WAGS COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF MORRISON

Opposition Largely Generated by Personal Antagonism.—Says University and College People Should Rally to Governor.

Asheville, Feb. 5.—"At this distance it looks to me as if his enemies have conspired to compass his humiliation and undoing regardless of consequences," said former Governor Craig in a statement given from his sick bed here, in which he says the faculty and students of the University State College, Greensboro Normal and the people of the state should support Governor Morrison against sensational attacks upon him and his administration.

"It looks to me as if the opposition to Governor Morrison's legislative program is largely generated by personal antagonism and enmity," said Governor Craig.

Governor Craig served North Carolina as governor from 1913 to 1916 and his administration was known as a progressive one, therefore the statement issued by him today, which is his first in many months, is considered significant by those who are familiar with the events of the past few days in the state's capital.

"There are some who cannot stand for a man to lead, although he is leading for those things which he has advocated," said Governor Craig without mentioning any name. "Governor Morrison's plans for the development of the state have been magnificent and heretofore they have succeeded." He said the faculty of the University, State College and Greensboro Normal, with the students, should speak in the governor's defense.

"At this distance," the former governor's statement continues, "it looks to me as if Governor Morrison's enemies have conspired to compass his humiliation and undoing regardless of consequences. I cannot conceive how Mr. Maxwell a member of the governor's administration, should have published his sensational statement, admitting the truth of it, before consulting and advising with the governor, with the treasurer and the council of state, unless he wished to wreck the governor's plans at this critical moment. Was this all staged at an opportune time to defeat the governor or to delay important measures, so that the legislature could not consider them before adjournment? Was it all staged to humiliate and beat him?"

STATE COLLEGE NEEDS OUTLINED IN REPORT

College Has Grown Last Year and More Improvement Is Still Needed.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 5.—Approximately $228,000 of the $600,000 appropriated by the general assembly of 1922 for new buildings and additions at North Carolina State College has been expended, according to the biennial report of W. C. Haddock, president, to Governor Cameron Morrison.

An agricultural extension building, $200,000; mechanical engineering building, $100,000; dormitory for 100 students, $125,000, and an addition to the dining hall, which will accommodate 750 men, $45,000 are the chief improvements made during the period, it is stated. The net worth of the college plant on June 30, 1922 was estimated at $1,523,133.88.

In addition to the building program, the institution has extended and partly reconstructed the steam-heating lines, to make necessary general repairs in buildings and permanent improvements for the college grounds, in the way of curbing, gutting and drainage, it is asserted.

The legislature of 1921 also increased our appropriation for maintenance and operation from $150,000 to $275,000 a year, the report continues. "These further liberal appropriations enabled us to meet the most urgent needs and improve conditions at the college very greatly."

In spite of all that has been done, the college is not prepared to care properly even for its present enrollment. The enrollment of the present session will probably reach thirteen hundred, and the number applying for admission next season undoubtedly will be greater, and still greater the following year, while the number of new students that can be admitted will be less each year on account of the greater number of upper classmen.

"There must be more teachers, more laboratories, more classrooms, more dormitories, a gymnasium, a library, and more equipment and more appropriations for maintenance if the college is expected to meet the ever-increasing demands of the state for the agricultural, technical and industrial education of its young men."

A summary of the urgent needs of the college, the details of which were presented to the budget commission, is as follows:

- Library, building and equipment $225,000
- Chemistry and physics building 150,000
- Two dormitories (for 250 students) 300,000
- Addition to textile building 75,000
- Agricultural Engineering building 60,000
- Greenhouses 10,000
- Animal husbandry and dairy building 100,000
- Vegetable Oil Building 25,000
- Hospital building 60,000
- Gymnasium and armory 200,000
- Permanent equipment for various departments 400,000

"The above is presented as a two year building and equipment program and provides the most immediate needs of the college for its present enrollment, with an estimated increase of two hundred students each year for the next two years. The present appropriation for the maintenance and operation of the college is $275,000 a year. As shown in the budget, the necessary expansion in the departments now existing in the college, and the introduction of certain others which are demanded, will require an annual appropriation of $390,000 for the next two years, which means an increase of $115,000 over the preceding year."

The budget commission recommended a maintenance fund of $365,000 for each of the next two years and $1,350,000,000 for permanent improvements at the State college.

"The total enrollment last session was 1,205," the report continues, "the
