

DOUGHTON OPENS HIS CABARRUS CAMPAIGN. Congressman From Eighth N. C. District Spoke to Large Crowd in the Court House Thursday Night.

MANY WOMEN IN LARGE AUDIENCE. Reviews Record of the Democrats and Scores Infidelity of Republicans in Harding Administration.

Scoring Republican infidelity, especially as it relates to ex-service men and praising the good deeds of the Democratic party in listening to the voice of humanity instead of the voice of "big business," Hon. R. L. Doughton opened his Cabarrus County campaign for reelection to Congress at the court house Thursday night. He was introduced by Major W. A. Foll as "the idol of Cabarrus."

"Farmer Bob" was heard by a large crowd, and a large number of women were in the audience. He will continue his campaign in this county by speaking at Mr. Pleasant tonight and at Kannapolis tomorrow night. The speaker expressed his delight at the interest the women are taking in politics, as evidenced by the large number present, and declared that he believed women would help politics, for they "are the most elevating, the most uplifting and most sanctifying influence in the world."

A review of the acts of the two major parties, Mr. Doughton stated at the beginning of his speech, would form the basis of his talk. He would make the contrast, he declared, so that people who heard him would be able to get a better idea as to which party deserved their support. "By their fruits ye shall know them," is a Bible truth that none can dispute, he said, and in relation to the two parties this truth is especially striking. The great difference between the two parties, he said, can be explained as follows: The Democrats come to you with performances; the Republicans come with platitudes, excuses and promises.

The record of the Democratic party, while in power from 1913 to 1921, is a record of which every member of the party can be proud. The Congressmen stated. "More legislation was wrought during the period for the benefit of the masses than was ever wrought during a similar time by any party." He then went on to explain in detail some of the accomplishments of the Democrats as follows: The Underwood-Simmons Tariff Bill. This bill, he said, raised more revenue with less burden on the public than any other bill in the history of the country. Federal Reserve Law. This law, he explained, will remain for years as the "wisest piece of financial legislation ever enacted by any country."

THE RATE HEARING. Motion Overruled to Expose Evidence Before the I. L. C. Asheville, Oct. 13.—Differences of opinion as to the proposed freight rate revision from the Central Freight Association territory into the southeast as it affects this state, between the North Carolina Corporation and the North Carolina Traffic Association, culminated here today in J. S. Griffin, attorney for the Traffic Association, presenting before the Interstate Commerce hearing by W. G. Womble, rate clerk for the Corporation Commission, an exhibit which was overruled by the motion.

The traffic organization has taken the position throughout that North Carolina is entitled with its present rate structure, and ought to be relieved from any further tinkering with traffic changes. The Corporation Commission assuming that the omission of this state from consideration on the present is an utter impossibility, has presented documents tending to show the present rates should be reduced, rather than permitted to remain or be subjected to revision in line with the carrier's proposals. Mr. Griffin questioned the authority of Mr. Womble to speak for this state, declaring he had not qualified as an expert of records. "We do not know who he represents and we have no way of discovering it," Mr. Griffin remarked. Certainly, the lawyer said, Mr. Womble does not represent the views of the 520 members of the North Carolina Traffic Association. On behalf of the attorney noted an exception of a ruling by the commissioner. Corporation Commissioner A. J. Maxwell, who examined Mr. Womble during the prolonged introduction of his testimony, said he had no extended argument to offer in response to Mr. Griffin. He apparently felt there was no chance of the motion standing, taking the position that nothing from him was necessary more than the mere statement that he did not assent to that portion of his motion relating to the Womble testimony.

TOPSY LOADED AT LAST. Big Circus Elephant is Now Safe Aboard an 80-Ton Box Car. Wilmington, Oct. 13.—After jumping her contract with a circus here Monday night and going on a rampage in Wilmington and environs for three days, Topsy, the 4-ton elephant, is now aboard an 80-ton box car en route to Charleston, S. C., where she will replace in one of the rings. Topsy was in a mighty nervous state yesterday after her tack about Wilmington and nearby swamps, and absolutely refused to go into the berth which had been so comfortably arranged for her on a box car. Her trainers petted and pleaded with her, but she declined. As Topsy had escaped twice while being loaded since her first getaway on Monday night, her trainers did not think it advisable to take any chances, and a hoisting engine was brought into play. She wiggled and fussed a bit but she was hoisted into the car. Topsy's sleeper was attached to a freight train at 8 a. m. today and started on its journey to Charleston, S. C. Topsy's visit to Wilmington will not be soon forgotten here. She damaged property to the extent of several thousand dollars. It is claimed, and terrorized by walking around elephants. Suits have been instituted against the circus to recover alleged damages.

J. J. BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO FORMALLY PROTEST AGAINST RULING PROHIBITING LIQUORS ON SHIPS UNLESS INJUNCTION IS GRANTED. London, Oct. 13. (By the Associated Press.)—Unless an injunction is granted by the United States court, the British government probably will protest formally through the foreign office against the ruling prohibiting liquors on foreign ships in American waters. It was stated in official quarters today. Officials here, however, expressed the opinion that an injunction will be granted in the American courts. It is understood the government takes the attitude of remaining in the background and allowing the private law suit to take the lead, but it will intervene in the event of failure of these efforts.

Two more clubs were organized at the Y Thursday and both of these started off with a bang. Thursday afternoon Sarah Barnhardt gathered around her a group of the junior girls and effected an organization choosing officers as follows: Virginia Reed, president; Askias Ivey, vice-president; Mary Orchard Boyer, secretary; and Edna Yorke, treasurer. These girls will meet again at 11 a. m. Saturday at the Y. All girls in the grades are welcome to join this group.

The other group that got started off in fine shape was the Young Men's Brotherhood with M. B. Fuller as president. Miles Wolf is president of this organization and R. L. Dick as recording secretary. The club met again last night and made further plans for its program. It was pointed out by one of the number that there are organizations for the business men but no such an opportunity is offered to the younger fellows employed in the places of business. The following men were present last night: Miles Wolf, Marvin Long, Ed Dellinger, Bailey Bond, Ed Ritchie, Fred Kestler, Crowell Ritchie, M. B. Fuller, Joe McAniskill and Martin Verburg. An effort will be made at once to enlarge the roll and there seems no reason from the enthusiasm present Thursday night but the club will succeed. Committee to draft a constitution, to work out further details for a program and to plan for a dinner in the near future were appointed and these will report next week. Invitations are waiting for any young men, employed between the ages of 18 and 25.

KOHLLOSS' REPORT IS MADE PUBLIC TODAY. North Carolina Does Not Go in for "Home Brew" to Any Great Extent, He Says in Report to Haynes.

AND VERY LITTLE BONDED LIQUOR. The Main Worry of the Enforcement Officials is the "Moonshine," Which in Many Cases is Poisonous.

Washington, Oct. 13.—North Carolina does not go in for "home brew" to any extent, and very little bonded liquor reaches the state, the main worry of Federal prohibition officers being "moonshine" backed up by some hair tonics, denatured alcohol, Jamaica ginger preparations, according to a report of R. A. Kohloss, Federal Prohibition Director, of that state to Commissioner Haynes, made public today.

The mountainous and swampy regions of North Carolina make the illicit distillery prosper, continues the report, which adds that much of such liquor is so insidious as to be used for human consumption, and in many cases poisonous, especially where copper stills are corroded, and insects and mice are permitted to swarm in sediment left in barrels which are used again without being cleaned. Activity of law enforcement officers and heavy penalties imposed in federal and state courts has lessened the prohibition violation, says the report, which adds that so far no Federal prohibition officers have been killed in fights with moonshiners.

The various sections of the state have through particular brands of moonshine on the market," said the report, "but every one of them is dangerous, because of the very insidious conditions surrounding its manufacture. In practically every instance a sediment is left in the fermenters in which worms, bugs, ranches and mice accumulate. I have seen such fermenters and barrels which are allowed to collect swarms of such vermin for days, and then are used over again without being washed or even emptied. To produce a pound of kiel, horse, hog, crane and sheep manure is used, a pile of manure being invariably found wherever there is a still. Besides the lack of sanitation, a most dangerous poison is imported in moonshine by the grain corrosion on copper stills which have not been properly cleaned, which poison is not affected by distillation, but is transmitted to the whiskey. In some parts of the state, milk cans, gasoline barrels, garbage cans and other filthy containers are substituted for stills."
