

DEAD HEROES ARE HONORED

BODIES OF THE 17 DEAD ARE BROUGHT ASHORE

President Wilson, Secretary Daniels and Other High Officials Participate.—Bodies in Flag-Draped Caskets Brought Ashore From the Montana.—Bodies Borne up Broadway to Brooklyn Navy Yard.—Chief Ceremonies Conducted in Brooklyn.

New York, May 11.—With President Wilson, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and other high officials participating, the nation's dead, including the seventeen boys who fell at Vera Cruz, were honored today. The President arrived shortly after 7 o'clock. He had his breakfast on his private car, and then went direct to the battery, where the bodies, in flag-draped caskets, were brought ashore from the cruiser Montana. At 7:45 the launches on the Montana and Wyoming began bringing the marines and bluejackets ashore. At the same time the ninth regiment of National Guards arrived with caissons which were to bear the bodies up Broadway through the city hall plaza and thence to the navy yard in Brooklyn, where the chief ceremonies were to be conducted. The caskets were soon placed on the caissons, and battery Park became the scene of great military activity as the marines and bluejackets and National Guardsmen marched and counter-marched in forming lines for the parade.

New York, May 11.—Honor to the seventeen American bluejackets and marines, who died for their country at Vera Cruz, was paid here today, with President Wilson in the role of chief mourner and every possible circumstance from a military point of view being observed. More than a million citizens joined in the testimonial to the dead. The crowd was banked solidly along every foot of the line of march. After a march along Broadway the great procession stopped momentarily at the city hall, where Mayor Mitchell delivered an address as he laid a giant wreath of orchids and bay leaves on the caisson of one of the three New York boys among the dead.

The President's presence in the parade was a surprise. It had been reported that he would appear only at the memorial services in the New York navy yard. He was in an automobile with Secretary Tamm and Dr. Grayson.

CHILD'S PECULIAR DEATH.

Catawba Lad Went to Sleep in Some Bushes and Tree Fell on Him.

Hickory, May 9.—A six-year-old son of Pink Barger, who lives in the Barger neighborhood near this city, was so badly injured this morning by a falling tree that he died this evening. The little fellow had gone with an older brother to cut some trees and while his brother was engaged in cutting a tree he went to sleep near by in some bushes, the tree falling on him and fracturing his skull.

Historic Poplar Tent.

To the Editor of The Observer: One of the most picturesque historical sites in Cabarrus county is Poplar Tent Church. The large old oak trees standing in the grove could tell many a story that would make up history and romance. Going out to visit the church in an automobile at this time of year the upturned soil in the blackjacks country may be seen, and many patches of red clover give color to the landscape. Some mountains in the distance and a glorious sunset complete the picture.

Maj. R. P. Young and his gallant son, Capt. John Young, lie asleep in the burial ground at Poplar Tent Church. A. G. Concord, May 8.

DAN TALBIRT KILLED.

Deputy Sheriff at Baden Shot By John Cox and A. E. Cole Yesterday.

A telephone message from Albemarle told of the murder of Dan Talbirt, who was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday at Baden by John Cox and A. E. Cole. Talbirt was formerly deputy sheriff at Kannapolis and was well known in this section. A dispatch from Albemarle gives the details of the homicide:

"Another homicide was added to the list at the Hardaway camp near Baden today when Deputy Sheriff Dan L. Talbirt was shot and almost instantly killed by John Cox and A. E. Cole. Joe McKinney, another officer, was beat over the head but not fatally injured. Cox and Cole are guards for the State convict camp. Cole was arrested immediately and brought to Albemarle and placed in jail. Cox escaped and is now being hunted by a big force. It is thought he will be located tonight.

"The tragedy happened about noon. Cox was in a negro camp and Cole was standing some distance away on the railroad. Talbirt, it is said, went into the camp and asked Cox what he was doing there and if he were selling whiskey to the negroes. Reports there say that Cox informed Talbirt that it was none of his business. McKinney and Cole came up about this time when Talbirt started to examine some baggage supposedly belonging to Cox he was knocked down. McKinney seized Cole and in the scuffle lost his gun. Cole and Cox both shot and when McKinney looked around Talbirt was wounded. In the endeavor of the two men to get away Cole escaped, but Cox made good his escape.

"After the shooting Talbirt walked about 100 yards to the office of Doctor Garrison and died in a few minutes. He was shot five times: twice in the side, once in the arm, once in the shoulder and once in the head. John Cox, alias 'Red' Cox, is said to be a fugitive from justice. It is reported that he is wanted in Gill, Tenn., for shooting a man. He had five pints of whiskey with him in the negro camp.

"The Hardaway Construction Company has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of Cox, and Deputy Sheriff Earnhardt added $50 to it.

"Never before has so prominent a man been killed on the Whitney work and it is the first time an officer of the law has been the victim."

A TANGO EGG.

A Freak Specimen Brought in By Mr. M. C. Dry, of No. 5.

Start the music, please! Anything, one-step, castle walk, turkey trot or hesitation. Put the "pep" in it for there is something new here. Not a new step, oh no! they are created with such frequency that they remain new no longer than the town clock ticks or, if this town's clock is going to be used, read it stops instead of ticks. But this is a new dancer, not a new step. It has been some time a-coming but it is here. It is not a person or an individual or a party of the first part of anything of the kind but—a tango egg.

It arrived at this office from Mr. M. C. Dry's farm in No. 5 township and has remained here since, creating curiosity and otherwise detracting from the work of the employees of this castle of labor and those who call here.

In appearance it resembles an ordinary looking egg that may be picked up in any ordinary hay loft. It has the same kind of shell but it weighs 6. Possibly this is where it gets its tango propensities. It stands stiffly, in a kinder castle walk position. A simple touch and it is on with the dance. A light touch produces a slow waltz step while a touch not so gentle brings forth the glides, dips and other rapidly executed steps.

P. S.—While this is being written Prof. C. E. Boger is standing by a desk watching the egg execute its steps. If any of our thousands of readers (circulation statement not sworn to in this) doubt the above report being authentic they are respectfully referred to him as he has apparently become greatly attached to the freak specimen.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED HERE

VETERANS PAY TRIBUTE TO THE HONORED DEAD.

Exercises Held at Central School.—Several Hundred Attend.—Addresses Made by Messrs. D. B. Coltrane, John Bundy and H. C. McAllister.—Beautiful Tributes Paid the Sons of the Southland Who Followed Lee and Jackson.—Monument to Confederate Dead of Cabarrus Decorated.

Several hundred people gathered at Central graded school yesterday afternoon to attend the memorial exercises held by the local chapter of Daughters of the Confederacy. The audience was composed of Confederate veterans, sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters of veterans and others who, while not of direct lineage from the heroes of gray, share equally with those that are in reverence and admiration of the sons of the southland and joined them in the hallowed anniversary on the day that will be forever sacred to southern hearts.

On the stage at the meeting were several followers of Lee and Jackson who were the speakers of the occasion and the officers of the Daughters of the Confederacy. The exercises were presided over by Prof. A. S. Webb, superintendent of public schools, and son of a Confederate chaplain. The exercises were opened by the Rev. Jacob Simpson, chaplain of Cabarrus Camp Confederate Veterans, after which there was a song, "No Shadows Yonder," by a quartette composed of Misses Patterson and Harris and Messrs. Ed. Sherrill and Kay Patterson accompanied by Miss Josephine Atkins. The quartette, accompanied by Miss Atkins, also rendered excellently three other selections.

The addresses were delivered by three Confederate Veterans, Messrs. D. B. Coltrane, John Bundy and H. C. McAllister. Turning back the clock of time 50 years over a period which began with the darkness of reconstruction only to be followed by the light of a new awakening and a blossoming forth of a new south, dazzling with hope and opportunity and in which change these men played their parts, they stood again, despite the half century that has intervened, gallant young soldiers of the Army or Northern Virginia and spoke with only equalled by their bravery at Spottsylvania, Chamberlain's Run and Gettysburg.

A patriotism that knew no fear and was willing to sacrifice all, was the compelling power that made the Confederate soldier a type of warrior that will ever stand out among the military pages of history was the tribute Mr. Coltrane paid to the men who formed the army of the Confederacy. Patriotism and love for and protection of the homes, he said, were the forces that drove them into battle. Honor, courage and bravery in and off the battle field have ever been the characteristic of a true Confederate soldier and made them not only admirable soldiers but high type of citizens, he said.

The protection of home, the preservation of liberty, the right of free government were among the causes pointed out by Squire McAllister that the Confederate veterans fought for and gave their lives for. These principles of government, he declared, were the principles of government absolutely essential for the welfare of any free government. Mr. McAllister grew reminiscent and told most interestingly of many incidents of the great struggle of the conflict between the States.

"There were no social classes in the Confederate army," declared Mr. John Bundy. "A man's standing in that army was determined by how he fought. All men were equal there and were judged only by the standard of loyalty and courage. The hardships the privations and sacrifices of the men who composed the army of Northern Virginia bound them into a closer bond of fraternity that has ever existed. Not only did the men of the Confederate Army become closely cemented by the bands of brotherhood but their bravery and heroic deeds upon the battlefield, coupled with their manly demeanor at all times, has caused the Confederacy veteran not only to be honored and respected in this country but throughout the civilized world."

Following Mr. Bundy's speech the exercises were concluded with prayer by Rev. Dr. J. M. Gray.

Following the exercises at the school a number of the daughters of the confederacy gathered at the court house and decorated the monument to the Confederate Dead of Cabarrus with flowers. This monument was erected 22 years ago yesterday.

Joseph G. Cannon, former Speaker of the national house of representatives, reached his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary this morning, having been born May 7, 1836.

NEW CAR SCHEDULE.

Cars Every Half Hour to Gibson Mill And Every 20 Minutes From South Union to the Depot.

The Public Service Company, which operates the street railway in this city, announces a change of schedule beginning Thursday, May 14. The cars will run as follows:

One car will run from the Hotel to Gibson Mill and back. The other car will run from the depot, down South Union street and back. Beginning on the hour, the car will leave the hotel for Gibson Mill every thirty (30) minutes. At the same time this car leaves the hotel, the other car will go down South Union street, making connections with car which has come in from Gibson Mill. In going from Gibson Mill to the depot, it will be necessary to change cars at the hotel. It will also be necessary to change cars at the hotel in going from the depot to Gibson Mill. Also going from Gibson Mill down South Union street.

In order to make this schedule, which will give the patrons of the line much better service, it will be necessary, at all times, to keep the rear door of the car closed, and have the patrons enter and leave the car at the front end, paying the motor-man, who will also act as conductor, as they enter the car. This of course will cause some confusion at first, until the people are familiar with the operation, but, in a short while, it will work as nicely as is done now.

As soon as possible the company is going to put in operation two new cars, known as one man pay as you enter the car. Such cars as these are being used by a great number of companies and have proved to be satisfactory in every way.

The new schedule will be printed in The Tribune for the convenience of patrons.

BLEASE URGES MURDER.

Makes Violent Attack on Proposed Medical Examination in Schools.

Greenville, S. C., May 8.—Gov. Cole L. Blease, denouncing in the campaign here the proposed medical inspection of school children, declared he would pardon any father who killed a physician attempting, against the father's will, to make a physical examination of his daughter.

Governor Blease asserted that the proposed law would furnish an opportunity to an unscrupulous physician to blight forever the life of an innocent girl who was the daughter of a political enemy by making a false report as to her purity.

Governor Blease asserted that if he had a daughter and a physician should attempt, against his will, to examine her he would kill him. He told his audience of 1,500 cotton mill workers that if a physician should attempt against their will to examine their daughters and they should kill the doctor he would immediately telegraph a pardon to the slayer.

DR. POST, OF POSTUM FAME COMMITS SUICIDE

With Bullet From Rifle Which He Had Concealed, He Shot Himself at Winter Home.

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 9.—With a bullet from a rifle which he had concealed, Charles W. Post, millionaire manufacturer of cereal foods, killed himself at his winter home here early today. Evading the nurse who had been attending him since he returned from the east a few weeks ago, he went to his apartment, placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger with a toe.

Mr. Post was convalescent from an illness which necessitated a major operation some time ago at Rochester, Minn.

Returning here recently he seemed to be exceedingly nervous, and Mrs. Post engaged trained nurses to attend him.

Mr. Post arose at his usual hour this morning, had breakfast and lounged about until 10 o'clock when he excused himself, telling the nurse on duty at the time that he wished to go to his apartment to lie down. What happened then is a matter of conjecture. A shot was heard; Mrs. Post and a nurse rushed to the apartment upstairs and found the millionaire stretched on the floor dead.

Both Mrs. Post and the nurse said they did not know how Mr. Post had procured the rifle. Its presence in the room was taken by them to indicate that he had planned his death sometime in advance.
