CHARLES R. WAGONER

Sketch of Concord Banker in "Representative Men of North Carolina."
 In the Charlotte Observer's column "Representative Men of North Carolina," we find the following sketch of Mr. C. R. Wagoner:
 When a man "arrives" in his home town it's because the goods have been delivered—you can't put a bluff over those who have known your family for two or three generations. And while it's true that your own people put you under the microscope when you do "arrive" you're there to stay, and no interloping outsider can even shake the pedestal upon which home talent is placed. So it is, that in Concord, the biggest towel-manufacturing city in the world (and not all the towels made for the export trade), Charles R. Wagoner, a youngster of '57, has twice been mayor and would, in all probability, still hold that office if he had not declined to run for the third time.
 The 57 years of Mr. Wagoner's life have been full years. Growing up in Concord, when 14 years of age he entered Trinity College then located at Trinity, Randolph county. Before he graduated the college was moved to Durham where he continued his studies, receiving his degree in 1885.
 After leaving college he decided to engage in textile manufacturing and vice-president of the latter. He gave mills at Norwood and Landis, being vice-president of the latter. He gave up his work in a short time and returned to Concord to develop his real estate holdings. Owning much undeveloped property in the western part of town he opened streets, built houses, planted trees and hedges, and by a steady process of improvement changed his holdings from barren lots in many cases uninviting, to attractive homes. It was not a lightning change, but the result of a will, hard, conservative policy.
 Mr. Wagoner is by nature conservative, and his investments are reflective of seasoned judgment based on the idea that whatever builds up the community, builds up the individual at the same time. To get something for nothing, or to enter into a market already crowded, is no part of his system.
 In 1905 he organized the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. of which he is president. Under his management the institution has enjoyed a steady growth and plays an important part in the life of Concord. Mr. Wagoner is a director of numerous enterprises, including mercantile firms, cotton mills, trust and insurance companies, and building and loan associations. He is a strong believer in the principle of the mutual building and loan association and is one of the largest subscribers to such stock in the State.
 In 1909 and again in 1911 Mr. Wagoner was elected mayor of Concord. He declined to be a candidate for a third term, quitting the office with the confidence of the community. This, his activities are of a nature to retain. He takes an active interest in matters of a public nature, provided they tend to develop his town and section. They must produce, however, for he manifests little regard for politics of a parasitic order.
 As a bachelor mayor Mr. Wagoner was brought into public notice as opposed to woman suffrage—but the aversion is to suffrage alone, this being the natural view of a man who has spent the most of his life with a mother of the good, old-fashioned sort.

DON'T TAKE THE WRONG MEDICINE.

If Your Liver Gets Lazy You Need a Liver Tonic, Not Merely a Laxative for the Bowels.
 Many people take a simple laxative when their liver gets sluggish rather than take calomel, which they know to be dangerous. But a mere laxative will not start a sluggish liver. What is needed is a tonic that will live up to the liver without forcing you to stay at home and lose a day from your work.
 You have such a tonic in Dodson's Liver Tonic. Dodson's Liver Tonic must be all they claim for it because they guarantee it to take the place of calomel and agree to hand back the money with a smile to any person who tries Dodson's Liver Tonic and is not satisfied with the relief it gives.
 Dodson's Liver Tonic is a harmless vegetable liquid with a pleasant taste, and is a prompt and reliable remedy for constipation, biliousness, sour stomach, and the other troubles that come from a torpid liver.
 Gibson Drug Store give it their personal guarantee and if you will ask about this guarantee you will protect yourself against imitations that are not guaranteed. Large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic is 50 cents.

PRESIDENT WILSON IS NOT USING BIG STICK

Suggestions That Patronage Will Play Part in Tolls Fight Vigorous by Demand.
 Washington, April 2.—To callers with whom he discussed the Panama tolls fight in the Senate today, President Wilson made himself unmistakably clear on several points, to wit:
 That proposals of compromise have been broached to him and that he is not considering such proposals.
 That he does not expect the repeal bill to be unduly delayed in the Senate, but does expect its passage in fairly good time and by an impressive majority.
 That he has not sent any "ultimatum" to the Senate, and is not attempting in any way to bring the power of his office to bear upon individual senators.
 Suggestions that patronage is being used or will be used—that the President is trying to club senators into line—not only is vigorously repudiated at the White House, but today lacks corroborative evidence. If it were not for their scurrilous character, intimations of the sort would be lightly regarded in the President's immediate circle. That is, resort to such is not necessary; the repeal bill, the President is assured, will be passed.
WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND.
Vinol for Run-Down People.
 If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.
 This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most world famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cods' livers without the oil, and iron for the blood.
 Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.
 Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Gibson Drug Store, Concord, N. C.
 P. S.—For pimples and blotches try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it. adv.

It is "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman no longer. The once proponent of the arts of war has abandoned this strenuous life for the gentle art of hygiene and right living. The love of battle that gave this picturesque Senator his reputation in his earlier days has gone forever, and the gentleman of living right is now his noble. The Senator told the Senate all about it the other day. He was discussing his resolution to prohibit smoking in the Senate chamber during executive sessions. Incidentally, he made one of the best little sermons on clean living that has been heard before. But it was a violent change from the Ben Tillman of yore, who used to breathe fire and adjectives worthy of Roosevelt, to see the senator from Carolina so quietly and healthily elucidate his platform of health. He said:
 "Since my illness four years ago, I have learned more about the human body than during the balance of my life put together and I am sure I have discovered some of the secrets of nature. The pity of it is I had to ruin my health before I discovered these things and learned how to live intelligently. Had I lived ten years ago as I am doing now, my health never would have broken down at all.
 "I believe I could function for the life of every man in this chamber from six to fifteen years if I could only get them to believe what I tell them and follow by advice.
 "I owe what degree of recovery I have made—and I am constantly being told I look a great deal better, and I know it is so, to will power and self-control in eating; the will power to exercise my muscles and nerves sufficiently to give them tone and keep the rust out of the joints; but the greatest health help to my health arises from the self-control which enables me to keep from eating things I ought not to."
 We may sometimes think it is worse in Concord than in other places, but we guess it is about the same in all towns. The Wash-burn Ansonian says:
 In nearly every session of court here the disgrace of some man or boy is laid bare when the fact is brought out that he loafed and lives off the labors of a poor wife, his children or maybe his parents. Sometimes, these fellows are brought into court and are found to be professional gamblers, sort of polite held-up men, if you please. Every day we see able-bodied, well-dressed young men who walk the streets of this town and live off the hard earnings of their mothers, their fathers or some other member of the family. We know fathers who are able to work in the factory districts of the town, living off the earnings of their wives and children who toil in the factories from earliest morning till night. Think of mothers and little children going to work before a large part of our population is out of bed, and spending the whole God-given day in the mills in order that they may live and support these worthless men and boys! It is a disgrace to this town, a shame upon our churches and our citizenship to permit such a thing.
 Secretary Bryan is another statesman who believes in the old-fashioned simplicity. He stated before the Appropriations Committee that he will never ask the United States government to buy a motor car for his official use. He has a horse and carriage provided for making and returning official calls, he said, and for his own private use he owns an automobile. Secretary Bryan also told the Appropriations Committee that inasmuch as it was absolutely bad form to make official calls without a footman he had been pleading a State Department messenger on the box, deducting his time from the government payroll and paying him from the Bryan private pocketbook.
