AMERICAN INTERVENTION AT TRAU PREVENTED BLOODSHED

And Probably Also a State of Actual War Between Italy and Jugo-Slavia.

(By The Associated Press.)
Washington, Oct. 2.—Intervention by the American naval forces at Trau. Aulmatia, prevented bloodshed, which "would perhaps have resulted in a state of actual war between Italy and Jugo-Slavia," according to a report from Admiral Knapp, commanding the waters, transmitted to the Senate today by Secretary Daniels.
