GOLD HILL CELEBRATES.

Granite Town Holds Carnival on the Patriotic Day.—Large Crowd and Splendid Attractions for the Day.

Gold Hill, July 6.—The Junior Order of American Mechanics celebrated the glorious fourth at Gold Hill. It was one of the largest gatherings ever held at Gold Hill, about 2,500 people. Seven different lodges were represented, namely Gold Hill Council, Richfield, Bear Creek, Jackson College, High Rock and Mt. Pleasant. The parade began at 10 o'clock, all Juniors present marched to the station, accompanied with the Plyler Cornet Band where they met the train and Rockwell band and a large crowd of Juniors from Rockwell; also the speakers for the occasion after marching back to the public school building where a nice platform was erected. In the grove we had some live and arousing speeches on the principles and origin of the order, which was most attentively listened to by all. The afternoon was taken up by amusements such as races, etc. The winner in the races were Coy Crawford, pie race; R. C. Brown, shoe race; Charlie Culp, banana race; John Morgan, slow mule race; Foot race, 1st winner, George Beaver; second, Ralph Fryck; third, George Arey, and Noble Howell, winner sack race. As a whole this was one of the biggest days for Gold Hill as well as Juniorism. Some of the oldest citizens say that they never before saw so many people in Gold Hill at one time on any occasion.

Everything went smoothly and as nice as could be, every one seemed to be enjoying the day to the fullest and we think that many new members will be added to the various lodges as people were well informed on the principles of the order.

Small Boys, Dazed, Return to Burning Building. Asheville, July 6.—The two small boys of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Joyner had a narrow escape from death yesterday when the home of their parents at West Asheville was completely destroyed by fire. NOTORIOUS BANDIT TO HANG.

Career of Man Who Terrorized Community to Come to an End.

Winnipeg, Man., July 7.—The career of John Krafchenko, one of the most notorious bandits who ever terrorized this section of Canada, will come to an end on the gallows here day after tomorrow, unless there is Department of Justice at Ottawa.

The crime for which Krafchenko is to pay the death penalty was the murder of H. M. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at Plum Coulee. The murder was committed while the desperado was in the act of robbing the bank.

Plum Coulee is a town of several hundred inhabitants, sixty-five miles southwest of Winnipeg. Shortly before noon on December 3, 1913, a man disguised with false whiskers and mustache, entered the bank, forced Arnold to hand over $5,000 and started to leave by the rear door. The manager grappled with him and the bandit fought him off and then shot him through the heart.

The robber ran to an automobile and forced the owners at the point of a pistol to drive him thirty-five miles to the town of Osborn. There he disappeared. A week later Krafchenko was arrested in a house in this city, where he had been posing as a college professor. An outfit of women's clothing and two revolvers were found in his room and a roll of bills from the Plum Coulee bank was discovered under the fence outside.

A month after his arrest and before his case had come up for trial, Krafchenko made a sensational escape from the Winnipeg jail. Armed with an automatic revolver which had been smuggled into him by friends the bandit covered the two guards placed in front of his cell. While holding the guards with their arms over their heads, he backed to a window and swung out on a rope which had also been smuggled into his cell.

A passer-by saw Krafchenko on the street and ran to the other side of the building to spread the alarm. When the officers rushed out, the bandit had disappeared. For a week the police searched in vain for the desperado. At the end of that time he was found concealed in the room of a friend almost within a stone's throw of the prison from which he had made his escape.

The official investigation of the escape led to the arrest and indictment of several persons on a charge of conspiracy to aid the bandit in gaining his freedom. Among those concerned were a member of Krafchenko's counsel and one of the jail guards. Two of those who were convicted on the charge recently met their deaths in the falling of a scaffold on which they were at work in the prison.

Early last April Krafchenko was taken to Morden, where he was tried, convicted and sentenced to death. A short time ago Justice T. G. Mathers, who presided over Krafchenko's trial and imposed the sentence of death, sent a recommendation to the Department of Justice at Ottawa that no leniency be shown in the bandit's case.
