Structure Erected at Cost of $50,000—Hon. Clyde Hoey of Shelby, Made Principal Address of the Day.

Address of the Day.

The Camon Memorial Ruilding, the most imposing and the most coelly structure among those making up the plant of the Stonewall Jackson Training School, was formally dedicated Tuesday afternoon with exercises most betiting to the occasion. Several handred persons attended the exercises, many cities in the State being represented by interested spectators.

The exercises were held in a beautiful grove adjoining the property on which the Camon building was erected. A temporary pavilion housed the speakers, with whom sat Mrs. Jemes W. Camondonor of the building, and her children. The spectators were seated on chairs in the grove. To their right were the students of the school, who sat on improvised benches after marching to the grove in military fashion.

Every rank and file of citizenship was represented among those present, inficenting the general interest that has been aroused in the institution which care for unfortunate boys of the State. The high and low mingled in pleasing comradeship, and every feature of the appropriate program proved of interest to each person in the addience.

Before the dedication exercises began a number of the visitors made an inspection tour of the memorial building by the school. Others visited the rapidly growing and modern plant of the school, special interest being shown in the model dairy, said to be one of the finest in the State. The visitors were also taken through some of the contages, were shown the bakery, the laundry, the school rooms and the print shop. In the latter two youngsters not more than 12 years of age were delighted with the opportunity of demonstrating their ability in mantening of the school, special interest being shown in the model dairy, said to be one of the finest in the State. The invocation at the dedication exercises was delivered by Rev. W. A. Jensins, pastor of Central Methodist Church, after which the students of the school sang "Come Thou Almighty King," the first of several numbers rendered during the service. Chas. E. Boger, superintendent of the school, presided.

After the hynn Hon. David H. Blair, commissioner of Internal Revenue, and a son-in-law of Mrs. Caunon, presented the building to the institution. Mr. Blair declared the structure would assist the "building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the "building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the building of charaytes," and "is dedicated to the advancement of the world's architecture," said Mr. Blair in beginning. "Egypt gave to civilization the pyramids and obelisks, tombs and temples, monuments and places of vorship. For more than six thousand years before the birth of Christ, Greece developed the Doric, Iouic and the Corpinitian architecture, which with all the experience and progress of the ages have never been surgussed and seldom equaled. The Parthehon still stands upon the Acropolis in Athens, a model of symmetric beauty in harmon, line and proportion.

"The mames of the builders of these great structures in many instances are forgotten, but their great works stand as monuments to their genius and skill, and deeplie the fact that they are unknown to us, they still live and the influence of their creations have inspired the peoples of all agres.

"The world owes its progress and its advancement to builders, some of whom have devoted their lives and their talents to architecture, some to the building of great industries, some to commerce and the means of transportation, and others to the building of character, such as the profession of teaching and the matter to the building of character, such as the profession of teaching and the ministry. The constructive history of the world is the history of these buildiers.

Liquor Smuggled Into the United States
Brought Tax of $157.204.80.

(By the Associated Press.)
Hamilton, Bermuda, Sept. 12.—Americans who buy liquor from bootleggers contributed indirectly $157.204.80 to the government of Bermuda in the form of an export tax of $2.40 on each case shipped from the island between April, 1921, and September 1st, last.

During this period runs runners have taken out of Bermuda more than 50,000 cases, as well as 41 barrels of liquor, all of which has found a market in New York and vicinity. This total of more than 760,000 bottles which at ayerage prices of $8 a bottle would mean a return of $8,000,000 on cargoes that were bought here for about $1,000,000.

Over 1,000 at N. C. C. W. tin Greensboro, Sept. 12.—Over 1,000 students registered at the North Carolina W College for Women last Tuesday, the opening day of the fall session. At least 100 more were expected to register sin within a few days.

With the object of showing the appreciation of the Times and Tribune to the public spirited citizens who have made the Cabarrus County Fair to be opened here on October 16, possible ,the management intends to publish a special edition or or about October 9th devoted to informing the people of the surrounding counties, just what a splendid county fair has been planned.

The edition will contain a complete history of the short but busy career of the Cabarrus County Fair Association, with articles on the various sections of exhibits; the importance of Cabarrus County from an agricultural, manufacturing, and commercial point of view; the progress made in building, the growth of the city in its educational system; its churches; its club life; its public utilities; and its home life.

In Concord there is a community of prosperous, contented and industrious citizens, with the ambition to go forward. In the county air, the opportunity is afforded for farmers and manufacturers to take stock of the progress made in a spirit of friendly rivalry, and at the same time to enjoy the entertainment provided by the fair association.

It is the intention of the management to make the Cabarus County and Industrial Edition, a most creditable production, illustrated with pletures of the fair grounds, and other notable achievements in the history of the county. The edition will have the full circulation of both Tae Daily Tribune and the Sefni-Weekly Times and in addition will be mailed to public libraries and Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, so that those who are not aware of the wonderful possibilities for investment here in agriculture and industry may become better informed of the wealth which Cabarrus county is producing.

The management asks for the co-operation of the public in our endeavor to publish an edition which will be a credit to The Tribune and Times and the county. A great amount of extra work and expense is involved. Three extra employees have been secured to write special articles for the edition and to assist advertisers in connection with their copy. It will be impossible to let the work of publishing the whole of the edition accumulate, to be done at the last minute. In order to make a really creditable production, it is necessary to ask those co-operating with us with special articles and advertising to let us have copy as early as possible.
