

Griddle Cakes

Light, tender, golden brown—no other griddle cakes are like those baked with Calumet. No substitute will give you the same result as

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Its purity contributes to the wholesomeness of your bakings. It's pure in the can and pure in the baking.

This superiority—this exceptional quality of Calumet—does not cost you a cent extra—not a cent. In fact it saves you money.

Calumet is the most economical of all Baking Powders. You save when you buy it—moderate in price. You save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it is used with—never fails.

Contains only such ingredients as have been approved officially by United States Food Authorities.

The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other brand.

Calumet Griddle Cakes

2 level cups flour
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 level tablespoon sugar
2 level tablespoons melted shortening
2 eggs—yolks
1 1/2 cups milk or water

How to Make Them
Mix dry ingredients in flour. Beat egg yolks and melted shortening in the liquid, add only a part of the liquid—mix until thoroughly smooth. Then add gradually the balance of the liquid until the batter is of the proper consistency. According to the strength of the flour more or less liquid is required. Bake on hot griddle well greased.

Paste in your Recipe Book for future reference.

BEST BY TEST

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

THE NEW NORTH STATE.

University News Letter.

Once it was the Old North State—a sweet memory, a pathetic lament—the Rip Van Winkle State, asleep for two full centuries.

Now it is the New North State—awake at last, wide awake—refreshed and renewed by her long sleep—vigorous, and aflame with the early morning visions of youth—boastful—blatant, if you please—chock-full of bla-bla and blurb, after the manner of a robust, two-fisted male youngster in the pin-feather stage of development—conscious of his power and immodestly boastful.

North Carolina is actually beginning to believe in herself and to boast of herself gracefully, for all the world like Atlanta, Chicago, the Atlanta of the West, was The Constitution headline when Cleveland reached the Windy City in his Swing Around the Circle in the days of his presidency.

Atlanta has been the butt of many a merry jest. She's shameless in her boasting. Henry Grady began it and the very kids keep it up. It is the spirit of indestructible youth, and youth wins. Atlanta proves it. California proves it. And in particular Los Angeles.

Los Angeles bonds herself a hundred dollars per inhabitant, spends thirty millions on a water-supply system, and twelve millions more on a man-made harbor twelve miles away. She stands right up and blows about it, pictures it in the magazines the world around, and she doubles her population and quadruples her wealth in a single decade.

North Carolina multiplies her public school fund twenty-times over in twenty years, spends forty-two million dollars in two years on public school buildings, equipment and support, one hundred and twenty-two millions of federal, state and local money on public highways, and pays another one hundred and twenty-two millions of taxes into the federal treasury on incomes, profits, estates and the like in a single year.

But sh-h-h! Nobody must mention it! It's immodest to say a word about it! North Carolina begins—barely begins—to cash in the immense assets that lie in her soils and seasons, forests and water-falls, mines and factories and just as she begins, her fervor is chilled by the charge that she is immoderate and unashamed in her boasting.

It was a Californian who said at Long Beach in 1921, North Carolina has got California beat a mile, and doesn't know it.

But North Carolina does know it in 1923 and she means to let the world know it.

It has taken her two centuries to develop gumption, grace and wit enough to lay down the foundations of a great commonwealth in public education, public health, and public highways. And she has the courage of her convictions.

She does not mean to hide her light under a bushel measure but to set it on a candlestick right out in the open for all the world to see.

The people of North Carolina know—at least they have been told often enough to know—that we are building good roads faster than any other state in the Union, Pennsylvania alone excepted; but also that our improved highways do not yet reach the total mileage of good roads in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania or California.

And they know, too, that the twenty million dollars we are spending on public schools this year is four times the sum we were spending for this purpose ten years ago; but also that we are still far behind the Middle Western states in public school support. And that in legislative appropriations for college culture, thirty-five states make a better showing than North Carolina. The University News Letter exhibited the facts away back yonder in July, 1922.

The State has not lost her sense of perspective. She is not swashbuckling, but she is doing great things of late and she's proud of them. She can display her wares, but she need not do it like Simple Simon of Mother Goose fame. She need not be provincial and parochial—which are polite terms for ignorance of what is happening in the big world beyond her borders.

So here's to the New North State. The old-age son of Sarah the barren. The bottle-fed boy brought up by Murphy and Morehead—schooled by Wiley, McIver, Noble, Alderman, Graham, Claxton, Joyner and Brooks—and licked into lustiness by Vance, Aycock, Bickett and Morrison! Who is now as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber and rejoicing as a strong man to run a race.

May he forever be rich in purse and poor in spirit! Always abounding in wealth and in willingness to devote it to the common weal and the commonwealth!

In the dictionary of determination there is no such word as failure. Wise men always remain optimists, however black the sky may be.

lege, where he is taking a short course of study.
Members of the community clubs at Howell, Bethel, Rocky River and Flowe, have launched a campaign for better schools. They say "inasmuch as the state makes no provision for the pupils above the seventh grade, that the patrons must provide for the higher grades."
When we look about us and see so many boys and girls who have completed the 7th grade, many of whom are in their early teens, whose parents are too poor to send them away to school, we say "Amen" to the movement. Why not have one high school in each township where needed to take care of these boys and girls. The best plan that we know would be to have a county levy of taxes for schools. For if such were the case it would make taxation less burdensome to those who live in special tax districts and would establish schools where they are most needed.
Children's Day exercises will be held at Bethel the fourth Sunday of this month. In addition to the program that will be rendered by the pupils of the Sunday school there will be two addresses by eminent speakers. The committee on arrangements is Mrs. Bain Green, Misses Mamie McEachern, Ethel Eudy, Sadie and Irene Black. Everybody is cordially invited. H.
