THE BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION TO MEET

Will Assemble at Winston-Salem December 12-14.—Many Important Subjects to Be Discussed.

BIG SPEAKERS TO BE ON THE PROGRAM

Evolution, Fraternities at Wake Forest and Removal of Meredith College Subjects to Be Brought Up.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29 (By the Associated Press).—Darwin's theory of evolution, fraternities at Wake Forest and the removal of Meredith College from its present location in Raleigh are to be among the most important subjects discussed at the annual North Carolina Baptist convention at Winston-Salem December 12-14, it was announced by church officials today.

"These matters have been discussed freely in the district associations this fall," said Dr. Charles E. Madry, secretary of the state mission board. "They have proven to be live topics and are sure to provoke warm discussions and should be introduced at the convention. However, it is not anticipated that the discussions, no matter how animated they may become, will be of such a nature as to hinder materially the progress of these two fine institutions of learning."

"It is too soon yet to forecast the results of the reinforcement campaign, which will not close until next Sunday night. But it is quite evident that the Baptists of North Carolina and throughout the south are rallying to the objects of the drive in a great way."

"Many of our members have awakened to the fact that for the great upward movement which was started three years ago, known as the $75,000,000 campaign, to fall now would mean disaster to their work in the future. It is confidently expected that more than $1,000,000 will be reported as having been raised for the objects of the campaign by North Carolina Baptists during the past year," he said.

Dr. Madry this year has projected the "greatest state mission program in the history of the denomination" according to church officials, who added that the reports from the different departments will "justify the action."

State missions, in all its phases, will occupy the center of the stage Wednesday morning of the convention," it was stated. At this time, Dr. Madry will outline his policies for next year. An evangelist conference has been arranged to meet in Winston-Salem a day before the convention convenes. Rev. Heman T. Stevens, head of the department, will preside and Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Louisiana, will deliver two of the principal addresses. He also will address the convention.

Other speakers on the program are Dr. E. Y. Martin, of Louisville, Kentucky, who has just returned from a trip to Europe in the interest of the Baptist mission work in that country; Dr. L. R. Scarborough, Fort Worth, Texas, general director of the $75,000,000 campaign; Dr. J. F. Love, secretary of the Baptist foreign mission board at Richmond, Va., and Dr. B. D. Gray, of the home board in Atlanta. Dr. Mallis is president of the Southern Baptist convention and president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Dr. B. W. Spillman, of Kingston, who was elected president of the convention at the session last year in Rocky Mount, will preside and Rev. Walter M. Gilmore, of Sanford, will continue as recording secretary. Dr. Spillman has presided over the last four conventions. The convention sermon will be preached Tuesday night by Dr. W. A. Ayers, of New Bern, or his alternate, Dr. T. H. King, of Gastonia.

One of the features of the convention will be the visit to the Baptist hospital now nearing completion here. The only invitation for the next convention extended to date is that of North Wilkesboro. Winston-Salem entertained the convention in 1901 and 1911, these being the only such sessions of the church held there.

BUSINESS METHODS' IS SUBJECT OF ROTARIANS

Subject Discussed in Fine Fashion by Ed. Sauvain and Julian Miller. The Concord Rotary Club held its November night meeting at the Y Tuesday night, and it proved one of the most interesting of the year. "Business Methods" was the subject of the meeting, and the subject was handled in a masterful way by Edward Sauvain, chairman of the program committee, and Julian Miller, of the Charlotte club.

Other features of the meeting were musical numbers rendered by Mrs. J. R. Womble and Mr. Hefflin, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. J. F. Reed; and a turkey dinner. Mrs. Womble, who is always heard with delight, sang two numbers, and was followed by Mr. Hefflin, who sang two numbers also. They closed the musical program with "The Rosary," using this beloved song for a duet. Mrs. Hefflin was also a guest of the club at the meeting, as was Rev. L. A. Thomas, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church.

The club decided to enter an attendance contest with the Salisbury club. The contest, if the Salisbury club agrees, will begin January first and continue through that month and February. The losing club, according to the Concord proposal, will be host to the winning club at a joint meeting.

President Richmond stated at the beginning of the meeting that so far homes had been secured for 150 delegates expected here for the Older Boys' Conference, which begins Friday. He stated that homes for about 75 additional boys were needed, and asked the club members to talk it over with the "mama" and see if the club members could not provide more beds. He also stated that it was planned to serve a lunch to the delegates Saturday at noon, and suggested that the club help pay the expenses, as the Kiwanians will do. The club approved the suggestion and authorized the treasurer to pay the club's quota from the cash on hand.

Ed. Sauvain was given charge of the program after the routine business was disposed of, and he made a fine talk on "Business Methods." Ed. covered the subject in a masterful fashion, pointing out what he considered were essentials for success in business, and giving suggestions that would be helpful to any business man in the conduct of a successful business. Systems of procedure or methods of the best roads, display and publicity, own actions, hard study, initiative, unselfishness and democracy are the characteristics needed by a business man in the successful conduct of his business, Ed. pointed out.

Miller was introduced to John Oglesby as the "editor of the best editorial page in North Carolina." Julian Miller, who has never heard of a more gifted speaker. "A Second Joe Turner" he was called, and hereafter he will occupy a peculiar place in the hearts of Concord Rotarians.

Julian was gracious in his praise for the excellent attendance record the Concord Club has made. "Attendance is half of Rotary," he said, and he urged the members to continue their attendance.

Julian gave a new conception of Rotary, and it was unanimously accepted by the club members. There is no one sentence that will describe Rotary, he said. It has the social life, which is a fine feature, but it can't be called a social club, for it is more than that. It is not merely an ethical system, he said. And its slogan, "Service Above Self," and "He Profits Most Who Serves the Best," do not tell the entire story of the organization, he further declared.

"It was only recently that I found a phrase in the code of ethics which I think is the solid foundation upon which Rotary is built," he continued. "That phrase says 'In the conduct of our business we are bound to give an added service beyond debt or obligation.' In other words when you do unto others as you would have them do unto you, you are in the right direction, but you haven't reached the goal of Rotary. You must do more than you expect others to do unto you."

This code will settle all industrial disputes, he said. It is easy to find capital which will give labor a dollar for a dollar's worth of labor, and it is easy to find labor that will give capital a dollar's worth of labor for a dollar, he pointed out further, but that isn't enough. They should give more than the dollar's worth. "What industry needs is the spirit of Rotary, which speaks not in terms of direct ratio. Rotary's language is the language of excess, of the bonus. Such a language will cure the evils of the world if universally adopted."

Julian declared that recently he heard Dr. Barker, who is to speak here, and that Dr. Barker then explained what he termed the acme of service. He pictured the scene of Christ with his disciples in the upper room, the night before the Savior was to die. At that time Jesus took water and a towel and washed and wiped the feet of His disciples. "Dr. Barker used that illustration to show the acme of service," Julian declared, "and for some time I thought he was right. And then I saw through the thing. I saw that the greatest service rendered by Christ was not in washing the feet of His disciples, for they were his friends. There are many men whose feet we would wash and wipe, for they are our friends. And Christ reached the acme of service when he knelt and washed and wiped the feet of the man whom he knew had betrayed him. That was the true test of service. That's using a language that does not speak in direct ratio. That's following the directions of Scripture which tells us to go two miles with a man when he tells us to go a mile with him. That's the true spirit of Rotary."

N. C. STATE VS. MARYLAND UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL

Great Interest in Game to Be Played Tomorrow at Raleigh. (By the Associated Press.)

Raleigh, Nov. 29.—With gridiron warriors of both teams in perfect physical condition, North Carolina State and Maryland University today were ready to clash in their second annual football battle here tomorrow. The Carolina Technicians were put through their final workout this afternoon by Coach Harry Hartzell. "Dutch" Holland, the State's star end, and Frank Boston pivot man, who were kept off the Wake Forest contest last Saturday on account of injuries, were back in the lineup.

Park, who has been suffering with an injured leg since the V. M. I. game several weeks ago; Captain Floyd and Cleve Henry, who were on the sidelines Saturday, will be in the thick of the battle tomorrow, according to Coach Hartzell. The Maryland aggregation is one of the heaviest in the southern conference this year and has shown a remarkable improvement since being defeated by North Carolina University last month. Coach Curley Byrd's men defeated Catholic University Saturday, 54 to 0, at College Park, Maryland.

North Carolina State's season schedule will come to an end with tomorrow's game and advance sale of tickets indicates a large crowd of football fans will be present.

NO FURTHER CLINICS TO TREAT SCHOOL CHILDREN

This Does Not Mean That Work Has Been Permanently Abandoned. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—Announcement that the state board of health has adopted a policy not to hold any further clinics for treatment of school children in North Carolina counties in the immediate future and parent-teacher organizations, was made by Dr. G. M. Hooper, director of the division of school health supervision, here today.

This decision was reached by the board after having held what were termed special clinics in 71 counties since May 2 to November 17, during which 2,487 children underwent operations. Eleven hundred and twenty-six of this number, it was stated, were given free surgical and hospital treatment in temporary hospitals set up at each clinic. "After having presented such an example of this great work," said Dr. Hooper, "we feel that we can leave the clinics to the local medical profession to carry on with the teachers and parent-teacher organizations. Students needing medical attention should be cared for, either through private channels or public clinics."

"Our decision to stop holding clinics for the present does not mean we have permanently abandoned them. Action by the superintendent as to whether the $50,000 appropriation for this special work will be renewed and possible legislative action by the general assembly will determine finally whether we shall resume the work," he said.

SECOND DAY OF FILIBUSTER

Democrats Started It Today Immediately Upon Closing of Senate. (By the Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 29.—Democrats started the second day of their filibuster against the republican-sponsored anti-lynching bill today immediately upon the convening of the Senate. The first move was a demand for a quorum call by Senator Underwood, of Alabama, the democratic leader, as soon as the chaplain concluded his prayer. The roll call finished. Senator Underwood presented a motion to adjourn until Friday.

Senator Curtis, of Kansas, republican whip, broke in with a point of order, and in arguing his point declared the four-hour filibuster waged yesterday was without precedent since the "force bill" was debated to death in the early nineties.

ENTIRE SQUAD IS IN FINE CONDITION

The Old Dominion Team Has Several Cripples, However, and Its Lineup Has Not Been Decided Upon.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 29.—The North Carolina football team, one of the four teams left in the South without a defeat that would affect its standing, was today said to be ready for its game with Virginia tomorrow, and with every man on the squad of approximately 25 reported in fine physical condition.

The team left here last night for the run to Charlottesville, Va., and after a light practice today at Lynchburg will spend the night there and go on to Charlottesville tomorrow morning for its 26th annual gridiron clash with the Old Dominion eleven. The team that represents the Tar Heel state this year is a unique one for every man on the squad is a resident of North Carolina, according to records here, and in addition to that, it is hailed as the greatest eleven that the University has turned out in many years.

The players are almost all veterans of last year's squad, and are regarded by their followers as favorites over Virginia in tomorrow's game.

Virginia Lineup Uncertain

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 29.—The University of Virginia gridiron warriors went through only light signal practice today in preparation for their game here tomorrow with the University of North Carolina eleven, while coaches Campbell and Abel watched their work closely with a view to selecting the men they will start in the backfield. Virginia will go into the contest determined to avenge their 7 to 3 defeat of last year. It will be the 26th game between the two institutions, Virginia having won 17 times and the Tar Heels 7. The game in 1902 ended in a 12 to 12 tie.

NEGRO QUESTION BEFORE THIRD INTERNATIONAL

One Negro Delegate Suggested That Communist Party Support the Negro Movement Everywhere. Moscow, Nov. 29 (By the Associated Press).—The negro question came before an open session of the third international today. President Koloff proposed that detailed reports on the negro be submitted for the purpose of clarifying the subject for European members who are unfamiliar with the problem in other countries.

One negro delegate suggested that the communist party support the negro movement everywhere in connection with a proposal to call a Congress at Moscow of all the revolutionary organizations of the world to realize a united front of all workers against capitalism and imperialism. The speakers said the political rights of the negroes in the United States were mere scraps of paper, and that for a long time capitalists had been spreading propaganda among the negroes in favor of the white capitalists, and against white workers. Until now, he said, the workers had done nothing to counteract this.

C., Nov. 29.—A movement to have the Asheville-Monroe high school football game Saturday played in Charlotte instead of Salisbury as scheduled, has been started by Charles Walker and the local clubbers of commerce. Monroe residents are said to favor the plan on the ground that Charlotte is more easily reached by them than Salisbury, but Asheville was to be heard from here. Hutchins Says No Change Will Be Made. Asheville, Nov. 29.—A. J. Hutchins, principal of the Asheville High School, stated today that a plan to have the Asheville-Monroe game played in Charlotte next Saturday instead of in Salisbury would not be considered, because of the "attitude" taken against the Asheville team by Charlotte sport writers.

NORTH CAROLINA IS AN APPLE GROWING EMPIRE

Every Advantage Is Found in the Western Part of the State. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29.—Western North Carolina stands out as the greatest undeveloped apple empire east of the Mississippi, according to a bulletin on "The Growing of Apples in North Carolina," prepared by C. D. Matthews, chief of the state division, issued today.

In selecting a location for growing apples, it was stated, a section possessing the greatest balance of both natural and economic advantages for the development of the industry should be chosen. All these advantages cheap land, a salubrious climate and a long growing season—may be found in the western part of the state, according to the bulletin. "This territory commands adjacent markets and is served by excellent rail and highway routes," it is added. "The commercial production of apples has developed to a much greater extent in the mountain section than in the upper Piedmont, but there are splendid opportunities for production in the latter section, and the culture of apples will prove a most remunerative business when given intelligent attention, the best practices are employed, and when the most desirable varieties are planted. "The Appalachian Mountain region, however, seems to be the native home of the apple," it was stated. Soil, climate, topography, altitude and rainfall are given as its chief advantages in making it "one of the finest apple regions in the United States."

ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION SHIPPING BILL IN HOUSE

Massachusetts Republican Representative Among Those Opposing It. (By the Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 29.—Attacking the administration shipping bill in the House today Representative Andrew, Republican of Massachusetts, basing the measure still offered a dangerous precedent "which if adopted will bound us for years to come." Opposing the bill as republican leaders were speeding it toward the point of passage, the speech exacted unusual interest, since Mr. Andrew represents a district in one of the principal maritime states. The easiest course he said, was to support the bill. "But no member wants to see a bill run through which involves an expenditure of public money," he said "unless he is convinced that expenditure will bring at least an equal return, and will not constitute a bad precedent for future legislation."

MR. BLAIR LIKES SITE OF NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Regards It as One of the Best School Sites in the State. Mr. John J. Blair, director of the division of schoolhouse planning of the State Department of Public Instruction, recently made a visit to Concord to inspect the site for the new high school building. The following is his report to the State Board of Education:

"I wish to report to the Department a brief account of my recent visit to Concord, North Carolina, for the purpose of inspecting there a site which has recently been selected, upon which to erect a high school building. "I cannot tell you how pleased I was to find that they had acquired a liberal tract of land comprising about 17 acres. The people there do not realize now what it means to have reclaimed for all future time almost in the heart of the city an area of land of this extent. This land, otherwise, would have very soon been built up with cabins, tenements, and buildings of a nondescript type, which would be surrounded by streets which are being hard surfaced and adequate sidewalks from three or four different approaches; thus, making it accessible to almost any section of the city. One distinct advantage of the site is that the main entrance to the building is only two blocks from Union street, which is the main residential and business street of the city. It also happens that the front entrance can face the street leading from Union street to the building, so that it can be distinctly seen from the main thoroughfare. This is a wonderful opportunity which the town has of adding to its municipal architecture. "The contour of the land is such as to lend itself to artistic treatment by a landscape architect. The character of the soil is such that it will not readily erode after a heavy rain and never become muddy to any extent. From the east is a level meadow which can be developed into an athletic field of sufficient size for all forms of high school athletics. There is another section splendidly adapted for tennis, basketball and other games for the larger girls of the schools. It is easy to see that this property will be developed eventually into a beautiful park and recreation ground, to which the entire city can have access; thus, making it a notable civic center such as few towns the size of Concord can enjoy. So great are the possibilities for beautifying and utilizing to the best advantage this tract of land that I have recommended to the chairman that they appoint a landscape architect to aid in the proper location of the building, the laying out of walks and drives and the planting of trees, shrubs and flowers in an orderly and scientific manner. "I regard this as one of the noblest school sites of the State and can not tell you how pleased I was to find that the school authorities had gotten possession of it."
