ON A 13-MILE FRONT They Have Given Up Their Precarious Hold on Chemin-des-Dames Plateau And Retired North of Ailette. FOLLOWED CLOSE

BY FRENCH FORCES For the Second Time in Past Eight Months Allied Pressure Has Caused the Withdrawal of German Lines

(By The Associated Press)

Blowing up the bridges as they re-treated, the Germans on the Aisac front in France have given up their precarious hold on the Chemin-des-Dames plateau, and retired to the north bank of the Ailette river along a front of approximately thirteen miles, closely followed by the French, This retirement by the German crown prince has been in prospect since the recet successful drive by General Petalif southwest of Laon, which carried the French to the bank of the Oise-Aisne canal ,at the westernly end of the Chemin-des-Dames, which gave them artillery domination of a large section of the German lines to the east.

For the second time within eight months the allied pressure has caused the withdrawal of the Teutons on the western front. The Germans have retreated from the hflly front of the Chemin-des-Dames northeast of Sois sons and south of Laon, according to Berlin which, however, fails to give the definite limits of the retirement. The statement says that the crown prince's troops withdrew their lines "unnoticed and undisturbed by the enemy.

Probably the Germans have only retired across the Ailette river from Chavignon to Craonne a distance of about thirteen miles or they may have started on retreat paralleling that of last March on the Somme when they finally fell back before the Anglo-French pressure from Arras to Sois

The retirement might include Laon, reputed southern citadel of yon Hindenburg's line last March, but if the front of the Ailette is given up, a line from St. Quentin, through La Fere, Laon and Montalge to Neuf Chapel-sur-Aisne, along the railroad between La Fere and Neuf Chatel might offers a good halting place. A retirement only to the northern bank of the Allette between Chavignon and Craonne mightnot affect the line from Chavignon, north to St. Quentin, but further retreat would involve the present lines as far as La Fere at least. On the eastern end of Chemin-des-Dames, if re-tirement is not made scence quickly, there is a possibility of a French blow in the Champagne sector, which might straighten out the entire line from Craonne to Verdun.

Gen. Cadorna has halted on the west ern bank of the Tagliamento, momen tarily, at least, to face the oncoming Austro-German forces. The castern bank of the river, Berlin reports, has been cleared of Italians from the Fella valley, where the Tagliamento turns westward near Tolmezzo, to the Ad-

Was 13 to 0. The football team of the Compord High School yesterday afternoon on the local gridiron administered a second defeat to the team from Salisbury High School, the score being 13 to 0. One week ago these two teams tried conclusions on the Salisbury fair grounds, the result of that game being avictory to Concord by a 6 to 0 score. The game yesterday was decidedly the fastest and snapplest game the local team has yet put up, and their dash was in some degree responsible for the fact that they had the visitors on the defensive all the way through. Almost from the very beginning, the local boys were on the offensive, and when the visitors secured the ball it was only a short time until the locals held them for down and the ball went or. The Salisbury boys put up a good exhibition, and were no poor adversa-ries for Concord. Some of their play-ing was at times spectacular, with their double passes and fake plays, but they failed to get these through. Their forward passes were promptly broken up by the local team, who one several occasions took the ball away from Sal-isbury. Sappenfield was especially isbury. Sappenfield was especially good at this Teat, and twice in the game he did etaoinshrdluetaolgstaoin game did he perform it. Bost also re-ceived one of them, and had a clear field for another touchdown, but he stumbled and fell, thereby losing the opportunity. Bell again showed himself a consist at ground gainer through the line, his plunges almost without exception netting good gains. Sappenfield showed up well on his end runs, and made good progress with the ball. Ritchie played a consistent game as left half back. Several forward passes were executed by Concord, some of them be ing for nice gains. The first touchdown was made in the first quarter, Hill, the quarterback, carrying it over on a fake play. Hiss also made the other touchdown scored. The ball fell short on the first attempt at kicking goal, but the second effort sent it fairly between the uprights. When the time was up on the lst quarter, the ball was in Concord's possession, and only about 15 yards was needed by them for another touchdown The line-up of the two teams fol-

The whole thing-the fear that Rus sia had laid down on ner partners-arose out of a newspaper interview in Petrograd yesterday between Premier Kerensky and an Associated Press cor respondent. The premier said Russia was not as strong now as as the be-ginning of the war, she had been fighting for the three years and a half and now the allies would naturally have to bear the bigger part of the burden—a fact not very new or unappreciated since the czar was over-thrown, but restated emphatically by Premier Kerensky at this time to get help from England and America.

The Washington Post received only the introductory paragraph of the in-terview in time for publication in the early hours of the morning. It was a simple statement that Russia was worn out and would expect her allies to do the fighting from now on and added a query about the absence of the British fleet from the Baltic recently. Undaunted by their previous defeat in New York the suffragists have waged a battle which for intensity has seldom been equaled in the political history of New York. Party lines throughout the State have been swept aside. The campaign has been waged virtually by the proponents of suffrage, but in the face of quiet and organized opposition on the part of the antisuffragists and either apathy or opposition on the part of many leaders of the two older political parties. Other political leaders, however, have joined the women's forces and have worked in the open for the success of the amendment.

Both sides claim victory with the close of the campaign. The New York State Suffrage Association and its allied organizations have conducted a tireless campaign, sending "flying squadrons" into every city, town and village from one end of the State to the other. The suffrage leaders claim today that the decision, though close, will be for the amendment. The antisuffrage associations and a number of political leaders who have done little in the way of speech-making, but have adopted less consplcuous methods of campaigning, claim the amendment will be decisively defeated.
