Trinity Students Get West Point Appointments

Durham, Feb. 3.—South Carolina boys who are going to West Point seem to prefer getting started from Trinity College. Two members of the freshmen class at Trinity and one member of the sophomore class now hold appointments to the army institution. They are G. B. Caldwell, of Monroe; R. F. Sink, of Lexington, and Clay Briggers, of Raleigh.

Caldwell, for the past two years guard and tackle on Trinity's football players, is one of the youngest varsity men in the state and owes his stuff to the queen's taste. He goes to Fort McPherson March 6 to stand a physical examination. At the same time Sink and Briggers will go to Fort Monroe for an examination. In case the young men pass the physical tests they will report at West Point on July 2.

High Point Starts a Big Building Program

High Point, Feb. 2.—Building permits calling for an aggregate expenditure of $225,550 in construction work were issued here during January, according to figures compiled today. This figure is one of the highest reached here in a number of months, although January is usually considered a bad building month.

One of the permits issued during the month called for the construction of an $80,000 store building by the J. J. Cox estate, while another was issued to the Parker and Hayworth Company for the building of a $30,000 store building. But the majority of the permits were for new dwellings.

Getting Him Going

Father (from upstairs)—"Helen, isn't it time for the young man to go home?"

Young man—"Your father is a crank."

Father (overhearingly)—"Well, when you don't have a self-starter, a crank comes in mighty handy."

Sidestepping Mrs. Grundy

"Why do you go on the balcony when I sing? Don't you like to hear me?"

"It isn't that. I want the neighbors to see that I'm not beating my wife."

AGENT FROM KENTUCKY RAIDS NATIONAL CAPITAL

J. L. Asher, Operating Under Guise From Ash Cart Driver to Kentucky Colonel

Washington, Feb. 2.—J. L. Asher, revenue agent from the Kentucky mountains, who came to Washington three weeks ago and has put in his time since in guises ranging from an ash cart driver to a Kentucky colonel at a fashionable ball, today directed more than 60 capital revenue agents and police in liquor raids on 60 places, netting the arrest of about 90 persons, including 12 women, and the confiscation of more than 300 gallons of intoxicants.

Evidence for the raids, which were begun in five police precincts at 11 o'clock this morning and were not completed until late in the day, the most all-inclusive campaign conducted in the city since the advent of prohibition, was obtained almost entirely by Asher.

The five precinct stations presented their busiest appearances in years as bondsmen hastened to gain the release of prisoners, practically all of whom were held for $1,500 bail, and police and revenue agents guarded prisoners and directed the storage of huge supplies of corn whisky, bonded goods and wine carried in from the raided homes in government trucks and automobiles. In only one instance were the raiders disappointed by failure to find the goods described by the Kentuckian.

Asher first drove into the underworld in quest of the bootleggers' rendezvous aboard an ice wagon as a helper. He then switched to an ash cart and quickly caught the trail of victims as he picked up the "compliers" in all corners of the city. Then as a coal wagon driver he got into the homes again, assisting in storing away the coal and modestly accepting pint bottle rewards. He later appeared as a lawyer.

Before long Asher had won the confidence of the principal bootleggers in various sections and, by aiding to store away the goods in his capacity as a wagon driver and helper, he gained knowledge of numerous and clever hiding places for the goods.

With this evidence in hand, the raids went quickly to secret caches, these including holes in the wall, baby cribs, pianos, victrolas and chicken coops. In one home, more than 10 gallons of liquor was found tucked away behind the wall moldings in various rooms.

One woman was reported by Asher to be selling liquor in baby milk nursing bottles and the police confiscated more than a dozen such receptacles, well-filled, from her home.

As a retired Kentuckian colonel at a recent ball, Asher was introduced to several alleged bootleggers, who were arrested today. He posed as an agent preparing to ship considerable whisky here from Kentucky.

So complete was the agent's disguise that while returning to police headquarters one day as a tramp with several quart bottles bulging from his pockets he was arrested by his immediate superior before the officer discovered his identity.

The raids were conducted under the supervision of Lieutenant C. O. Davis, of the police force, and B. G. Ruby, Washington chief of revenue agents. In two instances the agents raided four homes simultaneously within one city block.

Y. M. C. A. to Show Religious Pictures Sunday Afternoon at 3:30 O'clock

There will be a religious story in pictures at the Y Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be two reels and both promise to be very interesting. The first reel will be a story based on Foley's poem "The People Shall Be My People." We see Greeks, Russians, Frenchmen, Irishmen, Swedes, American and Dutch, unformed in khaki become "Yank" only. The film is titled "Yanks."

Following this will come an illustration in applied Christianity in the film "The Hope of Russia." It tells how the "Y"—that stalwart arm of the church—taught cleanliness and Godliness to the people of Russia in Vladivostok. It speaks of the hope of Russia and all far places of the earth when plastic childhood even amid the din of Bolshevism is brought under the never-to-be-forgotten teaching of western Christian civilization.

Didn't want to get there. "Why are you so late, Bobby Jones?" "Please teacher, I saw a sign—" "What has a sign to do with it?" "It said, 'School Ahead—Go Slow.'" Shutter Shut.

Once I heard a mother mutter. Daughter, go and shut the shutter; Shutter's shot, the daughter uttered, I can't shut it any shutter.

Secrets of Ancient Egypt

London, Feb. 3.—Throughout the civilized world people have been reading eagerly of the recent remarkable discoveries made in the tomb of King Tutankhamen by Lord Carnarvon and his party of Egyptologists, which includes several Americans. The discoveries are regarded as the most important of their kind made in many years.

Three thousand five hundred years ago King Tutankhamen was Lord of Egypt, then one of the richest and most powerful nations of history. Joshua was still leading the Israelites; Rome had not been founded, and the greater part of Europe was largely a waste of swamp and forest, inhabited by barbaric tribes.

But Egypt was a civilized country, whose mighty buildings were the wonder of the world. Her artists were doing work that cannot be bettered today, and her jewelers were skilled in dealing with precious stones and metal.

Tutankhamen, one of her greatest kings, was laid to rest with extraordinary pomp. From accounts still in existence it is known that more than $25,000,000 worth of treasure was buried with him.

His tomb has now been found, and most wonderful of all, has never been interfered with since the day when his successor's Great Chamberlain placed his seals upon its doors. Other royal tombs have been found in plenty, but all of them had been rifled by the marauding bands of Arabs who robbed and looted during Egypt's later years.

Tutankhamen's tomb owes its preservation to a rather curious circumstance. Some years after Tutankhamen's death another Pharaoh died, and his tomb was built close by Tutankhamen's resting place, and, as luck would have it, they dumped the earth from their excavations right on top of its entrance, burying it so completely that it has lain hidden for more than thirty centuries. It was by the merest chance that Lord Carnarvon's party came across it.

The tomb has yielded marvelous wealth. The Egyptians believed that a dead man took to the other world all that was buried with him. They therefore placed in his tomb everything that he needed in life. Food, clothing, hunting gear, jewelry, household furniture, musical instruments—in fact, every necessity and every luxury were buried with the dead. Besides providing one of the most wonderful collections of treasure the world has ever seen, the contents of the tomb of King Tutankhamen will also show us exactly how the Egyptians lived centuries before the beginning of the Christian era.

INDUSTRY AND TRADE ACTIVE IN DECEMBER

Number of Business Failures Showed Marked Decrease Compared With 1921.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 2.—Practically every industry and trade in the fifth federal reserve district showed unusual activity during December, in comparison with other months of 1922 and in many respects it was the best business month of the year, according to the monthly statement and summary issued today by the federal reserve bank of Richmond.

Textile mills in the district continued to run on practically a full-time basis, the report said, and consumed 25 per cent of the cotton used in the United States during the month. Cotton growers profited from the continued rise in prices, it was said, the benefits to North Carolina being especially marked. Tobacco yields were said to be much larger than in the previous year and prices were several cents per pound higher.

Retail trade was excellent during the month, but wholesale business was seasonally dull, the statement showed. Collections on the whole were reported distinctly better than in preceding months.

The number of business failures showed a marked decrease as compared with December, 1921, the report stated, the per cent for the district being greater than for the entire country.

"Condition reports of member banks in leading cities of the district," said the statement, "show that the banks are entering the new year with loans reduced and liquid resources much increased * * * and are therefore in far better position to care for expanding needs of their customers as production increases and sales pick up."

Cash reserves of the bank were listed at $114,385,915.75 on January 17, 1923, as compared with reserves of $71,103,400.54 on January 18, last year. Borrowings of member banks declined, the statement showed, from $88,929,527.98 on January 18, 1922, to $38,620,807.98 on January 17, 1923. "Labor is fully and profitably employed," the report said, "and sufficient new work is in immediate prospect to guarantee a job to any person who really wants one."

Maxwell Again Declares State Faces Deficit

Raleigh, Feb. 2.—Approving the action of the general assembly in naming a committee to investigate the condition of the state's finances, as requested by Governor Cameron Morrison today, when he addressed a joint meeting of the legislature, and disavowing any personal animosity toward the governor or his administration, Corporation Commissioner A. J. Maxwell tonight issued a statement to the Associated Press in which he continues to insist that a deficit of more than $5,000,000 exists in the operating fund of the state, instead of the alleged prospective surplus upon which the budget commission acted.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.
