WINSTON-SALEM LEADS.

Charlotte this year surrenders her place as the first city in North Carolina, Winston-Salem, with a population of 48,306, taking first place. The Twin City, by an increase of 25, 95, made a total gain of 113.2 per cent. for the past ten years, and in doing so gets the honor of being the biggest city in North Carolina.

The record made by Winston-Salem almost equals that of Gastonia. The latter made an increase of approximately 124 per cent. in the past ten years, and reached the 12,000 class by so doing. Few cities in the South have made such gains, and the figures of these two cities show that manufacturing, which necessarily brings the people to a city, is on the increase to a great extent in North Carolina. Winston-Salem has a variety of enterprises, the greatest being the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, and what the cotton mills have done for Gastonia the tobacco factories have done for the Twin-City.

CHIEF ORR'S STATEMENT

Chief Orr, of the Charlotte police, has just issued a statement in connection with the pardoning of three blind tigers by Governor Bickett and in this statement the Charlotte Chief points out the disadvantages the police work under when such leniency is shown by the Chief Executive, or any other official who have the power to pass sentence on prisoners. The Chief seems to us to be right. What is the use of the police working hard for weeks convicting a blind tiger only to have him pardoned, and in many cases pardoned without serving a day? How can we expect the laws to be enforced with nothing behind them. We haven't read the Governor's reasons for pardoning these particular prisoners, but we know some of his reason for pardoning other prisoners, and we believe he is too lenient.

The major leagues have opened for their 1920 baseball season, and everyone predicts the greatest year in the history of the game. Baseball deserves the patronage of the public. It is a business organized solely for the purpose of entertainment; a business dependent upon public sentiment for its living; and a business that does more to bring happiness to Americans than any other known. It is an American game, played in an American fashion, and it should prosper always.

Congress, if it passes the soldier relief bill which will give one dollar for each day's service to the ex-service men and women, will put on the statute books legislation that will be accepted favorably generally. No man or woman volunteered for service with hopes of pecuniary reward, but since it is all over, and successfully so, there will be few who will hesitate to take their share.

The announcement that Congress is to give all ex-service men and women a dollar a day for each day's service will bring a howl from the "blackens" and "conscientious objectors."

Perhaps Mr. Wilson will be better now that he is allowed to see more people. It is very easy to fire one's own side, even if you happen to be President.

We believe that George Creel will be able to take care of himself in his dealings with the troublesome Republican meddling committee.

MAY NOT BECOME TO FLUCTUATION RULES

Says Letters From Federal Bureau of Markets to New York Cotton Exchange.

New York, April 13.—Correspondence between the Federal Bureau of Markets and officials of the New York Cotton Exchange which has just been made public here, indicates that the suspension of the rule limiting daily fluctuations in futures to 200 points, may not be resorted to again in the case of maturing contracts. This fluctuation rule was suspended by the exchange in the case of March contracts from March 22nd to March 25th inclusive, owing to apprehensions that it might give rise to claims of an unintentional failure to make deliveries of actual cotton or properly complete the terms of the contract. It seems that such apprehensions had developed out of a misunderstanding of the exact character of the New York contract and trading rules providing for a penalty of 25 points above the spot price in the case of an unintentional default. The existence of the impression in the South and elsewhere, that shorts of maturing contracts might avoid penalties without incurring severe penalties, was brought to the attention of the exchange authorities by the Bureau of Markets in a letter requesting exact information.

Replying to the inquiry, Leopold S. Bache, Vice-president of the exchange, emphatically denied any possibility that a member of the exchange short of the maturing month, who waited until the last day and then, failing to find contracts for sale at the maximum price, would be given the benefit of this provision, and added that in his opinion such action would subject the member to a severe penalty as the proceeding under no conception of the rules could be considered as an unpremeditated and unintentional default, unless there were some other qualifying conditions.

This official statement from the Vice-President of the Exchange, who also informed the Bureau of Markets that in order to eliminate the possibility of anybody claiming an unintentional default by reason of the 2-cent trading limit, the limit would be removed on March contracts for the period March 22 to March 25) was acknowledged by George Livingston, chief of the Bureau of Markets, as definite and as clarifying certain misunderstandings which had developed among some members of the cotton trade in regard to the nature of the contracts dealt in on the Exchange. "With a clear understanding by all parties concerned of the interpretation of the rule regarding defaults which you enunciated in your letter," writes Mr. Livingston, "it ought not to be necessary to remove for any period whatever the rule of prohibiting fluctuations beyond the 2-cent limit."

The Southgate Memorial.

Charlotte Observer. The combination of Durham and Trinity College is one which has always proven potent of results and this fact has renewed demonstration in the quick coming together on the proposition for a memorial to the late James H. Southgate, who is referred to by The North Carolina Christian Advocate as "a man of imposing physique, a man of masterful mind, a man of irreproachable integrity, a dreamer of dreams who knew how to make them come true, and withal a seer in politics and religion." The movement is to take shape in a building for women at Trinity College, for which institution Mr. Southgate wrought successfully through many years as president of its board of trustees. The building of Trinity into a great educational institution might be said to have been the life work of Mr. Southgate and the college is itself a Southgate monument. The woman's building is to cost $200,000 and the idea was originated by a friend of Trinity and of Mr. Southgate, who offered to donate $100,000 on condition that the friends of the institution would place a like amount on top of it. It might have been anticipated that it would be necessary to go outside Durham for this amount, but no such thought had been entertained by people there. In a canvass of three days more than $110,000 was secured in Durham, which more than assures construction of the woman's building and the founding of a Southgate monument of the kind the man whose memory is thus honored would have most desired.

Not "Socialistic Despotism."

Concord Observer. Mr. Cameron Morrison says that Mr. R. Newton Page in his speech here was advocating "socialistic despotism." We heard Mr. Page and must say that we got no such impression from his speech. The fact is that until the close of his speech no one could have told what party he belonged to as his ideas were original and we could find no fault with them. He advocates good roads that reach the uttermost sections of the country so as to keep the people on the farms. He advocates a profit-sharing plan as a solution of our industrial troubles. He advocates a better and more economical administration of the laws. He advocates more pay for the school teachers. We can see no germs of "despotism" in these things, as Mr. Morrison charges. We hope Jno. J. Parkers will be governor and if he is and he puts into effect the things advocated by Mr. Page, he will do the state a good service and he won't be a "socialistic despot" either in so doing.

Scramble For Shoes.

Sale of 70,000 pairs of American shoes was stopped in Stockholm, Sweden, the other day, because they had been found to contain horn fibers in the heel and toe. Use of substitution for leather in shoes is forbidden by the Swedish law. Public indignation has been expressed over the stopping of the sale, owing to the alleged exorbitant prices demanded by domestic manufacturer. The selling firm has appealed to the government to permit the shoes to be sold.

The streets of Greater New York if extended in one continuous line, would reach almost across the American continent.

MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM AT TRINITY COLLEGE

Campaign For Funds to Be Conducted.—Alumni Council Holds Meeting.

Trinity College, April 13.—At a meeting of the Alumni Council of Trinity college, there was launched a definite campaign to complete the securing of funds to erect the proposed memorial gymnasium, which is to be built within the near future in memory of the men who gave their lives in the great war. Plans have been drawn for this magnificent structure, and quite a large sum of money has already been pledged, but the council decided that a strenuous effort should be made to complete the campaign at once. It was agreed that the first two weeks of the month of May should be the date for the securing of the remainder of the subscriptions necessary. Scores of alumni will be pressed into service at that time and an attempt made to close up the work within the first two weeks of the month.

B. W. Barnard, assistant professor of economics, was selected as alumni secretary, and it will be under his immediate supervision that the campaign will be conducted. He will begin immediately to organize the alumni and lay definite plans for the work.

American Association Opening.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 13.—The curtain will rise tomorrow on the American association pennant race of 1920, the eighteenth championship season since the founding of the organization. Every one connected with the association, from president to last boy, is looking forward to the best season in the history of the league. Reports from all the cities comprising the circuit are to the effect that an unusual amount of interest is manifested in the opening games.

Three of the teams will make the race under new pilots. William Clymer, who tried his hand in the Pacific Coast league last season has returned to the management of the Columbus team. Joe Egan will pilot the Milwaukee Brewers in place of Clarence Rowland, while the Kansas City Blues have a new manager in the person of Alex McCarty, who succeeded the veteran John Gausel.

The Columbus team will open at season at Louisville, Toledo will play its initial game at Indianapolis, Minneapolis will line up against the Blues at Kansas City, and the Milwaukee Brewers will face the St. Paul champion in their midst.

The association will play a season of 148 games, ending October 3.

A wonderful example of microscopic writing is the work of a Canadian, who succeeded in transcribing Francois Coppee's novel "Henriette," containing over 19,000 words, on the back of an ordinary cabinet photograph.
