be presented on Monday.

This bill absolutely safeguards the control of the general reserve association, which, in turn, has explicit supervision over the regional reserve associations.

The measure, which will be known as the Owen-Glass bill, provides:

1. Fifteen regional federal reserve banks.
2. Central control through a federal board of nine members, three chosen by the banks, three members of the cabinet, and three appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.
3. Proposed new federal reserve notes limited to $500,000,000.
4. Security for these notes may be government, or State bonds, or approved commercial paper.
5. National bank depositories to be superseded by the federal reserve banks.
6. Board of control given authority to fix rates of interest.
7. Headquarters of the federal reserve board to be situated in Washington.
8. Authority given to country banks to lend money on farming lands.
9. Provision for banks of $10,000,000 or more of capital to establish branch banks in foreign countries.

SANITARY INSPECTION

Now Being Made By City Engineer

City Engineer Reese I. Long has started a tour of inspection of the city with a view to ascertaining the sanitary condition here. Mr. Long has not yet completed the inspection but states that he finds many premises that need attention. In order to bring the matter to the attention of the residents the city engineer is placing placards in various yards. The placards that are in a sanitary condition are so marked and those that are not in such condition will have a placard stating that they are not and also bearing a request to please clean up. Mr. Long will continue this work until the existing conditions are remedied.

Tomorrow the Longest Day of the Year.

Washington, June 20.—When the United States Weather Bureau jots down the minute the sun appears over the horizon tomorrow it will record the initial note on the longest day of the year. Between sun-up and sun-down it will be fully fifteen hours when the sun dips below the horizon at night it will mark its highest notch, so far as late hours are concerned, and from that time until December it will make its daily farewell on a graduated schedule, clipping off a few minutes each day.

Autos For Parcels Post.

Washington, June 20.—Growth of the parcel post since its inauguration January 1 has increased to such an extent that the Postoffice Department has had to purchase forty additional automobiles to be used exclusively in the collection and delivery of parcels and department officials today are considering open bids for the machines. They will be distributed in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, and San Francisco. All will be of the enclosed type.

Woman Arrested for Smoking a Cigarette.

Atlanta, June 20.—Neighbors who saw Miss Ella Towpsday reclining on a sofa and puffing a cigarette after the manner of a Turkish beauty, in the presence of E. J. Chandless, at 43 Houston street, made complaint and had both arrested.

They said the neighborhood was not accustomed to such scenes.

Governor Locke Craig, who has been an Asheville visitor for the past several days, announced Thursday night that he had appointed Walter D. Siler of Siler City, as solicitor for the district recently created by the Legislature comprising the counties of Barnett, Wayne, Johnston, Chatham and Lee.

Another New York Murder Mystery.

New York, June 20.—There is a strong dramatic element which would undoubtedly appeal to a French playwright in the circumstances surrounding the death, a few days ago, of Patrick Considine, a simple village policeman in Cliffside, one of the suburban places on the Jersey side of the Hudson. About the facts which led to the shooting of the policeman nothing definite is known and the truth will probably never become known, which would give the widest scope to the imagination of a playwright in building up the preliminary plot leading up to the critical point.

It seems that Considine, a strapping big fellow, more than six feet tall and proportionately developed, on the fatal night visited his neighbor, Mrs. Devlin, a vaudeville actress married to a little, insignificant shrimp of an actor, named James Devlin. When Devlin came home that night and found Considine with Mrs. Devlin he became furious, presuming that everything was not as it should be between his wife and the visitor. He ranted in the most melodramatic fashion but wisely refrained from attacking the unwelcome visitor, for whose Herculean strength he was no match. He acted the role of the outraged husband and incidentally asserted that he would shoot Considine if he had a gun.

Annual Moody Gathering.

East Northfield, Mass., June 20.—The Student Conference, the first of the annual religious gatherings established by Dwight L. Moody, opened here today with an attendance of college men from many of the leading institutions of the eastern States and Canada. The object of the conference is to stimulate interest in Christian work, both at home and abroad. Prominent persons will address the students during their nine days' stay here, including Dr. Robert E. Speer, John R. Mott, and Dean Brown, of the Yale Divinity School.

For Arkansas Governorship.

Little Rock, Ark., June 20.—After one of the most political campaigns Arkansas has known in years the Democratic will engage in a State primary election tomorrow to select a candidate for governor to succeed Governor Joe T. Robinson, who resigned to accept election to the United States Senate. There are but two candidates for the nomination, former Congressman Stephen Brandt, Jr., of Beary, and Judge G. W. Hayes, of Camden.

An only person is not to be blamed for his losses, but people will be in a hurry.

COLLISIONS GALORE.

Concord Bottling Company Vehicles Collide With Whatever Sets Their Course.

Mr. H. B. Hopkins, manager of the Concord Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company and ex-motor cyclist, with emphasis on the "ex," if you please, that is Mr. Hopkins. And there is a reason.

Several weeks ago a team of horses belonging to the bottling company ran away and collided with a horse belonging to the E. B. Grady Plumbing Company. A few days later another horse belonging to the bottling company ran away, collided with a buggy on Union street, upset the vehicle and injured several parties. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hopkins was thrown from his motorcycle and collided with a horse belonging to M. C. Walter Company. All of which is colliding some. Don't you think in fact they are the "champeen" colliders of this section, the undisputed, unchallenged "champeens."

Mr. Hopkins was chug, chugging around among the corner of Powder and West Depot street yesterday afternoon, when suddenly the front wheel of the motorcycle shot out for the forks, leaving the machine and scoting across the street. Mr. Hopkins scooted to, landing rather forcibly beneath the heels of a horse belonging to M. C. Walter Company. The animal jumped and kicked but fortunately jumped out of Mr. Hopkins' way and he emerged from his mishap uninjured. The outcome of the affair is that there is a nice, practically new motorcycle on the market today.

Charlton's Three Years in Jail.

New York, June 20.—Porter Charlton, whom the Supreme Court of the United States recently decided must be returned to Italy to be tried for the murder of his wife, has completed his third year as a prisoner in the Hudson county jail in New Jersey. Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton was murdered in Italy in the early part of June, 1910. The body, having been put into a trunk and thrown into Lake Como, was soon found, but not until Charlton had fled and on the sea bound for New York. He arrived here on June 22, 1910, and within an hour after his arrest he confessed to the Hoboken police that he was guilty of the crime charged against him.

Charlton was promptly committed to the Hudson county jail. He has been there ever since, while his family and counsel have exhausted every means known to the law to prevent his extradition to Italy. Two weeks ago the last hope was lost when the Supreme Court decided that the confessed murderer must be surrendered to the Italian authorities.

It is expected that within another month young Charlton will be on his way back to Italy in the custody of the Italian police. Even had he not confessed his crime, it is believed that the young man would have little chance of escaping conviction, as under the Italian system a prisoner is supposed to be guilty until proved innocent. There is no death penalty in Italy, and if Charlton is convicted he will probably get a sentence of twenty years in prison, ten of them in solitary confinement.

Tango and Others Prohibited.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 20.—They have elapsed the lid down a la Mayor Gaynor in regard to the dances which will and won't be permitted here tonight at the State ball, given in connection with West Virginia's semi-centennial week. At first, the committee announced that the tango, turkey-trot, hesitation waltz, bunny-hug, grizzly bear, and all similar Terpsichorean maizes would be strictly (absolutely) then a great storm of protest arose and the committee decided to admit the tango and the hesitation waltz, but the others can't be lugged onto the ball room floor tonight. The committee says it will have watchers to spy out any of the dances Mayor Gaynor calls lascivious and send the dancers home.

Southern Textile Association.

Charleston, S. C., June 20.—The annual convention of the Southern Textile Association, composed of the engineers and operative officials of all the large cotton mills of the South met here today and was called to order by President T. M. McEntire. Mill experts of New England as well as the South presented papers on various technical problems connected with the cotton manufacturing industry. The convention will conclude tomorrow with the election of officers.

Ask That Charlton Be Not Extradited.

Washington, June 20.—Judge Paul Charlton, father of Porter Charlton, of Lake Como, Italy, the boy who murdered, made a final plea that his son not be extradited. Secretary Bryan gently reminded him that his plea is useless, though this country will see that an impartial trial will be given.

All Break Legs.

Ford City, Pa., June 20.—Thirteen Ford City boys aged 8 years, fell and broke his leg on the same stairs on which his father, grandfather and great-grandfather once sustained great breaks.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 20.—Two negroes are known to be dead, and eighteen others may have lost their lives as a result of a cyclone, according to an unauthenticated report. Several persons were drowned when a wave swept the Florida Keys. There is no direct communication now. Some estimates place the death list at nearly a hundred.

WOULD DRIVE WHISKEY FROM UNITED STATES.

Washington, June 19.—On the theory that the alarming increase of the use of strong drink threatens the health of the nation, aside from working enormous hereditary evils, Senators Works, of California, announced today the preparation of a proposed constitutional amendment wiping out the manufacture, production and sale of distilled alcoholic liquors in the United States.

The bill, which would not prohibit the manufacture and sale of wines, will be introduced in the Senate on Saturday.

FUNERAL OF DR. YOUNG

Held Here This Morning.—Business Houses Close From 11:30 to 12:30

Business ceased in Concord this morning at 11:30, the stores, banks and other business houses closing during the funeral hours as a tribute of respect to the late Dr. Robert Simonton Young, leading physician, business man and citizen. The service was held at the First Presbyterian Church. The large church, including the main auditorium, galleries and Sunday school rooms, was filled with friends and relatives of the deceased, from here and elsewhere in this section. Scores of friends from the county, who with those here, had throughout Dr. Young's long career, felt the blessings of his work and were bound to him by the ties of close friendship, were present, driving here this morning. The service was conducted by Rev. W. C. Alexander, of Nashville, former pastor of the deceased, assisted by Rev. A. A. McGehee, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, and Rev. T. W. Smith, of this city. The service was opened by a song by a quartette composed of Messrs. James J. B. Womble, H. I. Woodhouse, and Messrs. Lloyd McKay and Ed. How a Local Merchant Can Kill Mail Order Competition.

Mail order business is that department of business whereby through the medium of advertising merchandise is sold direct to the consumer by mail. This business has grown by leaps and bounds. Why? Because the local merchant does not keep pace with the increasing demands of an increasing population. The five big mail order houses of Chicago receive on an average of 250,000 orders a day. And this enormous business comes from communities whose natural trade belongs to the local merchants. The local merchant must make more effort to hold his business and to get new business or the big concerns will make greater inroads. He must beat the mail order houses at their own game. He can do this by handling honest goods at honest prices and telling about the goods in such a way people will believe in him. Fault finding or appealing to local pride is of no avail. It is the careful, systematic, elaborate description in mail order advertising that has built up the big mail order business. In the local merchant will be careful, systematic, elaborate and truthful in all his local advertising he will win. The advertiser who is truthful will in the end get the business. The public can never know what a merchant has to sell unless he tells about it. There is no better means of publicity than the local paper. Every merchant who carries on a systematic advertising campaign in his local paper, properly and honestly describing what he has for sale, will find his business in no way affected by mail order competition.

A young man in this place who has been using a motorcycle daily in his business in order to look after his work around town, has sold it. He says constant riding of one will kill any man. The tension is so constant and so severe that the nerves give away. However, these machines are great for getting around in a hurry at small expense and strange to say an accident is rare, though some of them travel at a high rate of speed.—Hillsborough Record.
