

COMING BACK HERE SOVIET LEADERS SAY

Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman Say They Will Return as Soon as Possible.

SAY WE NEED A NEW GOVERNMENT

And They Hope We Will Get it in the Presidential Election Which is to Be Held Next November.

(By The Associated Press.) Hango, Finland, Jan. 17.—The United States army transport Buford having on board 249 radicals deported from America arrived here at 5 p. m. today. Finnish plots could not dock the vessel and a German pilot was summoned.

Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman who have been considered the leaders of the deportees, have declared they will not remain in Russia, but will "return to America to stay."

The reels on board the Buford will be taken to Russia frontier by the United States labor bureau and immigration officials.

After they had been lauded Berkman and Miss Goldman talked with newspaper men. Asked to give her opinion of her deportation the latter declared:

"It was melodrama to keep it secret." "It was unfair and stupid" interjected Berkman.

"You can't kill an idea like that. The czar tried and failed. He is dead and forgotten."

"Do you want to overthrow the American government?" Miss Goldman was asked.

"You need a new government" she answered "and I hope the election will provide it."

It is her intention to return to America as soon as possible.

Finland authorities have informed Russian soviet government of the plan to send Berkman and Miss Goldman and their comrades across the border, but no reply as yet has been received from the Bolsheviks.

CONCORD AGAIN DEFEATS THE MOORESVILLE TEAM

Basket Ball Game Resulted in a 25 to 12 Victory for the Local Team.

The second match of basket ball between the Concord Y. M. C. A. and Mooresville high school teams was played last night at Mooresville, and resulted in a second victory for the Concord five. In the first game, which was played on the local Association floor January 9, the Concord team won easily by the score of 56-16, but the contest last night was much more even and the score not so high, the high school seeming determined to hold their opponents down to an even match. The Mooresville guards did splendid work and allowed comparatively few field goals to be caught by Concord.

At the starting of the match Mooresville seemed to have the advantage, being at home and used to the court and having the backing of the home rooters on their side. However, before the end of the first half all of the Concord team with the exception of one man, had found the basket, and the first half ended with the score 9-6 in favor of the visitors.

At the beginning of the second half Concord began their usual winning spurt and when the playing period ended the final score stood 25-12 in favor of Concord.

Only two men on the Mooresville team found the basket for a goal, while every man on the Concord team made one or more field shots. One forward and the center for Mooresville scored six points, while the guards were so busy with holding down the Concord forwards that they never had a chance to try for a goal.

The star of the game was Courad Hill, playing guard for Concord. This speedy guard not only held his man down to no goals, but was able to make two spectacular shots himself. Fred Goodman also did excellent work as guard and scored two field goals.

Following is the line-up and score: Concord (17) 2 Mooreville (12) 12. Edwin Long (17) 8 Rogers 0 Hug Goodman (17) 7 Allmon 0 Fred Goodman (17) 4 McNeely 0 Total: Concord 25; Mooreville 12.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR PROMISES TO CARRY OUT TREATY TERMS

Bauer, However, Complains of Provision and Hopes Entente Will Permit Mitigation.

London, Jan. 16.—The German Chancellor, Gustav Bauer, has made a statement to the press regarding Germany's intentions in carrying out the terms of the peace treaty. A wireless message from Berlin quotes him as follows:

"We are resolved to carry out the Versailles treaty, however difficult, for we have no desire to pursue a policy of revenge. But we also expect that the Entente will be prepared to permit mitigations when it has been proved that fulfillment of the treaty in its present form is impossible, for if the treaty is to be carried out in the same spirit as the armistice, it will not mean the commencement of a state peace, but the continuation of war by political means."

"I trust that the Entente will soon realize that it lies in its own interests to alleviate the peace conditions, first in practice, then in form."

Complaining of the regulations of the International Rhine and Commission, a remissness of "Christ Russia," the "new order" continued:

"I hope the Entente will soon appreciate that in this way it is impossible to create stable conditions, not only on general judicial principles, but also for reasons of real policy."

JOHNSON McCALL WILL AGAIN ENTER THE RACE

Mecklenburg Man Plans Vigorous Campaign Against Clyde Hoey.

Charlotte, Jan. 16.—Johnson D. McCall, who was defeated in the race for the Democratic congressional nomination in November, will be in the fight against Congressman Clyde R. Hoey again this spring. Mr. McCall already has his coat off, it is understood, and is planning for waging a strenuous campaign against the incumbent.

Other Mecklenburg men may also decide to go after Mr. Hoey's scalp. In the event several come out, as was the case in the special election, an elimination contest likely will be agreed upon again. Mr. McCall will enter into this contest as he has no idea of entering the race unless the support of the voters of this county is assured. Mayor Frank R. McIninch and John A. McRae, who lost out in the elimination contest last time, are looked upon as prospective candidates for Mr. Hoey's seat.

PROHIBITION LAW OF THE COUNTRY TODAY

To Manufacture, Sell or Give Away Liquor Now Violation of Eighteenth Amendment.

PERFECTING DETAILS FOR ENFORCEMENT

Department of Justice and Internal Revenue Bureau Will Handle the Violators of the Law.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Jan. 17.—Prohibition was the law of the nation today. The constitutional amendment, making it illegal to manufacture, sell or give away liquors for beverages containing more than one half of one per cent. went into effect at midnight last night and today violators faced prosecutions under one of the most drastic laws ever promulgated to fit a crime other than felony.

While those responsible for prohibition met in justification at its coming and congratulated one another on a task well done, those charged with enforcement of the law were at work on the business side of the proposition—that of perfecting details for enforcement. Both the department of justice and the bureau of internal revenue, the two government agencies on which devolves the responsibility of seeing that the law is obeyed, received their final instructions when Secretary Glass approved the regulations under which they are to work.

Inspectors Named. Washington, Jan. 17.—Machinery for enforcement of constitutional prohibition which became effective today, virtually was completed by an announcement today by Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper of supervising the federal prohibition agents.

Supervisors and the States over which they will have jurisdiction in judicial matters.

State supervisors named: S. B. Braine, supervising agent, Richmond—Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Law Into Effect. New York, Jan. 17.—Four minutes after the 18th amendment became effective in New York this morning—12:05 o'clock to be exact—a Brooklyn vice officer was arrested by internal revenue agents for selling glass of brandy. Bartenders in the same establishment were arrested one minute later.

The news traveled in underground channels faster than prairie fire, and in a short time the very-making over the demise of John Barleycorn came to a more or less abrupt ending in the Greater City's cafes, restaurants and hotels.

The final celebration of the passing of the wet era did not come up to predictions here. In some of the better known establishments the revelry resembled the tradition of New Year celebration, but for the most part interested ones declare that the "last fling" was a rather sad affair.

A snowstorm accompanied by a biting winds and a near zero temperature, may have had something to do with it.

THE COTTON MARKET

Relations With Russia Again Created Favorable Impression in Market.

(By The Associated Press.) New York, Jan. 17.—Reports that the supreme council at Paris had decided to permit trading in certain commodities with Russia created a more favorable impression as to European conditions in the cotton market this morning. This view was encouraged by a stronger opening of the stock market, and after starting 15 points higher to 11 points lower, cotton sold 20 to 40 points above last night's closing figures, with March contracts touching 38.45 and July 33.05.

Cotton closed steady: January 38.33; March 36.35; May 34.70; July 33.15; October 30.42.

Cotton futures opened steady: January 38.15; March 36.05; May 34.25; July 32.70; October 30.20.

MASSACHUSETTS JAILS ARE NOT NEEDED NOW

AUSTRIANS ATTEMPT TO TRADE WITH THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE NOW

They Pull a Second "Scapa Flow" Stunt, but it Was Carried Out on a Smaller Scale.

AUSTRIAN FLEET NOW DISABLED

They Removed or Destroyed Principal Parts of All the Ships to Be Given to the Allies.

(By The Associated Press.) Geneva, Jan. 17.—Austrian war vessels under which terms of peace treaty must be handed over to the allies have undergone a second "Scapa Flow" but on a smaller scale, according to a telegram received here from Turin via Lugano.

The dispatch states that the allied naval commission which arrived recently at Cattaro, confirm first reports that the Austrian fleet had been seriously disabled.

The Austrians were said to have destroyed or removed the principal parts of the machinery of the ships, rendering them incapable of navigation, only the hulls remaining in good condition. Repairs, it is said, will require several months before the vessels can be made ready for the sea.

The fleet includes one battleship, three large cruisers, four torpedo cruisers, twelve torpedo boats, and some small craft.

The Austrians are declared to have acknowledged the damage, but to have blamed the Czech-Slovaks and the Jugo-Slavs. The ships eventually will be towed to Toulon and Marseilles for repairs.

MR. HOOVER MIGHT BECOME NOMINEE OF BOTH PARTIES

If the Republicans Should Nominate Him for President, It Is Possible That the Democrats Would Choose Him.

Washington, Jan. 16.—If the Republicans should nominate Herbert Hoover, it is by no means outside of the range of possibility that the Democrats would endorse him and bring about a coalition government for the first time in American history. There would be no election contest and being the successful nominee of both parties Mr. Hoover would naturally be obliged to ignore party lines and draw upon individuals from both parties in selecting a cabinet and managing the government.

This very interesting suggestion came from a man in the Democratic party who has as much power today, as anybody else in influencing the next Democratic national convention at San Francisco and was a direct consequence of the speech made in New York by Julius Barnes, intimate friend of the former food administrator, saying that Mr. Hoover was a progressive Republican and that it was his own wish that the Republicans and not the Democrats do the nominating.

Many other Democrats were shocked by the utterance. They indignantly demanded to know if Mr. Hoover collaborated with Mr. Barnes in preparing that speech and were somewhat reassured to find out that he did not and that his first knowledge came when the newspaper men told him of the delivery of the address in New York.

The letter criticized the department for attempting to manage details of action by the American naval forces over seas, and alleged the Department demanded it be permitted to pass fully on all plans, even those regarding action against the enemy.

ADMIRAL DESCHANEL IS FRENCH PRESIDENT

Was Elected to Succeed President Poincare by the National Assembly of France in Session Today.

PRESIDENT IS BRILLIANT MAN

Has Served as President of the Chamber of Deputies Since 1912—Is Noted Author, Also.

(By The Associated Press.) Versailles, Jan. 17.—Paul Deschanel was elected president of France by the National Assembly here today. M. Deschanel received 734 votes.

Paul Eugene Louis Deschanel, statesman and author is known as one of the most brilliant speakers in France. He was born in Brussels in 1857 during the exile in Belgium of his father Emile Deschanel, senator and professor of the college of Paris.

Since May 1912, Deschanel has served continuously as president of chamber of deputies. He is a member of the French Academy and has written several books social and political subjects.

This is the second time Deschanel has been a candidate for the presidency of France. In 1912 he entered the lists against Raymond Poincare but polled only 18 votes.

FRANCE TO ELECT A NEW PRESIDENT

Senators and Deputies Will Assemble at Versailles Today.

Paris, January 17.—This morning the senators and deputies of France will journey to Versailles, where, sitting as the National Assembly, they will elect a President of the Republic to succeed Raymond Poincare, whose seven-year term will end a month hence. A full congress would be always held in 1920, but these absentees through illness. The only task of the National Assembly will be to elect a President, taking ballots until some one has received an absolute majority.

The assembly can choose any one as President, a senator, a member of the Chamber of Deputies or any one who is neither. There is no age limit. A deputy must be 25 years of age and must have fulfilled his military service; a senator must be 40 and must enjoy his civil and political rights, as well as have fulfilled his military services. But for the presidency of the assembly of 1875 refused to accept the proposed age limit of 40 or to add any other limitation being convinced that no one not enjoying his civil and political rights would ever have a chance of election. The only claimants expressly barred are members of royal families that have reigned in France.

Feminists have maintained that the congress could elect a woman, although the text of the constitution speaks of "Le President" only in the masculine, and the assembly is absolutely sovereign, and nothing prohibits a female candidate proclaiming herself ready to receive votes.

If a new President is succeeding one who has died in office he is invested at once after the vote at Versailles in the Cabinet allotted to the President of the National Assembly, who performs the ceremony of investiture in the presence of the ministry.

The newly elected President does not have to take the oath of fidelity to the Constitution, which was exacted during the Second Republic. He only assures the members of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies of his intention to observe the Constitution by messages sent on taking office.

The arrival of the members of the National Assembly and visitors always represents a brilliant scene. The floor of the congress hall itself is arranged for 900 chairs covered in dark leather. No special seats are assigned to the members of the two chambers, who take their places in accordance with their political groupings.

The election will be preceded by many live speeches and the members of the smaller rooms will be occupied by partisans of the various candidates, discussing the tactics to be pursued.

Outside the palace the scene will be one of less animation. The park will be filled with hundreds of motor cars, while many liveried domestics and thousands of curious visitors will wander about. There will be interspersed by mounted troopers, there to keep order.

The new President will be the fourth in the history of the Third Republic. M. Poincare, the retiring executive, is the fourth to complete his normal term of seven years. Of the others, four resigned before the completion of their terms and two died in office. A President elected to succeed one who has not completed his seven years of office, owing to death or resignation, is elected for full seven years, not merely to complete the period his predecessor left unfinished.

Cotton is quoted on the local market at 60 cents per pound; cotton seed at $1.25 per bushel.
